THE WAR.

THE SECOND BATTLE OF KASSASSIN.

KASSASSIN, Sept. 9—9:20 a. m.—After 6 o'clock this morning the Bengal Lancers and scouts came in with news of the enemy approaching in great force on the north side of the railway. Our army was at once put in motion, and by 7 o'clock an artillery duel began.

Arabi's troops of all arms are spread over the entire ridge, and a mile and a half up the line. A train heavily armed has appeared.

Close to where I stand our forty-pounder and Krupp guns are placed, shelling the enemy's right. There is also a twenty-five-pounder a few yards off playing on the same position. We have the enemy's range exactly. One of our shells burst right over the enemy's ranks.

The Egyptian artillery have got our distance very well, and their shells are dropping steadily into our camp.

We have the horse artillery extended along a line half a mile in length, on the north side of the railway. They are firing rapidly, and at present the Egyptians are slowly retiring.

Up to this moment no casualties have occurred.

Reinforcements are just coming up from Mahsameh.

A Krupp gun recently captured from Arabi sent a shell nearly in front of his train.

Our infantry are slowly advancing, and the enemy slowly retreating.

KASSASSIN, Sept. 9—11 a. m.—Gen. Wolseley is now on his way to the front.

Troops are marching from Tel-el-Mahuta to Kassassin.

KASSASSIN, Sept. 9—Noon.—The attack of the enemy has been repulsed, but the action still continues along the whole front, which extends a distance of three miles.

All the troops are out from the British camp, and the wounded are now being brought in.

The total casualties are not yet exactly known, but the British loss is roughly estimated at 100 killed and wounded.

Many shells fell in the British camp before the enemy was repulsed.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Gen. Wolseley telegraphs the War Office from a point three and a half miles west of Kassassin lock, the following report of this morning's operations:

"SEPT. 9—NOON.—The enemy reconnoitered our advance posts with considerable force, all arms, at daybreak this morning. Gen. Willis advanced and attacked them, driving them back with loss. We have taken four guns. Our loss is very trifling. The enemy have retired into their works, from which they are now firing at 5,000 yards' range. I shall return to camp at Kassassin shortly with all the force. I have removed my camp there, as the railway, canal, and telegraph are now working fairly. We have found and buried the body of Lieut. Gribble."

KASSASSIN, Sept. 9—Evening.—Twenty of the enemy's dead were counted near one spot. Numbers of Egyptians were lying about fearfully wounded.

Our wounded include ten marines, whose wounds are serious.

The Thirteenth Bengal Lancers commenced the engagement and killed ten of the enemy. They lost one sikh in the first charge.

The lancers held their ground gallantly until the force arrived. Had the Highland Brigade come up and supported them we could ere now have captured Tel-el-Kebir.

Gen. Wolseley says that a very effective reconnaissance of the enemy's position was made during the engagement today.

The enemy's force in the engagement numbered 13,000 men with twelve guns.

Five guns and many prisoners were captured.

The British during the day advanced within range of Tel-el-Kebir.

Gen. Wolseley is at the front.

AT ISMAILIA.

ISMAILIA, Sept. 9.—As the water in the fresh-water canal is still falling, the lock-gates cannot be opened to allow boats to enter. Two steam-launches have been dragged bodily from the lake over the sand-hills and placed in the canal by the Highlanders, 200 of whom manned each rope.

AT PORT SAID.

PORT SAID, Sept. 9.—An Arab from Tel-el-Kebir who came in today reports that Arabi Pasha has diverted the canal from Ismailia round his intrenchments, in accordance with the recommendation of European engineers serving under him.

AT ALEXANDRIA.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 9.—During last night a small party of Arabs, whose object, it is supposed, was incendiarism, attempted to scale the ramparts between the Ramelah and Rosetta gates. One of the party was bayoneted by the sentry, and the remainder fled.

The Second Division is now in the harbor awaiting orders to disembark.

A Russian General arrived today in one of the imperial yachts to witness the operations.

Rifle firing at a point a considerable distance south of Lake Mareotis was heard here this morning. Heavy artillery firing was heard in the same direction some days ago. It is supposed Arabi Pasha's troops had quarreled with the Bedouins, and that hostilities ensued.

A large body of Bedouins approached Meks this morning. The English shelled them, but a small party succeeded in entering Meks. They were dislodged at the point of the bayonet.

The British shelled the Bedouins' intrenchments south of Meks during the whole afternoon.

AT CONSTANTINOPLE—NO FURTHER ALONG THAN BEFORE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 9.—The difficulty in regard to the final signing of the draft of the Anglo-Turkish Military Convention hinges upon the question whether the Turkish troops, having arrived at Port Said, will be allowed to disembark, or be required to await instructions from Gen. Wolseley. The Porte claims it had proved its sincerity by proclaiming Arabi Pasha a rebel, and that it is justified in expecting the immediate signing of the convention. Now England has the temerity to turn round and accuse Turkey of disloyalty because the Porte claims the right to land troops at Port Said. Here the matter rests, pending Lord Granville's instructions. Meanwhile, Dervisch Pasha and Baker Pasha have been ordered to defer their departure until the convention has been signed.

The proclamation against Arabi Pasha has produced considerable agitation among the Arabs, who generally regard Arabi Pasha as the savior of Islam. It is believed Arabi Pasha will promulgate a counter proclamation against the Sultan.

A dispatch from Egypt states that Arabi Pasha expelled all Turks and Circassians from his lines.

JENNINGS' REMARKS.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Jennings' special says: The newspaper-reading public here begin to be rather weary of the inflated reports from the seat of war, which occupy whole pages of the papers every day and have no more story to tell after all than Canning's needy knife-grinder. From Sir Garnet Wolseley downward, everybody in Egypt uses the most stilted language about ridiculous "affairs" and "actions" in which perhaps one man is wounded on each side, or it may be only a horse. Meanwhile Continental military critics are beginning to point out the numerous blunders that have been committed in the management of the campaign. Especially are they severe upon the English for allowing Arabi time to construct his earthworks and to rouse the country to oppose England, and they are unanimous in declaring that a few hundred men landed immediately after the bombardment of Alexandria would have sufficed to crush the Egyptian national leader. Sir Garnet Wolseley's complex strategy is contrasted very unfavorably with Sir Frederick Roberts' rapid movements in Afghanistan, where, your readers will remember, he made a march that is ranked among classic military performances. German military authorities, whose ability cannot be questioned, say contemptuously that Sir Garnet's tactics and inflated dispatches remind them of "the movements of a burlesque army in a comic opera." After a long account in the Times of a "tremendous cannonading lasting all day," the result, as reported by the Thunderer's correspondent, was six Egyptians killed. It is really becoming very difficult to treat these dispatches, which might have been written by Bombastes Furioso, with any seriousness. Meanwhile, there are reports published, apparently on official authority, that large reinforcements are to be dispatched to Egypt, although, as I have already told your readers, there are already over 40,000 men under command of Sir Garnet Wolseley, who can at last claim to have been intrusted with more powerful armies than were furnished to the Duke of Wellington, if he is not making as much use of them. It is also rumored with some persistence that Turkey has offered to transfer Egypt to England upon the same terms as Cyprus. At present Mr. Gladstone's conscientious scruples prevent him from accepting the offer, if, indeed, such an offer has been seriously made. But it would by no means be safe to lay long odds to a great amount that the Premier's scruples will not vanish, as they have often vanished before, when it begins to be seen that England must exercise a temporary protectorate which is mostly likely to become permanent.

GREAT BRITAIN.

SMALLEY'S CABLE LETTER.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The New York Tribune received the following special cable this evening:

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Dullness prevails in home politics. Even the cutlers' feast passed off calmly. James Lowther told the Irish that the soldiers and the police were the only agency ruling in Ireland. The Liberals hope that this bluntness will cause the Irish to refrain from supporting the Tory candidates, for the Liberals consider remedial legislation as important as force, moderation, and firmness. The Viceroy's exhortations to the Catholic clergy tided over the police difficulty. The attitude of the Lord Mayor disgusted the English public. It is the general opinion that he and his section of the Corporation showed less concern about the safety of the citizens than delight at the embarrassment of the Government. The speeches made by the Lord-Mayor of Dublin at the banquet given to the Mayor of Chicago and at meetings respecting the police and Hynes, the murderer, show Mr. Dawson's eagerness to court popularity from the lowest ranks of the disaffected classes. In Parliament Mr. Dawson is fussy and bumptious, rather than mischievous. His conduct in the past three weeks leads the loyal public to regard him with less favor. Last week's meeting of Chinese merchants, when they determined to invite Chinese labor to England, aroused indignation among certain organizations of the working classes. If the Chinese venture into the English labor market, there will certainly be serious trouble. The iron and coal miners are preparing for a great strike in October. If persisted in, it will not be calculated to improve the workmen's position. The recent benefits to employers are so doubtful or so small that suspensions of work may be a positive relief in accelerating prices of material.

The Lyceum Theatre reopened with "Romeo and Juliet," which piece continues to draw large houses. Flimsy farces from the French, with the most wicked parts omitted, but strongly indicated, are favorits with adapters. Albery's "Little Miss Muffet," one of this class, produced a few days ago, met with an indifferent reception. Wyndham's new theatre in Northumberland avenue will contain every modern appliance for comfort. Mr. Wyndham traveled abroad for ideas. The Novelty Theatre is approaching completion, and the shareholders have promised special advantages for admission. The committee make new pieces of new writers a feature of the management.

Longfellow's bust committee displays healthy activity.

The recent visit of bad weather interfered with harvest, sportsmen, and the Queen's court in Scotland.

It has leaked out that the object of the Prince of Wales' visit to the German baths was simply to reduce stoutness, as he is not in the slightest ill-health.

OTHER BRITISH AND IRISH NEWS.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The British bark Canomel, from Sunderland for Java, has foundered. The crew, numbering twenty, were drowned.

Miss Fanny Davenport, the American actress, appeared at Toole's Theatre tonight as Diane, in "The Countess de Lys," a new play adapted from the French of Dumas, the younger. She was well supported. Miss Davenport was well received and called before the curtain. The audience was composed in great part of Americans.

NEW YORK.

The Gun of One of the British Rifle Team Tampered With.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—In the rifle practice at Creedmoor today Capt. Mellish, of the British team, discovered after shooting at the 200 yards' range that his gun had been tampered with. His score in the second stage of the competition on Friday was remarkable compared with those he had previously made, and he could not account for it. An inspection of the gun showed a ragged crease in the grooving, extending into the muzzle of the gun about three inches. Taken in consideration with the fact that the Captain lost £20 which was in a box in his room, it was surmised that a waiter employed at the hotel who disappeared on Friday had been bribed to injure the gun, and also made off with the money. Capt. Mellish said he could not tell when his money was stolen. He first missed it this morning when he went to his box for some article. "It was done by some of those blasted pool-sellers," said Sir Henry Halford, emphatically. The theory of the members of the team is that the gun was injured by some person while Capt. Mellish was absent from the wooden cottage in which he lodges, either at dinner or while he was taking a stroll about the grounds. The incident caused quite as much indignation among the members of the American team as it did among the British team.

The Young Aristocrat Let Down Very Easy.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Davidson-Kinne malpractice case came to an end today, and both parties under arrest were released from custody. The Coroner's jury was composed of physicians, all homeopathists, the school to which Dr. Kinne belongs. Mr. Davidson said on the witness-stand that he had to pay the Doctor $2,000 for the operation on his wife. Dr. Kinne testified that when called in he found the lady in high fever, and that she insisted that something be done to help her. There was no consideration offered or accepted for the committal of any improper act. The patient's illness and the death of her child were due to a congestive chill which she caught at Saratoga. The jury found that Dr. Kinne did all that professional skill and the humanity of a kind physician could suggest for the relief of his patient, and that the child came to its death from natural causes. The prisoners Mr. Davidson and Dr. Kinne, were thereupon discharged, and so ends the great scandal.

Hynes, of Buffalo, Secretary of the Irish National Land League of America; Alexander Sullivan, of Chicago; and Dr. W. B. Wallace, of this city, met at the Astor House today to make appointments for the series of lectures to be delivered by the Hon. A. M. Sullivan, of Ireland, who is expected here next Wednesday. They fixed the following dates: New York City, Sept. 18; Chicago, Oct. 2; St. Paul, Oct. 5; Des Moines, Oct. 9; Buffalo, Oct. 14; Toronto, Oct. 16; Syracuse, Oct. 18. The dates for Boston, Philadelphia, and St. Louis are not yet announced. Mr. Sullivan will speak in Central Music-Hall, Chicago.

Attachments Issued.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—In the Supreme Court today a suit was commenced against Henry C. Nutt, of Chicago, by the Continental National Bank to recover about $20,000 on promissory notes. An attachment has been granted against Nutt's property in this city.

In the suit brought by Walter and Michael Thosburn, of Huddersfield, England, against George Fendle and Charles Waite Jr., of Cincinnati, the Supreme Court today granted an attachment against the property of defendants in this city. It is alleged that they were concealing their property to defraud their creditors.

An attachment was granted by the Supreme Court today against the property in this city of William L. Wittshire and William P. Thomas, stock brokers of Cincinnati, at the instance of William McEsty, to recover $3,281, a balance claimed to be due on certain stock transactions.

Death of Col. Edward S. Sanford.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Col. Edward S. Sanford, Vice-President of the Adams Express and one of the Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company, died this morning at Sharon Hill, Pa., of paralysis. Great surprise and sorrow were manifested among his acquaintances over the announcement of his death. To his labors is probably due no small degree of the success of the Adams Company and the general express business of the country.

The Fastest Time on Record.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—N. C. Place, of Elmira, N. Y., won the fifty-mile bicycle race tonight in three hours twenty-seven minutes eleven and three-quarter seconds, the fastest time on record.

Guarding the Mules Against Dynamite.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The Anchor Line steamship Castalia sailed today, bound for Alexandria, Egypt, with a cargo of 499 mules, to aid in the operations of the English army against Arabi Pasha. Up to the time of her sailing the deck was closely guarded by policemen and special agents of the steamship company.

The Castalia came here three weeks ago for these mules. Shortly after the knowledge of her mission became public the English Consul received an alarming anonymous letter, which he at once transmitted to the agent at this port of the Anchor Line Steamship Company. That letter represented that at a meeting of Irish patriots here the question of blowing up with dynamite the Castalia and her cargo of mules had been fully discussed, and decided negatively as impolitic. Notwithstanding which fact the writer of the letter feared that some of the ardently enthusiastic sympathizers with Ireland who had favored the measure might take upon themselves the responsibility of destroying the steamer.

In view of this possibility, active preparations for protection were at once taken. Men in the company's employ reinforced the special police assigned to guard the dock; no strangers were permitted to board the vessel; no casual strollers were allowed on the wharf; small boats with armed men on board patroled the neighborhood of the steamer at night; the police-boat lay near at hand with steam up. This anxious watchfulness has been kept up for about a fortnight. As soon as the lading was completed the vessel departed, and all the employés of the company and the policemen on duty at the dock breathed more freely.

SENORA JUAREZ.

The Widow of the Late President Juarez, of Mexico, Visiting in Milwaukee.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9.—Señora Juarez, wife of the ex-President of Mexico, was in the city, and visited the exposition today in company with Dr. J. A. Rice, of Merton. They came to the city on the train this morning and were driven to the Plankinton House, and later visited various places of interest in the city and then the exposition. The lady travels incognito, and her identity was known only to a few personal friends of Dr. Rice, to whom she was introduced. Señora Juarez has been visiting Dr. Rice's family for two weeks past, and is very much delighted with Wisconsin. She is a Mexican lady of Spanish extraction, is about 40 years of age, and is extremely simple in her manner and dress. She is very intelligent, is finely educated, and speaks several languages fluently. When the Milwaukee delegation visited Mexico a few years ago Señora Juarez entertained them, and several of the gentlemen who were in the excursion paid their respects to her today when they heard that she was in the city.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 9.—Reports from Pittsylvania County state that the diphtheria is raging to an alarming extent. Fifty deaths have occurred within the last three weeks, and more than 100 persons are now down with the disease. In some cases whole families have been carried off.

A COWARDLY SCOUNDREL.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Harrison G. Clark, who was suspended from his place at Masonic Temple, has been removed from his place. Clark made a full confession of his persecution of Shive and Mrs. Jordan, and begged of the committee merciful consideration of his case. His plea for leniency was not granted, for they determined on his removal as Superintendent. The Temple committee had unquestionable evidence of the Grand Tyler's wrongdoing, not only in the evidence of witnesses but in Clark's own handwriting. He had great difficulty in securing bail, his brother Masons looking with such indignation and horror on his actions that they refused to become his surety. When he came up for a hearing today the case was continued, so the crowd missed the treat they expected in hearing read the package of letters from Clark to Mrs Jordan.

THE PRESIDENT.

He Is on the Deep in a Great Fog Off the Isle of Shoals.

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., Sept. 9.—It is rumored from the Isle of Shoals, late tonight, that the North Atlantic fleet, with the Dispatch, with the President on board, and the Tallapoosa, were standing well off to westward. An unusually heavy fog, condensing like rain, prevailed off shore during the evening.

A GREAT THIEF.

Further Developments in the Alms-House Robbery at Philadelphia—The Copper Roofing Stolen and Sold.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—The campaign against the alms-house plunderers rests tonight with Phipps still at large, two of his accomplices in the asylum out on bail, and two contractors under bail for conspiracy, three Guardians resigned by request, and a score or more of prominent citizens on "the anxious-seat." Councilman Rowan, who ought to know, says that every Guardian but two had their part in the steal, in spite of the fact that the appropriations were not large and Phipps had to pinch the poor very hard to satisfy the demands made upon him. "Two or three months ago," said a friend of his, "Phipps came to me wringing his hands and said: 'How will I ever get through this difficuty?'" More than this, the gentleman said, Phipps had told him, "I am forced to support twelve or fifteen families. This one wants a constant supply of poultry, another makes frequent demands for beef. Hennessy brandy in large quantities is forced from me. If they continue in their demands they will absolutely ruin me." Phipps, in making his purchases from the market people, often had baskets fixed up and sent to the residences of friends. While these were considered a gift from the Major, yet at the same time the city paid for them. With some persons the receipt of the provisions was a regular weekly affair, and was expected. The latest discoveries are that, on the morning of Thursday of last week, his last day in the Superintendency, Maj. Phipps had all the books and accounts in his possession, showing house receipts, moneys paid by other counties for the support of their paupers, etc., burned in the alms-house furnace. Every evidence of the steals which were sytematically carried on in these funds is thus destroyed, and the investigators will be compelled to approximate the deficiencies as best they can. Neither does there seem to be any way of discovering who forged receipts for warrants due contractors, two cases of which have come to light. Joshua L. Bailey, of the Committee of One Hundred, the first man to get a copy of Phipps' picture for the detectives, was the very man who placed Phipps in the House of Refuge when a boy of 18 for stealing goods from his store, in which he was employed, and he never told of it until this week. Some curious developments are being made by the statements taken before the District-Attorney, one of which is that, among the other thefts, the roof was stolen off the alms-house. The roof was of copper, and, this fact being known to the Board of Guardians, it was determined to put on a new one, which, it was said, would be less expensive and more durable. In making the change the old copper was collected together by order of the board and sold, the sum received for it being nearly $7,000, although there is no record in the receipts at the Controller's office to that effect, and none but Maj. Phipps can tell among whom the money was divided. The trustees are thankful that any portion of the original building remains. The appropriation to the manufacturing department annually expended was about $16,000, while the actual amount exponded each year for several years past has been but about $9,000, the conspirators thus obtaining $7,000 annually from one department. W. E. Currie, milk-dealer, was arrested this morning on the charge of conspiracy and fraud in charging the city for milk never delivered at the alms-house. Similar arrests of fraudulent contractors will be made later on.

FIRE RECORD.

Burning of a Toy Factory at Buffalo.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—At 11 o'clock this evening smoke was discovered issuing from the large brick building at the corner of Hanover and Prime streets, owned by Wilgus & Co., and occupied by them as a toy factory. The alarm was promptly given, and the fire department was quickly at the scene, but from the location of the fire it was good three hours before the flames were gotten under control. The building had formerly been used as a pork-packing establishment, and the walls were saturated with brine, so that the damage was confined to the heart of the building. The loss will exceed $15,000, on which there is an insurance of $8,000 on the building and $4,000 on the stock, consisting of toy wagons, etc., prepared for the holiday trade. The New York, Lackawanna & Western Railroad tracks when completed will pass through Prime street, and the company had recently bought thirty feet of the structure, which had been torn down to make room for a siding. It is very probable that they will buy the balance of the structure, now that it is partially destroyed, and locate their depot there.

A Destructive Fire in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 9.—Fire broke out at midnight last night in the extensive broom-factory of Samuel Cupples & Co., 111 and 113 South Second street. The entire building, running nearly to Third street, was soon a mass of flames. Cupples & Co. also occupy the building running at right angles with this one and fronting on Walnut street. This was also on fire, but the flames there were soon under control. The factory contained a large amount of valuable machinery and a great quantity of stock and raw material. The total loss is estimated at $75,000. Insurance on building, $32,000; on warehouse and stock, $98,000.

Chicago Blazes.

The alarm from Box 136 at 3:55 yesterday morning was turned in by a man who had discovered fire in the engine-room of the four-story brick building at the corner of Quarry street and Archer avenue, owned and occupied by the National Dairy Company. The fire was extinguished after about $200 damage had been done. Insured. The fire was started by the falling of a spark into a pile of shavings intended to be burned in the furnace.

CRIMINAL RECORD.

The Son a of Millionaire Arrested for Arson—Other News of the Day.

WINFIELD, Kas., Sept. 9.—W. H. Colgate was arrested here today charged with setting fire to Bliss & Wood's flouring-mill, which burned some weeks ago. Colgate was bookkeeper of the mill, and his books were said to be in a bad shape. Another man was put in his place. It is charged that Colgate in a fit of rage and frenzy at being discharged set fire to the mill and books. The prisoner is the only son of J. B. Colgate, a banker and millionaire of New York, and founder of the Colgate Academy at Utica. Messers. Bliss & Wood lost heavily by the conflagration.

DANVILLE, Va., Sept. 9.—This evening John H. Johnston, Mayor of the city, shot John E. Hatcher, late Chief of Police, inflicting what is believed to be a mortal wound. The parties met casually in the evening, and Hatcher demanded an apology of Johnston for saying that Hatcher had not accounted for fines he had collected. An apology was refused, a scuffle ensued, and Johnston shot Hatcher. Johnston surrendered himself, and was admitted to bail of $5,000.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 9.—Last night William J. Munden, a notorious white man, and five negro prisoners cut their way out of jail at Hartford, Perquimoas County. About a year ago Munden, who was a member of the Legislature, eloped with the wife of a prominent citizen, taking $3,500 of the man's money. He was captured in Ohio. On a requisition of Gov. Jarvis he was brought here a month ago and lodged in jail. The whereabouts of the escaped men are not known.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9.—A report received tonight says a negro raped a white girl near Comanche yesterday, and a posse followed him ten miles and captured and lynched him.

She was then in latitude 33:11, longitude 76:29.

O'MEAGHER CONDON.

WHO EDWARD O'MEAGHER CONDON IS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—The assertion of the Philadelphia Times this morning that Don Cameron bargained with the Land League for their votes for Beaver in return for the recall of Minister Lowell and a money consideration naturally excited considerable attention here. The charge has been heard before, but the Times gave it with a particularity which enforced attention. The go-betweens are said to be Assistant-Secretary New and Edward O'Meagher Condon. All the principals to the transaction are out of town except Mr. New. He was asked today for a statement of the matter, and denied the whole story. The evidence, so far as it can be gathered on the moment at Washington is circumstantial merely. Capt. Condon was appointed as a draftsman in the office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury about eight years ago, and has held the place ever since. He is spoken of in the office as an inoffensive and capable man. He is an enthusiastic Irish Republican. His record as a sufferer in the cause of Ireland has made him conspicuous, and given him influence in the Land League. He has for years maintained that the Republican and not the Democratic party was the true home of the Irish. He has exerted his powers as an orator in every campaign to persuade his fellow-countrymen to accept those views. A fellow-clerk says today that Condon did scarcely a day's clerical work during the last Presidential campaign, being constantly engaged in "political activities." About a month or so ago word came down from the chief asking if Condon could be spared from the office. The reply was that he could, whereupon an order came detailing him to the Architect's office of the public buildings in Philadelphia. There was no particular reason why he should go, and no particular reason why he should not, and the transfer would have occasioned no comment had it not been for the fact it was made on the eve of an exciting campaign.

THE EXPOSURE DISCUSSED AT PITTSBURG.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Col. McClure's letter, charging leading Land-Leaguers with attempting to sell the Irish to the Cameron party, was the cause of much excitement in this city, where the league is very strong. William V. Moore, President of the Central Mission of the Land-League of Pittsburg, said to your correspondent this evening: "I don't believe it in Condon, and am satisfied that he would not, from principle, enter into any intrigue to sell out the Land-League vote. I have known him personally," continued Mr. Moore, "for twenty years, and would be very slow to hear anything derogatory as to his character. He has always proven himself a man of honor, and occupies at the present time a position of trust among the Land-Leaguers of Philadelphia. No, sir; I don't believe what McClure says in his letter, and I think it is a lie on Condon, and simply brought out by him as a shrewd political trick to carry votes for the Independents. Delaney I know nothing about, except what I have read in the newspapers concerning him. That he is may be true, but I do not consider that any of my business. As I have stated, I know nothing about the man, as to character or otherwise. I don't think he is identified with the Land-League, or I would have heard of the fact before this."

James Morrow, another influential leaguer, said: "I don't take any stock in it. Condon is an honorable man, and, in my opinion, he would not dare to do what has been expressed in McClure's letter. I do not doubt but that the Cameronian wing of the Republican party would use their best efforts to secure the Land-League votes either through whom I know nothing about, or Mr. Condon. No, sir; I don't think that you will find a Land-Leaguer in this city who can give you any information in regard to this matter."

A special meeting of the executive branch of the Land League of this vicinity will be held tomorrow evening, when the McClure letter will be discussed, and at that time our home leaguers expect to have full developments of the Delaney-Condon-Cameron transaction.

"ROBY."

HE TRIUMPHS OVER THOSE WHO DOUBT HIS GREAT GOODNESS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—This morning James H. Nixon, the only man in the race against Robeson, withdrew from the contest, and last evening the committees from all the wards in Camden but two agreed to support him, and the chances are that there will be no one to object to his renomination by acclamation on Tuesday next. Up to Wednesday the record of the primaries stood: Robeson 50 and Nixon 55 delegates. On that night the friends of Nixon confidently expected to secure three out of five towns who chose delegates, but they were hopelessly left, as Robeson's delegates were elected in each township and ward. This proved a stunning blow to Robeson's opponent. But the climax was capped last night by Robeson. Two more townships had been set down in the Nixon column. The ex-Secretary of the Navy has now 110 delegates, and Nixon only sixty. Robeson's friends in Camden are over the recent turn of events. They are loud in their rejoicing. Said one of them this evening: "We took them on their own ground, and we have knocked them out two times out of three. No wonder they threw up the sponge. If they had begun at Camden, instead of planning to finish 'Roby' off here, Nixon would have been swamped before he got down among the glassblowers of Glassboro. Now the game's up, and but for the fact that 'Roby' will make the best speech of his life next Friday after the convention has handed him the nomination on a silver plate he might go back to Rye Beach and finish his vacation. The old man needs it."

GEN. BRAGG.

HE IS A GOOD DOG, BUT SO IS HOLDFAST DELANEY—A THOUSAND BALLOTS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WEST BEND, Wis., Sept. 9.—A large lobby of the friends of Delaney arrived last night from Waukesha County to endeavor to carry the delegates from that county—elected in the interest of Gen. Bragg—over to Delaney. Their efforts were unavailing, however, and the fourth day's balloting began exactly as the third day's closed—14 for Bragg and 14 for Delaney. As fast as any of the delegates are called away their places are filled by substitutes. Both sides began the day's work with the same expressions of determination that have characterized them from the start, and each side appeared to think and talk less of dark horses or compromises than at any previous time. Capt. M. Morgan, one of the Bragg men from Fond du Lac, who served in the Iron Brigade under Gen. Bragg, in conversation with THE TRIBUNE correspondent, expressed the firm belief that the convention would nominate Bragg, and the certainty that the "little General" will be elected by the people. The balloting continued through the forenoon without change, and, at the 850th ballot, the convention adjourned for dinner.

IN THE AFTERNOON

dispatches came pouring in to Gen. Bragg from statesmen and others from all parts of the United States. Those which gave him most pleasure and satisfaction came from old soldiers who fought under him in the War. One from Nebraska read: "Hold the fort!" Another from a well-known Pennsylvania officer said: "Stand firm, as you did at Antietam." Delaney and his friends also received dispatches, mostly from their own localities, calling on them not to let there be any break in the ranks. The afternoon ended with 914 ballots, all resulting as before. During the recess between the afternoon and evening sessions, THE TRIBUNE correspondent called on Mr. Delaney and Gen. Bragg to learn what their intentions were. Mr. Delaney was found at the office of his friend and active backer, District-Attorney O'Meara, the two being engaged in private consultation. Mr. Delaney begins to show the result of the wear and tear of the anxiety incident to the work of the week. He said, however, that he felt perfectly well, and was just as confident as ever. He said, further, that his men would hold together for him just so long as he asked them to do so, and that he should never ask them to do otherwise.

GEN. BRAGG

was taking a quiet stroll about the streets of the little town. He said that all the published stories to the effect that he was sick were false; that he was never in better health in his life, and that neither had his friends weakened in the least. He said there had never been the least talk of a third man or a dark horse among his men. He believed that his opponents would be glad to introduce a third man, but that the fact was that as soon as another name should be presented in place of Mr. Delaney, part of the Delaney men would go over to him (Bragg), and his own men would hold together and secure his immediate nomination. When asked if the report was true that he was in a position to dictate the nomination in case of a break, he replied that he had never proposed or discussed such a thing. If the position should remain unchanged his men would stand by him. But if a break should come he would certainly be nominated.

THE BEST INFORMED

and most impartial observers express a belief that this statement is true; that either the deadlock will continue till the convention shall adjourn without a nomination, or that a break will be made by the introduction of a third man, which will result in Bragg's nomination. State Senator Hunt, Chairman of the convention and an enthusiastic Delaney man, in answer to inquiries said he thought it might be well, unless some other settlement should be made soon, to adjourn without a nomination and authorize the Congressional District Committee to nominate. The Bragg men, however, will not agree to any such proposition, not only because they feel sure of success in the convention, but because the District Committee will be appointed by Hunt, which would insure Delaney's nomination. "A candidate so nominated," said Gen. Bragg, "would be defeated in this district by 6,000 majority." It is reported tonight that the Delaney men telegraphed to Judge A. Scott Sloan, of Beaver Dam, asking him to agree to play the part of a dark horse, but that a dispatch has been received from him positively refusing to do so. Nearly all the "workers" on both sides departed on the evening trains tonight. The evening session resulted in no change in the figures, and after 1,000 ballots had been taken the convention adjourned to meet again Monday morning.

THE CONDEMNED.

Tracy Begins to Exhibit Uneasiness—Keenan's Hopes for a Rehearing Fading Away—A Supersedeas for Cahill, Now in Joliet.

Yesterday morning was the first time since his incarceration that Tracy, the murderer, evinced any serious apprehensions as to his fate. The jail employés who are engaged in keeping a close watch upon him noticed that from the time he arose in the morning until the arrival of his first visitor. Mr. McCann, the old gentleman who tried to prove an alibi for him, he was paler than usual and a great deal more nervous in speech and action. He has been inclined to crack a joke occasionally, even at his own expense, but yesterday he was in a duller mood, and had nothing to say concerning his fast approaching doom. He had quite a long talk with Mr. McCann, and wound up by requesting him to ask a clergyman from the Jesuit or Holy Family Church to visit him in his cell. One of the Jesuit fathers has visited him almost weekly since his conviction, but Tracy never seemed to fully appreciate the consolation the reverend father had to offer him. Mr. McCann broached upon the subject at his interview, and Tracy was pleased to have him invite, not the priest who had previously visited him, but another, whose name had been mentioned in the conversation. This priest came to jail about 3 o'clock, and remained for nearly an hour in close conversation with the prisoner in his cell. After this Tracy seemed more thoughtful than ever, and he was evidently worried, moreover, that his attorney did not visit him, or send him any word. Mr. Solomon, Tracey's attorney, returned from Ottawa yesterday, and will go there again Monday to argue the motion for a rehearing. He thinks the Supreme Court will grant it, and, having that impression, he has not made up his mind exactly as to what he shall do in the event of a refusal. But he "will do all that is possible" for his client, whom he believes to be an innocent man and the victim of "police persecution."

THE SCAFFOLD UPON WHICH

Sherry and Connelly were hanged was yesterday taken from the basement, and during the day the carpenter and a force of employés about the building were engaged in setting it up into position to make sure that none of the pieces are missing, and that everything is in working order. It is very easily put together, and will be erected Thursday morning in the northeast corner of the jail.

Tracy's impending doom has had a very dampening effect upon the usual good spirits of Jack O'Neill, alias Keenan, the Hensley murderer. His case has been pending in the Supreme Court for nearly a year, and it is a bad omen that Tracy, whose crime was committed Feb. 3, should be the first to hang. Keenan was visited in his cell last evening by his counsel, Messrs. Storck and Shuman, who acquainted him with the grave fears they entertained that the Supreme Court were going to let the law take its course. Thereafter Keenan was more despondent, and their visit seemed to affect him deeply.

Mr. Joel M. Longenecker, the attorney who defended Thomas Cahill, the slayer of Police-Officer Patrick J. O'Brien, now at Joliet on a life sentence, arrived home yesterday from a trip to Ottawa and Joliet with a writ a supersedeas for his client. Sept. 4 he made a full presentation of the case to Judge Dickey, who was of the opinion that the court erred on at least one of the several different occasions alleged by Mr. Longenecker. The most important point, and the one upon which Mr. Longenecker as well as Judge Dickey laid the greatest stress, was the refusal of Judge Rogers to admit the testimony of five different witnesses as to the riot and attack made upon the Cahill residence the night preceding the tragedy. A large number of questions were put to each of these witnesses, not one of which was permitted to be answered, and it was upon the exceptions there noted that the application for the writ was based. Obtaining an order for a writ of supersedeas from Judge Dickey, Mr. Longenecker went to Ottawa Friday, and obtaining the necessary documents from the Clerk of the court, proceeded thence to Joliet and paid a visit to young Cahill, who was already sick at heart of running a shoe-pegging machine. The writ does not release Cahill, nor even admit him to bail, because murder is not a bailable offense, but it gives him a respit from work until next March, or to some later date, when the Supreme Court will finally pass upon the case. Mr. Longenecker says he would have had the writ some time ago had he been able to procure the record of the case sooner, but the delay was unavoidable.

DIED OF HIS INJURIES.

Joseph Becker, a saloonkeeper, at No. 817 West Kinzie street, died at 11 o'clock yesterday morning from the combined effects of a blow upon the head and a protracted spree. Early Tuesday morning, before 1 o'clock, as Mr. Becker was closing up his saloon, four young men entered the place and called for drinks, which he refused to serve on the ground that he desired to close up. They thereupon assaulted him, and he being intoxicated was unable to defend himself, and received a rather severe beating. He was hurt about the head with some blunt instrument, and, though the wounds were not at first considered serious, he was obliged to take to his bed, and after a few days, illness, during which he sank very fast, he died. The case was reported to Lieut. Beard, at the Madison Street Station, at the time it happened, but, in compliance with a request of the family, it was not made public. Several young men were arrested on suspicion, but owing to Mr. Bicker's condition at the time of the assault, he was unable to identify the men, or even furnish a description of them. A post-mortem examination yesterday by the County Physician revealed the fact that death had been caused by inflammation of the brain, superinduced by a blow upon the head. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

F. C. Reynolds Tries to Victimize Two National Banks.

He Deposits Two Certificates Purporting to Be Issued

By the Chatham National Bank, of New York, to Draw Against.

Pinkerton Takes Him in Before He Gets the Money.

Among the prisoners received at the jail yesterday afternoon was a tall, well-dressed man with iron-gray hair and mustache, whose general appearance betokened gentlemanly qualities and good social position, and made him look strangely out of place behind prison bars as the companion of thieves and cutthroats. Though no better than the till-tapper and petty pilferer, he felt and looked above them. Forgers and defaulters do not affiliate with petty offenders, being in a line where they "turn tricks" running up into the thousands and requiring brains and intelligence. The distinguished-looking prisoner in question belongs to the former class of high-toned criminals. His name is F. C. Reynolds, and his capture, according to Detective Billy Pinkerton, is one of the best made in Chicago for a year. Mr. Reynolds got himself into the toils by attempting to carry out which comprehended the realization of something like $67,000. Reynolds arrived from New York last Tuesday and registered at the Clifton House. He met in the city a number of prominent business men whom he had known years ago in Chicago when he was in business here. They treated him well and he took advantage of his old-time acquaintances to carry out his grand swindling scheme. Friday morning, accompanied by a well-known merchant of the city, he presented himself at the Union National Bank where, being first identified by his companion as a responsible gentleman, he deposited what purported to be a certified check for $10,000, drawn in favor of himself at the Chatham National Bank of New York. The check was accepted, and Mr. Reynolds was given a bank-book and credited with $10,000 on account. The same day, accompanied by another prominent business man on whom he imposed, Reynolds went through exactly the same operation at the Illinois National Bank, depositing there a supposed certified check for $10,000 from the Chatham National Bank and being credited accordingly. But the suspicions of the bank people were awakened, and two telegrams of inquiry were sent to the New York bank. The reply in each case was that the checks were forgeries. Pinkerton's Detective Agency was at once advised of the case, the banks acting in concert in the premises, and operatives were immediately any one who might present a check from Reynolds, for it was apparent that he intended to draw on the banks where he had such heavy deposits (in his mind). Sure enough, as it afterward transpired, he went to Chambers & Co.'s jewelry store at the corner of Clark and Madison streets Friday night and purchased $380 worth of valuables, giving his check on the Union National for the amount, and observing, "I'll leave the goods here until tomorrow, and in the meantime you can satisfy yourself that the check is good." He went away. The $380 check was sent to the bank yesterday morning, and, of course, the situation was explained to the jewelry firm, the members congratulating themselves on their narrow escape. As soon as the jewelry transaction was heard of by the detectives, Mat and Billy Pinkerton went to the corner of Clark and Madison streets, and were rewarded by having Mr. Reynolds walk into their arms. He was on his way after the jewelry, but he was induced to change his course, and finally brought up before Justice Meech, Mr. J. J. P. Odell, of the Union National, having already sworn out a against him. The prisoner, who had taken the arrest coolly, waived examination and was held to the Criminal Court in $10,000 bail, being committed in default. In his room at the Clifton House was found a fine collection of stamps, dies, inks, etc., including the very neatly-prepared stamp which he had used to "certify" the checks deposited by him. His baggage likewise included four other $10,000 checks and one $7,500 check, all exactly like the ones deposited. The prisoner declined to tell anything of his antecedents or acquaintances, or of his whereabouts during the past ten years. He was in the grocery business with one H. W. Brooks at Hyde Park up to about the time of the great fire. About that time the Chicago banks were victimized to the tune of several thousands of dollars on a "racket" similar to that attempted by Reynolds. One bank lost $20,000 then. The Pinkertons think Reynolds had a finger in that old pie, and that his business was used only as a cloak for his rascality. They also think he has lately been in prison.

A SYSTEM OF FORGERIES

DETAILED TO SHADOW DOWN

WARRANT FOR FORGERY

THE CONEY DODGE.

Arrest of an Enterprising Confidence Man.

A young man who has been endeavoring to work an old confidence game, with what success is unknown, was run in by the West Side police yesterday, and is now luxuriating behind the bars of a cell at the Despiaines Street Station. About the middle of last July Acting Chief Doyle received from a gentleman named Cook, who is an Iowa farmer, a circular that he had received, of which the following is a copy:

[Confidential.]

DEAR SIR: I wish to secure the services of a reliable person in your county to push the sale of a certain class of goods which I manufacture. I guarantee 100 per cent profit and over, according to the amount of capital invested. The goods are used by every one, and the business is strictly confidential. As it is the same as all other large paying enterprises, it is not exactly legitimate—possibly you can guess its nature? This business is only for those open for almost anything there is money in. Should you be willing to engage, please let me know as soon as possible and I will send you full particulars. I am yours in full confidence. Address

F. K. WATERMAN,
No. 404 West Madison street, Chicago, Ill., care of Jordan & McDonald.

The matter was referred to Capt. Bonfield, in whose district "Waterman" was supposed to reside, and a scheme was put up to capture him. Officer Smith, of the Despiaines Street Station, was furnished with a carpet-sack and a letter of recommendation, supposed to have been written by Mr. Cook, indorsing him as a proper and reliable party to embark in the enterprise. Smith went to the address given, but was told that Mr. Waterman was out. He left the letter and called again on the following day, when the letter was returned to him, indorsed: "Opened by mistake. Waterman." The bartender said it must have been some other Waterman. Another scheme was then tried, the West Division postal authorities being taken into it. A letter was left at the division station for him, but as he did not turn up the officers lost heart, and Superintendent Gould returned the letter to them. Friday evening, when the matter had nearly passed from the minds of the officers, Superintendent Gould suddenly appeared and said that and wanted his letter. The Superintendent gave him a plausible explanation of its absence, and said he would have it for him at 4 o'clock. Capt. Bonfield gave Mr. Gould the letter, but at 4 o'clock Waterman did not show up. Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock the same young man who had called Friday appeared with an order for the letter signed by Waterman. He was made to receipt for the letter, and the chirography of the signature is identical with that of the circular that appears above. The police were notified, and the youth was taken in charge by Officers Early and Davis. He protested that his name is Charles Davis, and that while he knew Waterman, he hadn't seen him for seven months until the previous evening. His attention was then called to the fact that he had presented himself with Waterman's order at the Post-Office early in the afternoon of Friday, and that he was unquestionably prevaricating. His room at No. 221 Hoyne avenue was searched, and a great many circulars like the one above were found there. There were also copies of letters that make his scheme apparent. In one of these, directed to a farmer at Red Oak, Ia., he says that he has "a large lot of green cigars Nos. 1, 2, and 5," that he defies judges to distinguish from the genuine; that he will sell in lots, giving for $150, $500 in goods; for $300, $1,200 in goods; and for $500, $2,500 in goods. His dupes would remit the money, and never hear from him again. It is not known and it will be a very difficult matter to determine, for the reason that people who have been bitten in engaging in a transaction of this sort find it the best policy to say nothing. All that can be done with him, then, the police think, is to show him up and prosecute him for a violation of the postal laws.

HOW MANY HE HAS VICTIMIZED,

SHOT IN THE HEAD.

At a Polish dance in progress at J. Dombrowski's saloon, at No. 73 Front street, a crowd of boys that had gathered about the front of the place grew disorderly, and Joseph Kineshi, an idiotic relative of the proprietor, fired a shot from a self-cocking revolver into the thickest of the crowd. The ball took effect in the head of Frank Plattke, 16 years of age, making a long but not dangerous scalp wound extending from the crown of his head to his forehead. Kineshi was arrested and locked up at the West Chicago Avenue Station by Officer Lund. Plattke was taken home. Dombrowski fled from his place to escape the officers of the Citizens' League Association who had a warrant for him charging him with selling liquor to minors.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1882.

THE star-route jury reached no verdict yesterday and the court adjourned until 7 o'clock this morning. It is understood that the jury has agreed as to some of the defendants, but cannot agree as to all.

IT will be seen in the real-estate columns this morning that the St. Paul Railroad is credited by rumor with the purchase of the franchise of the North Shore Road. If this report shall prove to be true very lively competition for the suburban business between Chicago and Evanston, and ultimately further north, may be looked for.

A TERRIFIC storm of rain, hail, and wind passed over a large region in the East Friday night, greatly damaging the corn crop, and at several points in Massachusetts and as far west as Norristown and Lancaster, Pa., practically ruining growing tobacco, leaving the leaf only fit for "fillers." The damage done is enormous, and includes many of the misfortunes incident to Western tornadoes, though no life was lost.

MARWOOD, the professional executioner, has arrived at Dublin, Ireland, on his way to Limerick to hang Francis Hynes, convicted of being one of the Bashi-Bazouks who have lately cast so much shame on the unfortunate and unhappy island. Marwood is at present traveling after the manner of the Czar of Russia, his chances for reaching a good old age being materially enhanced by a cordon of police and a vanguard of detectives.

THE Tariff Commissioners profess to be highly gratified by the reception that has been accorded them in Chicago. They must be like Mr. Pickwick's friend, "very easily amused." With a few notable exceptions, no representative business-men have appeared before them, and they have been given the cold shoulder quite as conspicuously in Chicago as in other cities. Strange to say, the piteous appeal for a Board of Trade reception has thus far produced no results.

THE eminence of the Hon. George R. Davis and his usefulness as a legislator were recognized by his party associates when the committees of the House were appointed. Being then in his second term, he was named for the following positions:

Second on Mines and Mining.
Fifth on Military Affairs.
Fourth on Education and Labor.

The mines of the Eighth Ward, the military affairs of the Ninth, and the education of the Tenth were thus appropriately cared for.

THE members of the Board of Trade who are still on the short side of the July wheat deal held a meeting on Friday afternoon. They took sweet counsel together, and as a result appointed a committee to interview the party on the other side. At an adjourned meeting held yesterday afternoon the committee reported that they had not accomplished anything. In fact, it seems that they did not see Mr. Armour at all. They did see a gentleman who was associated in the deal with Mr. Armour, and they received no encouragement. Hence they could give none to the meeting. The breaking up of the conference suggested the remark of La Fontaine at the close of the story about the meeting of the rats who wanted to bell the cat:

J'ae maints chapitres vu
Qui pour neant sont ainsi tenus.

"I have seen many councils which have equally been held with no result."

That story of the rats who wanted to bell the cat has done good service many a time in the past, and may yet serve a useful purpose. There are folks on 'Change who are exercising their wits in the vain endeavor to invent some means of belling men like Mr. Armour so that due warning may be given when the bulls are about to steal a march on the bears. If it were only possible to know when capital decides to take advantage of short sellers, it would be the easiest thing in the world for the latter to fight shy at the proper moment, and thus avoid the otherwise inevitable squeeze. They would then enjoy all the esthetic comforts of a bear's paradise. As it is, they cannot indulge their chronic propensity to sell short without being in danger of coming under the power of their enemy just at the time when they fancy the situation to be the most secure. What friend of his race will earn their undying gratitude by inventing some method of putting a bell around the necks of capitalists?

IN an interview with a reporter of the Chicago Journal yesterday Mr. Robert P. Porter, a member of the Tariff Commission, made a statement which is substantially a confession that the letter printed in THE TRIBUNE Friday purporting to have been written by one of the Commissioners was genuine. In order that no injustice may be done Mr. Porter, we quote his language as reported in the Journal:

The publication of a letter unsigned to an unknown person, and which only could have been published by a breach of confidence on the part of the receiver, or deliberate treachery on the part of a private and confidential secretary, is of such little importance to the public that I must beg to decline to make any comment in regard to it. The letter and its publication must speak for itself to the public, as well as the value to be attached to it.

This is a confession that the letter is authentic. All the rest is frivolous and unimportant. Now what did that letter allege? (1) That the manufacturers took no interest in the commission; (2) that they believe the commission was formed for them, and will fight their battles for them; (3) that some of the members of the commission are interested in industrial enterprises affected by the tariff; and (4) that "a minority report" is just "not an impossibility." The meetings of the commission are properly characterized in this letter, avowedly written by one of the Commissioners, as "a farce." THE TRIBUNE has always held that the appointment of the Tariff Commission was an enormous blunder, but it has been disposed to admit by a stretch of indulgence that there was no conscious connivance among the members of it to bring in a verdict determined beforehand. But this letter seems to destroy the grounds of further indulgence. It puts the commission in the attitude of men engaged in a sordid conspiracy acknowledging no masters but the tariff barons, and deliberately cheating and deceiving the people to serve their masters.

A QUESTION DECIDED.

The controversy in the Third Congressional District as to the protection of the polls at the primary meetings in that district has been determined arbitrarily by the action of the District Committee. A few words will explain the matter. The committee consists of one person supposed to represent the voters of each ward and fragment of a ward in the district. A majority of these were known to be partisans of Col. Davis, the present member, who is also a candidate for renomination. One of the committee, who was appointed as a partisan of Davis, has since blossomed into a candidate himself, and is now anti-Davis. In addition, Mr. Swett and Mr. Mason are candidates. Arguing from past experience, some of the voters in that district, and it seems a large proportion of them, were impressed with the fact that primary elections of delegates were controlled and determined as a general thing by the men selected officially to hold such elections, and that in fact the candidate who had the appointment of the judges as a general thing had "a sure thing" of the election. There became then a vigorous demand that the board of election-judges for the primary meetings should be fairly divided among the friends of all the candidates, so that there should be no room to doubt that no unfairness was practiced. A vigorous demand was also made that the time allotted for holding these primary meetings should be extended so as to allow all the voters an opportunity to vote. Several other points in favor of an open and fair election were requested, but the majority of the District Committee refused and rejected all. They appointed all the judges for all the primary meetings of the district. Under these circumstances, Mr. R. S. Tuthill, in behalf of the friends of Mr. Swett, Mr. Mason, and Mr. Morse, being himself one of the judges appointed to hold the primary in the Eleventh Ward, submitted a new proposition. To understand the force of this, it should be stated that the practice has been in that district to accept at primary meetings all votes tendered, and for enthusiastic Democrats and other friends of some particular candidate to hire wagons, trucks, omnibuses, and other vehicles to transport voters from one precinct or ward to another, and under the inspiring rally have these migratory voters "vote early and often." To free the primary meetings of this year of this abuse, Mr. Tuthill proposed to the parties in authority the following arrangement:

WHEREAS, It is of vital interest to the success of the Republican party in the coming election, and to the election of its candidate for Congress, whoever he may be, that there be no just ground of complaint that there has been unfairness or fraud in the primary election to select delegates to the Congressional Convention;

It is therefore agreed by the undersigned judges of the primary election to be held on the 12th day of September, 1882, in the Eleventh Ward:

1. That there shall be selected by us (Messrs. Kaufman and Storer, as friends of Col. George R. Davis, designating one, and R. S. Tuthill, as a friend of the Hon. Leonard Swett, designating the other) two persons to act as clerks of said primary, who shall keep an accurate poll-list of all persons voting at such primary, giving their names and residences.

2. That all ballots cast shall be numbered on the back thereof, and the numbers taken down by the said clerks on the poll-lists, the same as is done in the case of a regular election.

3. Two challengers, one to be selected by the friends of Col. Davis, and one by the friends of Mr. Swett, shall be permitted to be and remain in the room with the judges of the primary.

This proposition was submitted to the Davis judges in the Eleventh Ward, and it is understood it has been rejected. It is well to observe what it is which the majority has rejected:

1. They have rejected the proposition to have any clerks at the primary meetings; refused to keep any poll-list or any record of the names or residence of those who may vote, as well those who may go to the meetings on foot, in carriages, on horseback, or be hauled there from other wards and precincts. This means of protection the controlling authority in the Eleventh Ward has decided is both inexpedient and unrepublican, and that in that district primary meetings are to be free to all persons acceptable to the judges.

2. The second proposition rejected is that the ballots shall be marked on the back with numbers corresponding to the numbers on the poll-list, as is required by law in regular elections.

In case of free elections, where any person acceptable to the judges is permitted to vote, to permit any means of exposing and detecting the fact that Democrats and citizens of other wards and persons not citizens at all were allowed to vote would be a serious impeachment of the intelligence, discretion, wisdom, and it might be the integrity, of the judges receiving such votes, and thus throw doubt on the purity of the election itself. This possibility may have been the reason for rejecting these offers. It may also have been thought that under the past practice of allowing any person acceptable to the judges of election to vote wherever he thinks proper there has been no difficulty in getting delegates capable of nominating the ablest and most efficient individual in the State, and one who has been requested by Presidents to designate proper persons for Cabinets. If this kind of men be the product of free and easy primaries, managed by the personal friends of a candidate, what have the turbulent, and discontented, and over-honest people to complain about? To introduce these reforms into primary elections might possibly result in a change of Representative, and thus afflict irreparable loss upon the people of a district who really fail to appreciate the great distinction they enjoy. The present system under which the Third District has been so eminently blessed with a Representative who even knows Keifer, and who has been honored by Keifer with the second place on the Committee on Mines, should not be abandoned to a mere impulse of reform. When did that district ever before have a Representative who was admired by Keifer? Why try to introduce morality, and decency, and honesty into primary elections when there is so much at stake?

Those who have rejected these propositions made by the combined opposition to Col. Davis have undoubtedly been governed by considerations of the highest party policy. To have yielded to such requests would have been, in their judgment, an unworthy weakness wholly unbecoming in those who, holding success in their own hands, would endanger it by following the advice of the enemy. To have consented to Tuthill's request would be considered, perhaps, as an open abandonment of Col. Davis by his trusted friends, which would be ungenerous to him and unworthy of the men he has so often led successfully through battles requiring a vigorous leader. In this refusal of these reform changes in the primary election the voters of the Third District will recognize the controlling patriotism and inflexible courage of the State Senator who is Chairman of the District Committee. Fortunate people who are thus represented at Springfield with a sagacity and an ability that would adorn even a more exalted temple of legislation! It could have been a surprise to no one that Mr. Tuthill's request was rejected, when it was known that the Eighth Ward Senator held the scales, trying the case of honest or possibly dishonest primaries. No one had a right to demand or expect that the Chairman of the District Committee would be on the wrong side or would decide adversely to his own opinions upon such a question as that.

The primary elections in that district are fixed for Tuesday afternoon. We have no choice to recommend to the people. We advise every Republican voter to go to the polls and vote once, and give that vote in his own precinct. If this advice be followed the result ought to be satisfactory, and the nominee should be elected. It certainly ought to be well understood that honest primaries should be essential to certain success at the election which is to follow them.

A MODEST CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE.

THE TRIBUNE is in receipt of the subjoined letter, which purports to come from the Hon. Frank Lawler. It bears external evidences of having been written by that gentleman. It has a flavor of that rhetoric (the art of speaking and writing defined by Plato as the "government of men's souls") for which Mr. Lawler is so well known to an admiring constituency, and betokens a modesty not less characteristic of the senior Alderman from the Eighth Ward. Hence we accept it as genuine and give Mr. Lawler and the public the benefit of its publication:

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—My name having appeared among those aspiring to a seat in Congress from the Second District, allow me to say that I indorse the position taken by Gen. John A. Logan, "that the office should seek the man." I have asked no one to support me for the nomination, nor shall I do so. I am willing to trust to the intelligence of those who will compose that convention, and they no doubt fully realize the necessity and importance of selecting from among the names mentioned one who will reflect credit upon the district and the people who elect him to this important position. The best portion of my life having been spent among the people of this Congressional district, naturally I have no apology to make or excuses to offer in leaving in the hands of my friends my name, to take such action in the premises as they see fit. Having for many years of my life followed toiling occupations, my sympathy is with those who labor. I can claim an honest interest in those who are subjected, as I have been, to the merciless lash of the capitalistic class, and urge them to an organized effort in pushing their grievances to the front, and placing in positions of trust known, tried, and true friends of the cause of labor. The issues, as now being made, are likely to partake largely of questions affecting labor and the laborer. If the working classes desire to free themselves from the many burdens which now bear so heavily upon them, they must see to it that honest friends become their representatives, and that equitable and judicious laws are framed. "He who would be free must himself strike the blow." Respectfully your faithful servant, FRANK LAWLER.

This personal statement brings Mr. Lawler's claims before the voters of the Second Congressional District in a manner not to be ignored. Mr. Lawler concedes in advance that the convention—the Democratic Convention of course—will nominate a man "who will reflect credit upon the district and the people who elect him to this important position." Mr. Lawler has such a man in his eye every time he looks in the glass. Having spent the best portion of his life in the Second Congressional District, and having been for some years intimately associated with the local politics of the district, it would be a reflection upon Mr. Lawler's discernment if he failed to appreciate his own importance and fitness for Congressional honors. Nevertheless, he is not willing to dictate. He is content with suggesting. He might have drawn some odious comparisons between himself and the Sheridans, Currans, Hildreths, Cullertons, and other second-class politicians who have the temerity to aspire to the Congressional nomination, but he has refrained from doing so. He is willing to trust his friends politically, if not in the saloon business. He appeals to the masses as a workingman. He is opposed to the "merciless lash of the capitalistic class." He is in favor of higher wages, in order that the citizens of his district may have more money to spend for whisky. This may strike some envious people as selfish, since Mr. Lawler has been making a living outside of his Council employment in dispensing drinks; but his motive is really a higher one. He views this question from the standpoint of the political economist. The sale of liquor contributes notably to the support of the Government, and hence he is in favor of selling as much as possible. As to Mr. Lawler's industry and efficiency as a workingman, the primaries of his ward can testify. He has worked them for all they are worth. If this evidence is not sufficient he can call the Mayor as a witness; the latter will probably testify that no man has worked harder to get his constituents out of the bridewell.

In addition to the personal qualifications which Mr. Lawler puts forward with so much modesty and discretion, there are broad principles which cry aloud for his election to Congress. "The issues are now being made up," says Mr. Lawler, "and if the working classes desire to free themselves from the many burdens which now bear so heavily upon them they must see to it that honest friends become their representatives, and that equitable and judicious laws are framed." The bearing of this observation lies in the application of it, as Capt. Cuttle's friend would have said. Mr. Lawler makes the application. "He who would be free must himself strike the blow," is the peroration of Mr. Lawler's address to the public. That is to say, Lawler would strike the blow. He could do it because he has been practicing for years as a political "striker and blower." If sent to Congress, he would at once notify the 324 other members of the House and the seventy-six Senators that he had come there to settle the labor question. The other members and the Senators would immediately fall into line. With the Irish vote of Bridgeport behind him, Lawler would have a "walk-over" in Congress. He does not say just what he would do, but his own condition as a workingman, his avowed sympathy with "those who labor," his sworn enmity to the "merciless lash of the capitalistic class," and his past efficiency in political achievements ought to inspire implicit faith in his Congressional future.

THE TRIBUNE has suggested from time to time that the Democrats, who are in undisputed control of the Second Congressional District, have an opportunity there to do their party distinguished service by electing such a man as Lyman Trumbull, ex-Gov. Palmer, Judge David Davis, or some other eminent light of their party who is excluded from Congressional life by the accident of residence. But Mr. Lawler's letter puts a different complexion upon the case. He is a man with a mission. He promises a reform which will be heralded with universal joy all over the country—the satisfactory adjustment of the relations of labor and capital. So high a calling would justify him in urging his claims in stronger language than he ha adopted, but his modesty should not be permitted to deprive him of the opportunity and the Second Congressional District of the credit for working out the great problem of the day.

ARE THERE A HORSE AND A CART IN IT?

The forthcoming return of Mayor Harrison and the so-called "non-partisan" movement to give him a public reception recall a very similar movement now going on in New York. Of course "non-partisan" Assemblyman Costello went to Ireland a few months ago and was escorted off by his friends as Carter was. He is expected back in a few days, as Carter is, and a committee of his friends, of which one J. W. Patterson is Chairman, is at work collecting money to give him a reception. Thus far the parallel is a striking one. The public, however, will be curious to know if it will be carried out in all its other details. A friend, meeting Patterson one day, asked him why he was engaged in this matter, and Patterson replied that Costello asked him to get up a reception on his return. "But," said the friend, "what are you going to get?" "I am not going to get left," replied Patterson. "He promised to give me a horse worth $100 and a cart. Then I'm going into the cellar-digging business." Such a startling statement as this opens up possibilities in the reception business that make one nervous as to our Carter's return and the "non-partisan" complexion of his reception. It makes one inclined to ask, Did Carter ask any one to get up a reception? Are the local patriots determined not to get left? Has any one been promised a horse worth $100 and a cart? Is any one thinking of going into the cellar-digging business? It may not be, but if they do these things in New York, may they not do them here—human nature is so very much alike, especially among "non-partisans." There may not be any similarity at all in the two cases. There may be no horse and cart in the Chicago reception. It may be all pure "non-partisan" affection and love for Carter, and the result of an irrepressible desire on the part of his friends to testify to him how much they have missed him and how glad they are to see him back again. And yet, after seeing how it is done in New York, the suggestion immediately obtrudes itself that it may be done so here. That feeling is so strong that the horse and cart will be anxiously looked for, and if any one appears with that sort of a turnout, or if any one is discovered going into the cellar-digging business, he will be marked with suspicion and his personal regard will be dimmed with clouds of doubt. We fear that this is one of those cases where the "non-partisans" are bound not to get left. We shall look forward not to the reception, but to what follows—to the new horses and carts that may turn up in unexpected quarters, to new and strange people engaged in cellar-digging. We hope it is all right, but Costello and Patterson have thrown a feeling of doubt about the genuineness of Our Carter's reception.

CRIME IN CHICAGO.

It looks now as though Tracy, the murderer of Officer Huebner, will be hanged next Friday. The Supreme Court has refused to interfere with the verdict of the jury, and there seems to be no reason to expect that the Governor will interpose his authority either to commute the sentence or grant a respit. This will be the first execution that has taken place in Chicago since the hanging of Sherry and Connelly. The number of murders in the meantime may be counted by the score. In some cases there have been no arrests, in others sentence to the penitentiary for a term of years has been the only punishment adjudged, and in others the law's delays have resulted in a practical condonation of the crime. The murder committed by Tracy was a brutal one. The man was making his escape after an act of burglary, and shot Officer Huebner, who endeavored to arrest him. The crime was one which merits the extreme penalty of the law. But the interest of society is centered in the consideration whether the hanging of Tracy is calculated to repress the tendency to crimes of violence which has been on the increase in Chicago during the past few months. This may be doubted. It is not the spirit of the Mosaic law—an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, and a life for a life—which suggests the retention of the scaffold in this civilized age. The true theory of capital punishment contemplates a riddance of those who do murder, and a warning to those who are murderously inclined, and it is sustained by the interests of public safety. But if these influences are to be exerted efficiently there must be something like impartial and certain execution of the law. It is not to be expected that a single execution can work any great reform. If Tracy shall be hanged, the execution will be in the nature of an exception. It can hardly fail to be regarded in that light by the very classes whom the law of capital punishment is designed to restrain. If the proportion of executions to the number of murders is to be only one in a hundred, the value of the law to society is largely sacrificed. The rarity of capital punishment amid the multiplicity of murders is not a reason why Tracy should be allowed to escape, but it is a reason why the community must look to other measures for the repression of crimes of violence. Chief among the deterrent influences which are needed in Chicago is a stricter control of the resorts which corrupt the young. There is no school of vice on earth which is more active in graduating murderers than the "levee" and similar localities in Chicago, where low variety saloons, concert and dance halls, where the most depraved wretches of both sexes mingle without constraint, and the various dives which lure youth to debauchery, are permitted to run night and day, Sundays and all, without any interference from the police. It is the life of these vicious haunts, where licentiousness and drunkenness are cheapened and popularized, that turns out burglars and finishes off murderers. If the promised hanging of Tracy could be supplemented by prompt execution of the law in other cases of murder and by the closing of the notorious dens which exist in such large numbers in this city for the promiscuous mixing of the sexes in drunkenness and ribaldry—the public places which flaunt their temptations before the young—there would be more hope for the repression of crime than can be discovered under the existing condition of things.

THE FUTURE OF SCIENCE.

The inaugural address delivered before the British Association, which is now in session, by Dr. Siemens was a remarkable production by a remarkable man. The scientist has commended himself to the world as a very practical man who has made important discoveries for the benefit of mankind and yet has shown himself possessed of a lively imagination, qualities not often found combined in one human make-up. His subject was the effect of the search for practical applications of science in widening the sphere of knowledge. In associations of this kind, addresses are mainly retrospective and show what has been accomplished in the various departments of science, but Dr. Siemens devoted himself to the future and applied his horoscope to a forecast of what is to take place in the rapid development of science, a work for which he is peculiarly fitted. A running glance at what this scientific magician beheld will be of interest.

The portion of his address devoted to coal contains some almost startling information. Taking the coal used in the manufacture of gas at 9,000,000 tons, worth $27,000,000, Dr. Siemens showed in the following table the value of its waste products:

Coloring matter for dyes	$17,750,000
Manure (sulphate of ammonia)	9,735,000
Pitch (325,000 tons)	1,825,000
Creosote (25,000,000 gallons)	1,040,000
Crude carbolic acid (1,000,000 gallons)	500,000
Gas coke, at 12s a ton (4,000,000 tons after allowing 2,000,000 tons for working retorts)	12,000,000

The statement shows that the waste products are $15,850,000 more valuable than the coal itself—a contrast which will spur up chemistry to more thorough investigation. The Doctor went still further in his review of waste products, and showed that the weight of the soot hanging over London on a winter's day was fifty tons, and the poisonous carbonic oxide in the air five times that amount. All this is not only going to waste, but it is making other things go to waste, such as human works and human life, and all these waste products he believes could be turned to useful purposes. More than this, he believes that all this waste can be avoided by using gas as the heating power instead of raw coal. A pound of gas gives forth exactly twice the heat of a pound of coal, so that burning raw coal he claims is squandering our inheritance. By quitting its use he maintains that science will "banish the black pall of smoke which hangs over our great cities and restore to them pure air, bright sunshine, and blue skies"; and this gas he claims will be manufactured at the bottom of the mine and distributed therefrom by pipes, thus doing away with gasometers altogether.

By the union of gas and electricity Dr. Siemens believes the steam engine will be doomed. For a time it may be used to drive large dynamo machines, which will take the place of numerous small steam engines, but ultimately the steam engine will be superseded by the gas engine. "Gas and electricity may be mutually hostile, but they are to unite their forces in order to extirpate the steam engine. The unpardonable sin of the steam engine is that of waste. Even the best of them consume two pounds of coal per horse-power per hour; whereas, when the gas producer has taken the place of the complex and dangerous steam boiler it will not take one pound of coal to develop one horse-power for one hour." As to the competition between gas and electricity Dr. Siemens believes that the latter will be used for lighting public places, but that gas will still be the "poor man's friend." Electricity will light our streets, but gas will be used for almost all household purposes, including cooking. He does not think that electric railways are going to supersede steam railways for a very long time to come, though the electric motor will be of great advantage in agriculture, and has a great future before it.

Dr. Siemens did not confine himself to electricity, though this is his favorit study. He had something to say on the construction of vessels, and what he said is of sufficient importance to give in his own words:

In considering the question how the advantages thus established in favor of steam shipping could be further improved, attention should be called in the first place to the material employed in their construction. A new material was introduced for this purpose by the Admiralty in 1876-'78, when they constructed at Pembroke Dockyard the two steam corvets, the Iris and Mercury, of mild steel. The peculiar qualities of this material are such as to have enabled shipbuilders to save 20 per cent in the weight of the ship's hull, and to increase to that extent its carrying capacity. It combines with a strength of 30 per cent superior to that of iron such extreme toughness that in the case of collision the side of the vessel has been found to yield or bulge several feet without showing any signs of rupture, a quality affecting the question of sea risk very favorably. When to the use of this material there are added the advantages derived from a double bottom and from the division of the ship's hold by means of bulkheads of solid construction, it is difficult to conceive how such a vessel could perish by collision, either with another vessel or with a sunken rock. The spaces between the two bottoms are not lost, because they form convenient chambers for water ballast; but powerful pumps should in all cases be added to meet emergencies. If to the improvement already achieved could be added an engine of half the weight of the present steam-engine and boilers, and working with only half the present expenditure of fuel, a further addition of 30 per cent could be made to the cargo of an Atlantic propeller vessel—no longer to be called a steamer—and the balance of advantages in favor of such vessels would be sufficient to restrict the use of sailing craft chiefly to the regattas of this and neighboring ports.

The Doctor also lightly touched upon other topics. He looks forward with certainty to the completion of the Panama Canal and the flooding of the African desert, which he thinks will be immensely beneficial in its influence. If the submarine tunnel under the English Channel is not constructed, he believes that ferryboats capable of taking railway trains will be constructed. The old Puritan warning to keep your powder dry is no longer of any significance, since a gun-powder in which hydro-carbons precipitated from solution in naphtha will take the place of the charcoal and sulphur of ordinary powder, and has among others the peculiar property of resisting the action of water. After reciting the great discoveries which have been made in the solar atmosphere and the interstellar spaces the Doctor concluded his address as follows:

Stellar space filled with such matter as hydro-carbon and aqueous vapor would establish a material continuity between the sun and his planets, and between the innumerable solar systems of which the universe is composed. If chemical action and reaction can further be admitted, we may be able to trace certain conditions of thermal dependence and maintenance, in which we may recognize principles of high perfection, applicable also to comparatively humble purposes of human life. We shall thus find that in the great workshop of Nature there are no lines of demarkation to be drawn between the most exalted speculation and commonplace practice, and that all knowledge must lead up to one great result, that of an intelligent recognition of the Creator through His works.

THE annual special edition of the Galveston News, issued Sept. 1, gives some interesting statistical facts about Texas. The area of that State exceeds that of the German Empire by 62,365 square miles. To make up the difference between the area of Texas and that of Great Britain and Ireland would require the States of Maine, Ohio, Virginia, and Kentucky. Lignite beds which belong to the eocene tertiary period extend over a large portion of the State, and crop out on the banks of all the principal rivers. The numerous bituminous waters, the most noted of which is Sour Lake, Hardin County, are due to this lignite formation. In Trinity County there is a sulphur spring whose waters are almost equal to those of Aix-la-Chapelle in Europe, and are two and a half-times stronger than the waters of the White Sulphur Springs in Virginia. The eastern part of Texas abounds in chalybeate springs. The fine coffee-colored soil of the prairies produces fine crops of wheat, corn, and other cereals. The prairies furnish pasturage yearly for over 4,000,000 head of cattle. The eastern and northwestern portions of the State contain the finest forests of oak, ash, bois d'arc, cypress, walnut, and pine to be found west of the Mississippi. Texas is now the sixth State as to mileage of railroads, having 5,340 miles. Illinois stands first, with 8,326 miles. There are two sugar districts in Texas—one on the Brazos and one on the Colorado. It is estimated that they are capable of producing half the sugar consumed in the United States.

"L. A.," IN the Christian Union, says: "English servants are the envy and admiration of American women. I wonder, however, if English housekeepers are not the envy and admiration of American servants! The English girl is trained to know the whole household alfabet from A to Z; and, while she never airs her knowledge, she is never apparently ashamed of it. A gentleman has little opportunity to measure a lady's ability in this department, but I should have been rather surprised than otherwise to learn that the young ladies in any of the homes which I was privileged to visit could not cook a meal, if they had need to do so, to satisfaction, if not perfection, and I know that in many cases they could set the table, and preside at it, if need be, with matronly grace and dignity." The same writer repeats the saying of an English lady now domesticated in America: "I like," she said to him, "America better than England, because woman is so much freer, and really so much more honored. In England gentlemen do not deign to talk with us on great questions, and it is not considered ladylike for a lady to have an opinion of her own and maintain it against a gentleman. In America we are their equals, and we have a right to know what they know, to be interested in what they are interested in, and to have our thoughts and utter them."

A LITTLE book by Bret Harte, containing his two new stories, "Flip" and "Found at Blazing Star," is announced by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.—Henry Holt & Co. will soon bring out Mrs. Kemble's "Later Records"—perhaps the most successful book of the London season.—J. B. Lippincott & Co. have published a complete edition of the poetical works of T. Buchanan Read.—Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have issued the complete poetical works of Alice and Phœbe Cary in an edition uniform with the "Household," Lowell, Holmes, etc.—The new Hawthorne romance is rapidly getting into type, and will, it is supposed, be of about the length of "Septimius Felton."—Miss Alcott has two new books in preparation. The first is called "Proverb Stories," each tale illustrating some popular saying; and the other is "An Old-Fashioned Thanksgiving," completing the "Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag" series.—O. B. Frothingham is to write the life of George Ripley for the "American Men of Letters" series.—Two forthcoming volumes of the "American Statesmen" series will be: "James Monroe," by President Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, and "Daniel Webster," by Henry Cabot Lodge.

OF the Roman Catholic Archbishop Lynch's presentation at the Court of St. James the Churchman says: "He is the first Roman prelate who has been formally 'presented' at the Court of St. James for over 200 years—not even Cardinals Manning and Howard having enjoyed that distinction. Trivial, therefore, as the incident may seem in itself, its importance is considerable. The event may be regarded as 'Catholic emancipation' in a new sense—the emancipation of English Catholicism from its somewhat cowardly attitude of non-intercourse with Rome, and the proclamation of the good old English doctrine of fair play. If it is the end of Erastianism in the Church of England, or the beginning of the end, we are thankful."

OF Mr. Elliott's paper in the North American Review the American Hebrew says: "We find the solution of the question the author raises in the Jewish definition of woman, which is a 'help-meet' for man—not his rival. They are made differently; their instincts are different, their missions are different; man's work is never woman's work; women should never seek men's work—should never need men's wages. If the contrary obtains, it is but one of the many monstrous births of modern civilization able to be the parent of such stupendous horrors as the writer asserts 'he has reason to know' exist. To rectify this—to prevent, not to cure—is, or should be, the aim of ministers, social reformers, and all honest men."

A DAKOTA man has patented a stove for burning hay and straw. The base of the burner is made square, and deep enough to provide space for a large ash-pan, and in a circular opening in its upper surface is pivoted a grate. Over and outside of the grate is placed a sheet-iron cylinder, and on its top are an inner flat cover and an ornamental outer cover. Inside of this cylinder is a smaller cylinder formed of parallel bars connected at their ends by rings. A cylinder in which straw is packed is adapted to open when it is passed into the grated cylinder, and leave the straw when it is drawn out. The space between the grated and sheet-iron cylinders gives draft for burning.

THE Boers do not conceal their hatred of the English. In a late number of the Volkstern, the chief newspaper of the Transvaal, there appears an advertisement headed "Warning," and signed by the Veldt Court of the district, which reads: "We, the undersigned burghers of the Ward Aapjes River, hereby warn all loyal persons who have registered themselves with the British Resident that they are not to come into our houses or into our farms, and still less to offer to shake hands. They can greet at a distance on the road like Kafirs, and those who act contrary to this notice can expect the result."

THE London Truth says: "At the recent examination for clerkships in the post-office there were 1,500 female candidates. But why are women not paid the same as men for doing precisely the same work, after having passed an examination in which men and women compete? It will be replied that Government must pay the market price, and that women are ready to take a smaller salary than men. But, if this view be adopted, and if it be admitted that women are as good clerks as men, then it would be only logical to appoint women alone to all vacancies."

THE Japanese are restricted in the liberty of speech and of the press, as appears from the experience of a Yokohama paper which lately published this notice: "Friendly Meeting of Revolutionists.—The above meeting will be held on the Asuka Hill in the afternoon of the 20th inst. at 3 o'clock. All gentlemen are invited to attend." The authorities could not ascertain who was responsible for the preparation of the notice, and accordingly suspended the paper, which rejoices in the name of Choya Shinbun.

OF all the industrial arts of the early days of Alexandria one only still survives—that of fine embroidery. In the time of the Caliphs this had reached an admirable pitch of perfection. In those days the European Princes procured their more costly dress-stuffs from the East; and even the coronation mantle of the Roman-German Emperors, preserved in the treasury of Vienna, was worked by Arab hands; indeed, the Tiraz, an arabesque, representing in its artistic curves the name and titles of the illustrious wearer, is conspicuously embroidered upon it. Venice and Genoa obtained their silk stuffs from Alexandria, and all the gold thread required in Europe in the days of chivalry, when the nobility loved gorgeously-embroidered garments, was brought from the East, where it was made, as is now known, of finely-divided threads of the intestines of animals killed for food.

A CORRESPONDENT at Trouville, France, writes to the London Truth: "The Americans here dress tremendously. Most of the girls are very stylish, and can carry off any amount of decoration. As a rule they have very slight figures, with prettily-shaped shoulders, contrasting with the majority of the Frenchwomen, whose shoulders are square, and who are all verging toward plumpness, if they have not already arrived there."

THE Christian at Work thinks "there is little doubt that the original camp-meetings have ceased to exist here at the East; and the probability is that nine-tenths of the various permanent religious gatherings at watering-places present a mixture of religion, real-estate speculation, house-building, and hotel-management, which is none the less incongruous that it has become popular and profitable."

UNDER a new law three women are to be appointed in each county of Ohio, in conjunction with two men, as a Board of Visitors for the charity and correctional institutions. They are to serve without pay, keep themselves advised of the condition and needs of the institutions in question, and make a report once a year.

GLOOMY prospects are reported from France in champagne—old wines already commanding higher prices because of delays and deterioration in the new supply. The Bordeaux vintage is estimated as smaller even than that of 1881. The vines in the Cognac district are nearly all dead.

Maj. Phipps, the missing Superintendent of the Philadelphia Almshouse, is now charged with forgery as well as theft, and revelations to the effect that he was once a New Jersey savings-bank officer are hourly expected.

The Rev. Alexander Keiser, of Reading, Pa., is charged by Miss Elizabeth Miller with being the father of her 7-year-old boy. It looks as though in this case it was the other man who ought to have bought a dog and given Keiser a fighting interest in the animal.

A Cincinnati dispatch says that "Senator Sherman is taking a conservative course on the temperance question." Mr. Sherman once assumed a similar position in regard to hotel bills, and was eventually obliged to come across lots on the run in order to reach home before the rain began.

Brave Bear, the Indian Chief who was to have been hung Sept. 18 for the murder of a white man near Fort Sully, has been granted a second respit of sixty days. The chances are that Brave Bear will eventually be allowed to give a demand note for himself, in order that the matter may be amicably settled.

O brilliant, blooming, bright-red rose,
Whose scented odor heavenward goes,
I love thy beauty, color, size,
Thou sweetest flower beneath the skies!
But greater far than I love thee,
I love the love who gav'st thee me.

Though she with thee might well commune,
As thou with her couldst truly vie,
Thou hast a richness in thy bloom,
And she has beauty in her eye;
Her look inspires eternal bliss;
Thine breathes forth nature's loveliness.

Thou art a rose, and so is she;
Each blossoms in the bright today.
Pure as thou art may her life be,
Until it shed its parting ray!
E'en as at night thy portals close,
So shall her eyelids find repose.

PERSONALS.

The mother-in-law of the late Nathaniel Adams, her daughter, her daughter's daughter, her daughter's daughter's daughter, and her daughter's daughter's daughter's daughter are all living at his late residence in the Roxbury district of Boston, Mass. Thus there are five generations of women in continuous line living under the same roof, they being Mrs. Hendley, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Wolcott, Mrs. Colby, and little Miss Colby. Mrs. Hendley is 95 years of age, and the infant a few weeks only.

The estate of the late Eli Goodrich, of Branford, Conn., is estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000, the bulk of which goes out of the family. He cuts off his only daughter from her inheritance, her marriage displeasing him. Mr. Goodrich married for his second wife his servant-girl; and to her the will leaves control of the real estate during her lifetime if she does not marry. If she does, or at her death, the real estate goes to Mabel Goodrich, his granddaughter. The personal property is given to the Episcopal Church Society of Branford.

The Troy Times relates the following incident: "The wife of a prominent manufacturer of this city visited Asbury Park six weeks ago for a fortnight's sojourn to recruit her health. The day after she arrived, a waiter at the hotel where the lady was staying upset at the table a cup of hot coffee upon her. The shock of the accident confused her, and, dazed and blinded, she arose to leave the room. In her bewilderment she ran against another waiter, and the contents of a tray he was carrying were overturned upon her. In her ill-health the repeated accidents caused prostration, and she was unable to leave her room for six weeks."

The principal arrangements for the Webster centennial, at Marshfield, Mass., Oct. 3, will be as follows: Breakfast will be provided for the President on his arrival; after which a procession will march to the Webster tomb, which will be decorated. The exercises at the tomb will be a dirge by the band, the singing of an original hymn, prayer by the Rev. Mr. Alden, and a short address by the President of the Webster Historical Society—in all occupying about half an hour. The procession will then march across the Webster grounds to the tents situated on the hill, where dinner will be served; after which speeches from distinguished guests are expected.

The nobility of imperial creation, says the London Truth, is almost extinct in France. Those soldiers and functionaries who became Dukes and Princes by Napoleon's grace lived fast and died out rapidly. Berthier was one of the few among them who bore fortune well. Alexander Berthier, his grandson, who has just married Mlle. Berthe de Rothschild, was rather wild, but he tamed down. The majorat, or perpetual annuity, which descends in his family from father to eldest son, amounts to 300,000 francs. The Berthiers of Wagram are connected with the reigning families of Sweden and Bavaria, and with the Ducal family of Leuchtenberg. Prince Alexander is heir to the title and the annuity.

After the Ashantee war Sir Garnet Wolseley received some additional letters to his name and a Parliamentary grant of $125,000. He is now a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, so that nothing remains to be awarded to him in the way of additional honor save a Peerage. This, if given, will have to be accompanied by a large grant of money and a pension, if the dignity is to be sustained in the manner traditionally deemed befitting; and all the more so in view of the Queen's well-known dislike to creating a poor man a Peer. Wellington's patrimony was probably at most $30,000, but he received grants of $3,500,000 from Parliament. Nelson began life poorer still, and the grants that he and his family received amounted in all to about one-fourth of those given to Wellington. Several of the other naval and military Peers, of lesser fame than these, but, nevertheless, of very high distinction, received pensions for themselves and two successors; others, as in the case of Lord Exmouth, the hero of Algiers, perpetual pensions. It is not likely that such grants as those made to Wellington will ever be made again. The last military Peer was Sir William Mansfield, Lord Landourst. In his case, too, there was a lack of adequate means to support the dignity.

East-Bound Freight Shipments Again Decreasing—The Eastern Magnates' Discrimination Against This City Driving Business to Other Points.

The hopes of the Eastern railroad officials that east-bound freight shipments would continue to improve have not been realized. The shipments for the past week suffered a decrease, and the prospects are that this week's record will make a still worse showing. The increase in shipments during the past few weeks was not due to an increased demand for our products in the East or in Europe. It was simply due to the fact that shippers had to cover shortages in oats by Sept. 1, and, as the stuff had to be in New York by that time, shippers were compelled to give the business to the rail lines, as it would not have reached its destination in time had it been shipped by the lake lines. Since the shortages have been filled business by rail is again dwindling down to its former insignificant proportion, and all that has to be shipped goes by the lake lines. It is feared that even after navigation has closed the business east from this city will not again assume its former proportions. The Eastern trunk-line magnates are doing their best to drive business away from Chicago by unreasonable exactions and charges. Instead of stimulating business to come this way, as was formerly done, everything is now being done to force traffic into other channels. It looks as if the Eastern magnates find it more profitable to have the business go via the lines southwest from Chicago, as they are helping those lines all they can. All the expenses incurred in the handling and switching of cars at this point, and which were formerly borne by the railroads, are now exacted from the shippers. This action virtually raises the rates from Chicago about five cents per 100 pounds, and Chicago shippers are no longer able to compete with the shippers of other Western points, where no such exactions are made. No such terminal charges as the railroads now make at this point are made at St. Louis, Peoria, Indianapolis, or Toledo, and the roads running east from those points are in consequence rapidly gaining on the roads leading east from this city. As long as the Chicago roads were managed by Western men they did their best to force business this way, and through their efforts Chicago has become the great commercial city it is. But since most of these roads have fallen into the hands of a few Eastern magnates and speculators this has been changed. These men care nothing for Chicago or the producers and shippers in the West. All they care is to make as much money out of the roads as they can, and if they can make more money by forcing business via Southwestern points they will do all in their power to divert the business that way, regardless of what the interests of Chicago and the great Northwest may require. The Eastern magnates think they can make more money by forcing business to other Western points than Chicago because at those points they have not to meet any lake competition. Although the wheat crop has been unusually large, and there is now a prospect for at least a fair corn crop, yet the railroads had better not rejoice too soon, as it is not by any means certain that they will be kept extraordinarily busy on that account. The large crops will avail the railroads but little as long as there is no demand in the East and in Europe. And it does not look now as if the demand would be greater than it was last year, as, according to all advices, the crops in the East and in Europe have been unusually good, and they will need but little of our stuff. On this account prices will go very low and the business will not be able to bear the heavy transportation charges made by the Eastern lines. If the railroads leading east from this city mean to do a fair business this winter they must change their tactics considerably and give the shippers a chance to bring business this way.

The total shipments of flour, grain, and provisions for the week ending Sept. 9 by the six pool lines leading east from this city amounted to 30,057 tons, against 32,019 tons for the week previous, a decrease of 1,962 tons. The total shipments for the corresponding week last year were 55,276 tons, or nearly twice as much, and shipments were then considered very light.

The following statement shows the amount of flour grain and provisions carried east from this city by the six Eastern lines during the past week, and also the amount carried by the same roads for the corresponding week last year:

	Flour, brls.	Grain, tons of 2,000 lbs.	Provisions tons of 2,000 lbs.	Total tons.
Mich. Cent'l	10,822	3,973	1,032	6,087
Lake Shore	2,183	3,749	1,379	5,346
Ft. Wayne	9,445	4,657	1,793	7,393
Pan Handle	4,194	2,314	1,523	4,256
Balt. & Ohio	1,005	957	429	1,486
Gr'd Trunk	14,214	3,331	738	5,489
Total, 1882	41,863	18,981	6,894	30,057
Same week 1881	78,555	37,771	9,649	55,276

The percentages this year were: Michigan Central, 20.30; Lake Shore, 17.80; Fort Wayne, 24.60; Pan-Handle, 14.20; Baltimore & Ohio, 5; Grand Trunk, 18.10. The percentages last year were: Michigan Central, 24.90; Lake Shore, 28.90; Fort Wayne, 16.40; Pan-Handle, 12.30; Baltimore & Ohio, 7.70; Grand Trunk, 9.80.

Conference Between Railroad Managers and Board of Trade Men—The Latter Protest Against the Charge of $2 for Switching, and Want It Remitted.

The shippers and elevator-men in this city seem to be determined not to submit to the exaction of $2 per car as charges for switching cars from the elevators as long as such charges are not also exacted at other Western points. Before taking any decisive measures to force the Eastern lines to terms, they decided to have a conference with the railroad managers of the Eastern roads to see whether the matter could not be amicably arranged. Accordingly a meeting was called to be held at the Lake Shore office, to which the managers of the Western roads were also invited. The shippers and elevator men turned out in such large numbers to meet the railroad managers, that Mr. Newell's office was found too small, and the meeting adjourned to the Grand Pacific Hotel. The Eastern railroads were represented by their General Managers and General Freight Agents, and the Western roads were also represented by leading officials.

The shippers submitted an appeal on behalf of the Board of Trade asking that the railroads remit the charge of $2 per car for switching cars from elevators until similar charges were made for switching at Peoria, Toledo, St. Louis, and other Western points. The Board of Trade men argued that the action of the railroads was unjust and unfair, and that it was an act of discrimination against Chicago, since no such charge is made at other competing points. They also claimed that the Eastern roads, in making such charge, were violating an arrangement made about two years ago. At that time the Eastern railroads decided to charge $2 per car for switching, but afterwards agreed to take the charge off again, the Western lines agreeing to charge but half the amount charged before for switching to the elevators, and the elevator men agreeing not to make any charge for trimming. Although the Western roads and the elevator men still adhere to the agreement then made, the Eastern roads now again charge $2 for switching from elevators, which the shippers claim is a clear steal from them.

Mr. Newell, of the Lake Shore, who acted as spokesman for the railroads, explained that the Eastern roads made this extra charge because they found it necessary in order to make a profit on their business. The roads leading East from this city, he said, were charged by the New York trunk lines 3 cents per 100 pounds for terminal charges at New York. Besides they had to pay the Western roads for switching. Thus the receipts of the Eastern roads from this city were greatly reduced, and they ought not under the circumstances to be asked to do switching from the elevators free of charge.

This was considered rather a queer explanation, as the three cents charged for terminal expenses at New York are a clear steal on the part of Vanderbilt, as he alone exacts that charge from his Western connections, and he as well as the other Eastern lines were charging shippers besides one and one-quarter cents per bushel on grain for terminal expenses. The Board of Trade men also thought it queer that the roads leading East from this city should make such charge for switching when no such charge was made by the roads leading east from Peoria, St. Louis, and Toledo. The shippers did not think that the Chicago roads could gain anything by such illiberal and unjust action, as thereby business was being diverted to other competing points.

Mr. Newell said the Eastern roads from this city would remit the charge if the Western roads would make no charge for switching to the elevators. The Western roads refused to do this, as they thought they had already made a great concession when they reduced their charges about two years ago.

The Eastern roads finally agreed to give the matter further consideration, and if they found that the Chicago shippers were suffering on account of this charge being made they would remit it.

The result of the meeting was entirely unsatisfactory to the Board-of-Trade men, and they declare their intention to fight the railroads until they get satisfactory treatment. They say they will only submit if a similar charge for switching is made at other Western points.

Railroad Notes from Bloomington.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 9.—The Chicago & Alton is building extensive additions to its round-houses at Roodhouse, the headquarters of the St. Louis Division. A new machine-shop is to be erected there in the near future.

The Indiana, Bloomington & Western will in a few days put sleeping-car service on its line from Peoria to Indianapolis, the sleepers running through from Omaha to Indianapolis, to connect at the latter point with the Baltimore & Ohio sleepers for the East. The chair-car service now used between Peoria and Indianapolis will be transferred to the run between Decatur, Ill., and Columbus.

It is extremely doubtful if the Illinois Central will extend its Kankakee line from Colfax, McLean County, this season, as the company have as yet given no orders to commence operations. The line has been surveyed for some months.

End of the Narrow-Gage at Galena, Ill.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

GALENA, Ill., Sept. 9.—The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad is disposing of their thirty-six inch rolling stock preparatory to changing their Galena & Wisconsin narrow-gage system into a standard-gage road. Two of their finest engines were shipped today from Montfort for Arkansas, where they are to be used on a narrow-gage road. W. J. Parish, a prominent railroadman of Mississippi, was in Galena this forenoon arranging with the company for the purchase of narrow-gage engines and cars for a road in his State. The Chicago & Northwestern have completed their broad-gage track as far south as Benton, and steel has been distributed within ten miles of Galena.

Missouri Pacific Items.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

ATCHISON, Kas., Sept. 9.—M. L. Sargent, Assistant General Freight and Passenger Agent of the Missouri Pacific at this point, has tendered his resignation, to take effect Oct. 15. Mr. Sargent has had entire charge of the department west and north of Kansas City for the past three years.

On Monday morning the Missouri Pacific Railway Company will commence work on the freight depot. This structure will occupy half a block, will be two stories high, and one of the finest buildings of the kind in the West.

The St. Louis, Fort Scott & Wichita.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 7.—Advices well founded continue to point to the Chicago & Alton as the real backing of the St. Louis, Fort Scott & Wichita. Gentlemen claiming to know and in a position to understand say the Chicago & Alton Company are now the real owners of the road, and this fact will soon be made public. No other road is so well placed to successfully operate the new line. If this be so the new line is all the more desirable for Wichita and the Lower Arkansas Valley.

The New Road to Denver.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—The Burlington's new route between Kansas City and Denver will be formally opened tomorrow. The first train, composed entirely of new Pullman palace cars, will leave at 9:40 tomorrow night. A large excursion party goes with the train, including members of the press of this and other cities. The new route is eight miles longer than the Kansas Pacific, and about 140 shorter than the Santa Fé.

Colorado and Utah.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 9.—The Utah Division of the Denver & Rio Grande Railway was completed today to Montrose, on Uncompahgre River, 352 miles from Denver. The link necessary to connect the Colorado and Utah systems is now reduced to 275 miles, for which distance the work is vigorously prosecuted.

Miscellaneous Items.

The Chicago & Grand Trunk brought here Friday four car-loads of European emigrants, and yesterday seven car-loads.

Private car No. 99, of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad, came here yesterday to take the Hon. J. Warren Keifer, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and party to Topeka, Kas. Speaker Keifer leaves via the Rock Island tomorrow noon, and will address a Republican meeting at Topeka Tuesday.

Arthur S. Gibbs, formerly of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway, and during the last few months connected with the General Freight Department of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway at St. Paul, has been appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Minnesota & St. Paul Division of the Northern Pacific Railway.

Mr. Jauriet, General Manager of the United States Rolling-Stock Company, says there is no truth in the report that his company had decided to locate new shops at South Chicago. He says his company is looking around to find an available site for new shops, as the present shops on the West Side are inadequate for the constantly increasing business. But thus far no site for new shops has been selected, and there is no telling yet where the company may ultimately locate its new shops.

BURGLAR'S PICNIC.

An Affair That Was to Have Taken Place Not a Thousand Miles from Chicago—How a Little Too Much Steel Spoils Their Fun.

Taking advantage of a knowledge of the fact that a certain flourishing and well-to-do banker in a neighboring city (who requests us to withhold his name) had an unusually large amount of money on hand, several of Chicago's most noted safe-blowers and burglars marked that bank for a victim, and at once proceeded to lay their plans to capture the large and tempting sum that they had a positive knowledge was held by the bank. A few nights ago the time arrived when the attempt was to be made. Flushed with the success they had enjoyed in previous undertakings of this kind, they went forth to the work in hand with high hopes and great expectations, and so sanguine were they of accomplishing their work that they portioned out the bank's thousands among their number (on paper) thinking that only a few short hours of skillful work would give them the plunder to divide in reality. On the night of the undertaking everything seemed to work in their favor. It was dark, the wind howled, and the watchman whose duty it was to sleep in the bank was at home nursing a sick wife. They could not have asked a more opportune moment to do the job. It was an easy matter to gain an entrance to the bank. When once inside undiscovered, and none to molest them from within, their chance of success seemed certain. In just what order they applied their skillful tests to the bank's strong boxes we have no means of knowing, but that their work was faithful and directed by great experience and skill in the safe-breaking and safe-blowing art the battered, and scarred, and blackened appearance of the unopened safe the next morning bore ample testimony. The ratchets and drills were powerless although applied to the supposed weakest points; the powder and dynamite would not enter far enough to get any hold on the safe, and only succeeded in burning and blackening the painted outside. Thus the night wore away and early dawn found the burglars still hard at work, goaded on by the knowledge that only a few short inches of space separated them from thousands of dollars, which, if obtained, would well repay them for their risk and trouble. In the excitement of the undertaking they had failed to notice the words "Diebold Safe & Lock Company, Jno. W. Norris, Western Manager, Chicago," that embellished the door of the great burglar-proof safe that guarded the banker's wealth even as faithfully as it has guarded the millions of dollars intrusted to its strong locks and bolts by other bankers all over the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. It is only necessary to add had the burglars made this discovery before, they would have saved us the trouble of giving the details of a case of attempted safe-burglary, as it is most liable to happen at any time where they try this never-failing make of safes.

LABOR AND CAPITAL.

Sad Picture of Privation Among the Striking Iron-Workers of Pittsburg—The Union in Danger of Disintegration.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—An important movement is going on within the Amalgamated Association, the bent of which is clearly set forth in the following statement of T. G. McGrath, a member of the union of long standing, and at present employed as a roller at Smith, Sutton & Co.'s. He said to your correspondent this evening: "In spite of the district meeting on Monday, and the enthusiasm reported shown there, the strike is fast nearing a close. The existence of the Amalgamated Association is in danger, and a few days more will decide whether it is to live or die. It has been hinted in the press that some movement is soon to be made among the finishers, and, although President Jarrett has denied all such rumors, they nevertheless are well founded. While the district meeting was in session last Monday an informal meeting of rollers was held in the city, and a man from Youngstown made a proposition which was warmly indorsed by the rest. Ten mills in this city were represented at that gathering, and, as I do not wish to speak prematurely, I will merely say that another meeting has been held since, and another will be held soon, for the purpose of organization. The new movement will include the rollers and heaters, and the new organization will be conducted in a more conservative spirit than has marked the Amalgamated Association."

The same views were expressed by other members of the Amalgamated Association. It means that the finishers have about concluded to cut loose from the union and set up for themselves. William Walker & Co.'s men still refuse to obey the resolution passed at the district meeting ordering them to quit work. The steel department of the Fort Pitt mill will resume operations on Monday. Mr. J. J. Bennett, who was seen this evening, stated that arrangements had been made by which a large number of the old men will go to work on Monday morning. "By that," said he, "we will start four trains of steel-rolls, the hammer department, and the melting-shop." Groff, Bennet & Co. will start at the same time. One or two other mills will be ready for operations before the end of next week. There is a great deal of suffering among the strikers on account of food, clothing, and house rent. A prominent physician says he knows of at least 100 families who are in need of the commonest necessaries of life. If the strikers hold out much longer they will have to resort to stealing or begging. The leaders try to keep the true condition of the men from the public, but they are not always successful.

The Eastern Storm of Friday Night.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 9.—A severe rainstorm, accompanied by hail, visited South Deerfield, Whateley, and Sunderland for an hour Friday afternoon, doing an immense amount of damage to the unharvested tobacco crops. The estimated loss in each of the towns is not far from $15,000.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 9.—Almost destructive rain and hail storm passed over the southeastern section of this county last night. Fields of fine tobacco, just ready to cut, were practically ruined, and the leaf can now be used only for "fillers." The loss will be considerably over $50,000. Many farmers were insured. The corn crop also sustained some damage.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 9.—A severe thunderstorm passed over Montgomery County last night. At Schwenksville the house of John G. Bean was set on fire by lightning and destroyed. At Bridgeport the house of Martin McCormick was struck by lightning, and the roof was partially torn off. Several inmates were thrown from their beds.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 9.—During a severe storm last night the large barn of Jesse Tyson was destroyed by lightning. Loss, $25,000.

NORWICH, Conn., Sept. 9.—A severe storm passed over New London County this forenoon accompanied by lightning. Five men took refuge in an ice-house. The building was struck and all were paralyzed for a time. One, Michael Lynch, was terribly burned. The lightning struck him on the side and back, corkscrewed down his leg, and passed out at the foot, making a round hole at the top. Lynch lives, and is expected to recover. The barn of Luther Browning, in Lisbon, was struck and burned. Many animals were killed or injured.

Great Storm in Wisconsin.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 9.—One of the most severe and destructive thunder storms known in years passed over the country north of this city tonight. The rain fell in drenching torrents. The lightning was incessant and the thunder terrific. Passengers on the late south-bound train on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad report that lightning struck all over the country, and did an immense amount of damage. At Granville the large barn of William Pfiel, filled with hay and grain, was struck and burned to the ground. Loss about $2,800; partially insured. The railway depot was also struck, but not injured. Fires could be seen at various points for miles along the line over which the train passed, and it is expected that tomorrow's report will give details of heavy losses.

A Heavy Gale at New Orleans.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 9.—A river gale has blown all day, and the waters of Lake Ponchartrain have backed up on the rear of the city, covering the ground at Spanish Fort and the Shell road. The lines are down between here and South Pass, and no reply has come up today, and apprehension is felt for the safety of Port Eads and the works at the jetties. The building and shaft at quarantine station are damaged. The gale is extending all along the shore of the gulf to Florida, and much damage is looked for.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Higgins.

The decease of such a member of society as Mrs. Elizabeth S. Higgins deserves special notice. She was a native of Paxton, Mass., and removed with her family to Illinois about fifty years ago. Several of her early years were spent in the neighborhood of Jacksonville, Ill., where she was highly esteemed by many friends and acquaintances. About thirty-five years ago she was married to the Hon. Van H. Higgins, then of Galena. During the last thirty years of her life she had resided in Chicago. She was well known and warmly regarded here by a large circle of friends, who appreciated her many social attractions, her devotion to her home and family, and her usefulness in general society. She was a generous helper of the poor and of institutions for the relief of the needy and dependent, such as the Orphan Asylum, the Home for the Friendless, etc. Her house was freely open for the meetings of various benevolent and religious associations. From her youth onward she has been a worthy member of the Presbyterian Church in Chicago and vicinity—first of the Second Presbyterian Church, and then of the Hyde Park Church. Her hand was open for the aid of every Christian object. "She hath been a succorer of many." The Christian cause has suffered a great loss by her sudden removal from the midst of us. Her intelligent cheerfulness and graceful kindness, which attracted so many neighbors and old friends to her home and made her the centre and object of such true and lasting affection, will be missed like a genial light extinguished as in a moment. But her example and the memory of her good life are left to her family and the large number of those to whom she was endeared by so many tender ties.

Seemingly in more than usual health only the day before, during the forenoon of the 8th inst. some unfavorable symptoms appeared; but nothing serious was apprehended until at forty minutes past 1 o'clock p. m. she complained of faintness, and instantly expired. "We have here no continuing city." The funeral will take place at the family residence on Sunday at 3 o'clock. Carriages will be waiting at the depot on Fiftieth street. P.

Other Deaths.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—The Hon. R. W. Melindy, formerly Judge of the circuit composed of Branch and St. Joseph Counties, was found dead in bed at a hotel at Eaton Rapids this morning, where he was trying the virtues of mineral springs. He was a Captain in the Twenty-ninth Michigan Infantry during the War, and has been a victim of apoplexy for years.

ELGIN, Ill., Sept. 9.—Mrs. Sabrina Wiltsie, aged 77 years, died here last night. She was an old settler, coming from Duchess County, New York, in 1842, and the mother of Jerome Wiltsie, of Chicago.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 9.—Luther H. Hutchinson, Speaker of the House of Representatives, died last night.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 9.—Dr. E. S. Drew, a distinguished physician of this city and a member of the Washington Artillery in the Confederate army during the War, died in this city this morning. He was distinguished for his philanthropy, volunteering his services at all times to the poor and needy.

YELLOW-FEVER.

At Matamoras and Brownsville.

MATAMORAS, Sept. 9.—During the last twenty-four hours, to 9 a. m., there were three deaths in this city, all from yellow-fever. The number of persons sick continues to decrease, being not over sixty at present.

The official report at Brownsville for the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m. shows fifty-one new cases and three deaths. Dr. Wolffe is very low, with little hope of recovery.

Three new cases were reported in the post for the last twenty-four hours, and one death; six cases, all told, in the garrison, two considered serious.

The report from Camp Smith is that the camp is surrounded by water, and will be compelled to move. Sister Mary, of the Sacred Heart, died last night, and one other nun is reported dying.

The Rio Grande is still on the rise, fifteen inches additional being reported. Mail riders report all roads on the river under water.

Six new cases in the hospital this morning.

Epidemic at Pensacola, Fla.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 9.—The Board of Health declares the yellow-fever epidemic, and we have had in twenty-four hours sixteen new cases and three deaths. A terrific storm prevails, having continued for a night and a day, which threatens fatal results. One of the greatest burdens inflicted by the epidemic is the inability of the merchants to collect money due, all country places having quarantined, necessitating a general suspension of business.

KANSAS WHEAT.

The Yield and Extent of This Crop Shown at the Minneapolis Fair.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 7.—The showing of the wheat crop of Kansas, as seen in the exhibit of the Kansas Land Department of the Union Pacific Railroad of the agricultural products of that State, fully demonstrates that Kansas is not behind the great Northwest in point of quality and yield per acre. Indeed, among all the various exhibits of wheat among the different varieties none can equal the sample of wheat here shown from Kansas raised on the farm of J. S. Hollinger, of Dickinson County, near Abilene. The sample referred to is of the Russian variety, and is shown in sacks just as it came from the thrasher, and for a field of twenty-five acres the marvelous yield of sixty-one bushels per acre is shown. This is of course an exceptional case, but among the fifteen different varieties of wheat shown in this exhibit none are shown of a less yield than thirty bushels per acre, and all of a very fine quality. The principal varieties grown in this State, as shown by the exhibit, is the Russian, Odessa, Fultz, Turkey, and red and white May. The Russian is a comparatively new wheat in Kansas, and is remarkable for its hardiness and large yield. When one sees by the placard on the exhibit the fact that the wheat crop of Kansas in 1862 was only 202,232 bushels, and that this year (1882) it is over 35,000,000 bushels, some idea of the State as a wheat-producing one may be gained. Large shipments of Kansas wheat are now being received by the large millers here, who are converting it into the best quality of flour for foreign exportation. Kansas has reason to be proud of her agricultural exhibit here, and attracts general attention. C. H. W.

A VICTORY FOR SPRAGUE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 9.—In the Supreme Court this morning, in the case of the petition of Z. Chaffee, trustee and assignee of the Sprague estate, for advice and assistance in the matter of the sale of Canonchet to F. D. Moulton, the petition was dismissed, thus leaving ex-Gov. William Sprague in practical possession of Canonchet indefinitly, unless ousted by proceedings at law.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Arend's Kumyss should be the reliance of the physician in all those cases of debility in which prompt improvement of the general tone is imperative. Kumyss is the blandest and most easily digested food, and as such the best nourishment for a weak stomach: at the same time, through the process of fermentation which Kumyss undergoes, medicinal qualities are developed which we vainly look for in materia medica. In nausea, vomiting, extreme cases of dyspepsia, Kumyss acts like a charm, promptly relieving all the distressing symptoms of such cases. When the stomach rejects all else, Kumyss is retained and assimilated, affording the patient nourishment, strength, and comfort, and, as a logical consequence, nervousness ceases and refreshing sleep follows. In scarlet, intermittent, gastric, and typhoid fever, Kumyss is the best diet. It satisfies thirst and hunger and allays the fever. Kumyss has considerably the advantage over drugs, in that it never can do harm. To dose an irritable stomach with drugs is an absurdity which no intelligent physician attempts in this day. But not only in extreme cases should Kumyss be resorted to; it should be the chief remedy for a weak stomach under all circumstances. The dyspeptic brain-worker with a few glasses of Kumyss a day will improve his digestion and his nerve force. Ladies would be less nervous, more vigorous, and healthier-looking if they would add to their daily diet a few glasses of Kumyss."

LOCAL POLITICS.

An Address Defining Morse's Position and Denouncing Dishonest Primaries.

Pressing for the Prize.

The local political pot is boiling more vigorously than ever, and the fuel is being supplied without stint. The ebullition for the most part, however, is on the Republican side just at present. With one hand on the lever of the Democratic machine, and the other on the throttle-valve, Joe Mackin can set the thing in motion whenever he pleases, and, what is more, will not start it up until he does please. The Congressional contests in the four Chicago districts absorb and overwhelm pretty much everything else, and while the legislative and county fights dovetail into them all around, few active moves are made or probably will be made until the Congressional muddles are cleared up and out of the way. In spite of all that can be done to separate them, however, they keep intruding upon the main fights until the situation is about as mixed and as puzzling to the average outsider as well as to some of the political old-stagers themselves as could well be imagined. The conventions of the present week will tend to clear it up in spots and transfer the interest to others, in some of which the contests for supremacy at the primaries and in the convention are likely to be fully as enlivening.

First Congressional—Aldrich Apparently Falling Behind, Coy Standing Still, and Dore Gaining Ground.

While Mr. Aldrich professes to be as confident as ever of a renomination, nine out of ten of the politicians to be encountered in a walk of a few blocks are equally as positive that he is "left," and that Coy or Dore will come to the front. The latter has perhaps made more capital out of the public performances of the "Big Four" than any of his competitors. While Mr. Aldrich is explaining his record, and Coy is revamping that bull story, and John Lyle King is cracking his jokes, Mr. Dore opens out on the greatness of Chicago, the necessity of the Hennepin Canal, and other public improvements, and is gradually inspiring a good many of his hearers with the feeling that the First District might go farther for a Representative and fare worse. It has been popularly supposed for some time that the friendly influence of the Custom-House was on the Aldrich side. If it is, some of the workers from that quarter are disobeying their instructions. A week or so ago everybody sat down on Arthur Dixon as an Aldrich man. While nobody can read Arthur's mind, the inferences to be drawn from some things he has said and done rather point the other way. The indications now are that the First Ward will be divided, and the impression that King and Dore are not fighting each other very hard, but rather helping one another on the quiet, gives some of the knowing ones an opportunity to predict that the First will ultimately fall down before Dore. The anti-Aldrich feeling has been industriously fanned in the Second, the colored population is in a state of rebellion, and the situation offers no special incentive to those who worked against Aldrich two years ago to turn in and labor for him now, while many of those who were arrayed on his side at that time are down on him now, and threaten to keep him out. Coy was a favorit there until recently, but his chances have not been improved by the repetition of that bull story, while Dore has apparently pulled up considerably. Aldrich stock is apparently in the Third, where some of his supporters, who are accused of lukewarmness, now talk about electing an unpledged delegation. Mr. Dore has had some able missionaries, like Murry Nelson and John H. Clough, helping him in the Third, and some of the anti-Aldrich people go so far as to say that the delegation will drop him after a few complimentary ballots—a statement which makes the present Congressman smile the smile of incredulity. The Fourth Ward is still regarded as a battleground. Neither Coy nor Aldrich has yet received his title to its eighteen votes, although of the two the chances seem to be rather on the side of Coy. The latter still counts on Hyde Park and Lake, with Aldrich disputing his claim as to the former and serenely calculating on bringing up the country towns with substantial solidity. The Dore boom contributes nothing to the comfort of either. It offers each a club with which to pound the other, and both are apparently beginning to realize it. When Mr. Aldrich returned from Washington he was advised by some of his friends to have the convention called for as early a day as possible. The advice went unheeded. Mr. Aldrich came out for a late convention. The field has apparently used the time to some advantage and is now working for further delay. How it will succeed, and what it will accomplish if it does, can only be guessed at. The Congressional Committee is to meet Tuesday, and the first open move in the game will indicate in some measure who holds the winning hand.

THIRD WARD REPUBLICANS.

A meeting of the Third Ward Republican Club was held last evening in Martine's Hall, corner of Indiana avenue and Twenty-second street. Mr. J. W. Waughop presided, and the attendance was quite large. James F. Sheridan acted as Secretary. Judge Summerfield, the Treasurer, reported receipts of $98.51 and expenditures $55.50, leaving a balance of $44.01, which he was ready to turn over at any time. On motion, a committee of five was appointed to report officers for the ensuing year, and the committee retired. A number of new members then signed the roll.

Mr. John C. Dore was called for, and he said he thought that if Congressman Aldrich was in the room he should have the preference, but as he did not seem to be there Mr. Dore went on. He said that the Republicans had waved the bloody shirt too long and had looked down the bloody chasm long enough. They should wash the bloody shirt and close the bloody chasm. There was no war now nor rumors of war, and the Southern white man had gone to work. They should shake hands now and live together in harmony. And there is no use of the Government spending such fabulous sums on our army and navy. We had no war with foreign Powers, and had no fear of any. Why was this expenditure? There were but 25,000 men in the United States Army and they were paid only $156 per year each. What became of the rest of the money appropriated? That was what the people wanted to know. [Applause and cries of "Good!"] This money could be better used in furthering internal improvements. But these improvements could easily be made with the enormous taxes paid by our farmers and manufacturers. The speaker then went on to give statistics showing the great amount of money paid into the United States Treasury by the farmers from their immense crops. Immense amounts of money were spent for the Indians, but it was not for their education and civilization. They wanted to be civilized, but were not given the chance. The speaker then turned his attention to Chicago, its growth and its advantages, and laid before the meeting the needs of this metropolis in the way of river and harbor improvements, and pointed out the way in which the city had been ignored by the Government. Mr. Dore's very able and logical speech was listened to with interest and frequently applauded.

next made his bow—his début, as it were, on his native heath. He said he was at home there, and he thought it would be more fitting for the outside gentlemen to speak first, and then if he had time he would say a few words to them. He suggested that they call on Mr. Irus Coy, and his generous action was heartily applauded.

Mr. Coy came forward, was recognized as the heavy man of the "Big Four," and was greeted with applause. He said he appreciated the greatness of the First Congressional District and the Third Ward, and he was proud to be able to address representatives of both. Mr. Dore's remarks, he said, had been sound and sensible. He had argued for cheap transportation, and that was what Chicago needed to make it the first city in the New World. It was hard, as Congressman Aldrich had said on a previous occasion, to make outsiders understand the needs of Chicago, as its growth had been so wonderful that those who had never been here could not believe what they heard. When they asked Congress for appropriations to improve Chicago's waterways they did not go as beggars, but because they were entitled to it, as the State paid as much internal revenue as all the Southern States put together. He believed the time would come when the Calumet River would be lined with manufacturing establishments as far up as the Dolton bridge, and Chicago, Calumet, and South Chicago would meet in one common city. The sooner Congress was made aware of Chicago's importance the sooner this would be brought about. Mr. Coy's remarks were well received.

Having been impressed by the solemn dignity of Mr. Dore and charmed by the musical rhythm of Mr. Coy's oratory, the meeting felt that they wanted something light, and when John Lyle King peered out at them from behind the mask of Momus they gave him a hearty round of applause.

Before Mr. King began his speech the Committee on Nomination submitted the following report, which was adopted unanimously: President, Pliny B. Smith; Secretary, T. V. Fitzpatrick; Treasurer, Daniel F. Crilly; Vice-Presidents, Soren Matheson, E. G. Keith, O. B. Phelps, George Eckert, E. L. Jayne, P. L. Almini, O. B. Glover, James Sheridan, Peter Bieson, H. M. Mosher, Leonard Hodges, Terrence Hart, Murry Nelson, Henry Sayers, and W. C. Grant; Executive Committee, George Bass, Addison Hallock, David H. Gile, Eugene Cary, A. H. Wright, and J. R. Custer; Finance Committee, G. M. Holmes, H. M. Sherwood, and William H. Gleason.

Mr. Clough presented a series of resolutions proposing plans for the purification of primaries. No vote was taken on the resolutions.

MR. KING WAS THEN INVITED to proceed. He said he had been attacked with something like vertigo, and felt badly, but he would make the best speech he could. He had been engaged for the last week or so in telling the voters of the First District to smash slates. He was not a candidate yet, but was on the verge of a candidacy, and had not fully swung off. He was merely a satellite swinging around on the orbit of the three planets whom they had just viewed. The speaker preached the purity of the primary, and urged the voters before him to do their best to throw the machine out of gear. It was quite evident that Mr. King's indisposition had affected him quite seriously, as there was a noticeable absence of that spontaneous fun which usually babbles up from between the lines of his speeches. His disability did not seem, however, to affect his staying powers, as he lingered quite long on the platform.

There were loud calls for Mr. L. L. Coburn, the new candidate, whose appearance was greeted with cheers. He stated that he was not a candidate on the acceptation of the term as it was used in that meeting. He had been educated when it was the custom for the people to select their candidates, and he did not like to see gentlemen seeking offices. There was no gentleman in the community that had any claim on the suffrages of that community—they should be merely patriotic citizens. He didn't believe it was necessary for candidates to make speeches in a community when he has been brought up in that community. A man who had been a faithful servant of the people—as Mr. Aldrich had—had no claim on the suffrages of his constituents. A man who had fought for his country in the army had no claim upon the suffrages of his people. Both had simply done their duty, and were entitled to nothing in payment for their services. Mr. Coburn made a very favorable impression on his audience.

The next speaker was Congressman Aldrich. As the hour was late he spoke but briefly, putting forth the main points brought forward in his other two speeches.

THE RESOLUTIONS OFFERED

by Mr. Clough were then taken up and adopted, though there were few left in the hall. The resolutions were as follows:

This meeting heartily approves the action of the candidates for the Republican Congressional nomination in the First District in convening public assemblages and communicating directly and in person with the people at large, respecting representation in Congress; and we believe it to be the plan of electioneering which is most fair and rational, and is beneficial alike to candidates and constituents, and most thoroughly in accordance with the theory of popular and representative institutions, and responsive to the honesty and intelligence of the people; and being such, ought to be encouraged and continued during the present canvass for the Republican nomination in the First District, as well as accepted and established as the future usage and practice of the Republican party of the district.

And for the purpose of enabling this method of personal and joint canvass to be continued so as to reach and include all, or many of the chief points of public concourse in the district and people more generally, we earnestly advise and call upon the Congressional Central Committee to defer the meeting of the nominating convention to a day which will afford opportunity for a prior, full, and general canvass of the Congressional constituency, until, at least, the latter part of October.

And that the utmost practicable means of obtaining a full, fair, honest, and decisive expression of preference for candidates may be had, we further earnestly advise and call upon the Congressional Central Committee of this district to enlarge the time for holding the election, and to keep the polls open from at least 12 o'clock noon until 7 o'clock afternoon, to keep a registration of the votes, and especially does this meeting advise that the candidates themselves be requested and allowed to name the judges of the election and that the persons named be appointed such judges by the committeemen.

We believe that these means of securing the purity of the primaries are absolutely fair, equal, and just, and wholly unobjectionable to the candidates and the people, would be promotive of the strength, harmony, and unity of the party, and is consonant with any high or just sense of political honor and honesty, and would command the confidence and increase the attendance of the respectable and intelligent masses of the Republican party at the polls.

Second Congressional—How Curran Was Fooled—Sheridan Coming to the Front—Ins and Outs of the Fight—The Finerty Boom.

It is rather doubtful, to put it mildly, whether Mr. Curran and his patent lumber-dryer are as far ahead in the Bridgeport district as they apparently were a week ago. Tom Cloonan, who erstwhile turned the Archer avenue bridge, but is now turning stop-cocks for the Water Department, denies with vehemence and indignation the insinuation that he is for the lumber-dryer man, and wants it written over every dead wall in town and tacked upon every slaughter-house in Bridgeport that he is for Henry F. Sheridan, the Congressional factor from the Fifth Ward. Inasmuch as the Fifth and Sixth Wards together are able to nominate, and Cloonan assumes that Sheridan will get both of them, despite all the talk of the adversaries to the contrary, the late presiding genius of the Archer avenue bridge is betting his money on Sheridan's walking off with the nomination. Mr. Cloonan is also equally sanguine of holding down a seat in the next State Senate from the new Eleventh District, although Con Ryan, a hog-driver at the Stock-Yards, is morally sure to run independent if Cloonan or anybody else is nominated. But Mr. Curran has not only lost Cloonan—if he ever really had him, which Cloonan vigorously denies—and whatever votes he hoped to get out of the Fifth Ward from that source. His gullibility seems to have been sorely tested when he put his faith in Mattie Kilday and Mattie's friends. In the classic phrase of the Stock-Yards, "the boys have been playing Curran for a sucker." Curran is said to have "dropped" to it at last, and the freshest story is that he and Mattie have parted company, that Mr. Curran especially regrets having put up that alleged $500 to help pay and procure his release from the bridewell, and that hereafter Mr. Curran will use such of this world's goods as the patent lumber-dryer has conferred upon him with more caution if not with more success. Mr. Curran is a client of young Prendergast, the lawyer, who is said to be directing his campaign, as far as one novice in politics can direct another, and has taken upon himself the task of preventing Mr. Curran from being "bled." With advancing wisdom, Mr. Curran is now said to have agreed to deposit $10,000 in the hands of a certain stakeholder, to be used for campaign expenses and to be delivered to liquidate the same after he receives the expected nomination. The knowing ones who pretend to be on the inside of the whole business are now wagging their tongues and betting their old hats that the stakeholder in question will see that the stakes are put where they can do the most good—for himself—and that by the time the game is out Mr. Curran will be minus both stakes and a nomination. The stakeholder, in short, is suspected of a scheme to "throw" Mr. Curran and ultimately grab the prize himself. Bridgeport politics are a separate and distinct science in themselves.

"CANEY" MURPHY'S FINE

But while Mr. Curran seems to have lost ground during the week, if indeed he ever had the substantial backing of those he once counted on his side, Ald. Sheridan is by no means out of the woods. The real object of the scheme by which Rafferty's "regulars" were superseded by the County Central Committeemen from the Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and Eighth Wards is just beginning to leak out. It was a Cullerton and Hildreth move their candidate for Sheriff. By getting the Congressional machinery under their thumbs, Cullerton, Hildreth, and Mackin can call the Congressional Convention whenever they see fit. But they have set their hearts on nominating McGarigle for Sheriff. To facilitate matters, they want a McGarigle delegation from the Fifth Ward, the stronghold of Democracy. If Sheridan will deliver the Fifth Ward for McGarigle, he can rely on Cullerton's and Hildreth's valuable assistance to boost him into Congress, or at least secure him a nomination. Otherwise he will "sweat" for the Sixth and Seventh Wards. In order to hold him down and insure the delivery of the Fifth Ward delegation, the County Convention will be held first. If Sheridan should slip up on the deal, his hopes of Congress would be snuffed out like a farthing dip in a gale of wind. This, it is alleged, is the real secret of the Mackin-Cullerton-Hildreth move, and such is the ax they are supposed to hold over Sheridan, suspended by a hair. It is becoming a rather in advance, prove their Republicanism, and cast their ballots. Since a certain cadetship was disposed of every West Sider connected with the Recorder's office seems to have been instructed to "holler" and work for Davis, including some who were strongly opposed to him before, and thereby hangs a tale. Long before Mr. Morse was a candidate, Col. Davis is said to have voluntarily offered a cadetship to Morse's boy, and induced the lad to make out a written application therefor. When it was rumored that Mr. Morse was thinking of entering the race, the Colonel is said to have suddenly cooled in his friendship for Morse's boy, and offered the cadetship to a hopeful scion of Martin Howard. It was not accepted, for some reason or other, and was next offered to Max Polachek, who refused to take up with a second-hand offer, and let it go. It was then offered to Maj. Brockway, who had no false pride about such matters, but jumped at it. Since then the Major and his West Side appointees have not ceased to shout for Col. Davis, although this could doubtless be explained as a mere coincidence.

DAVI, SMYTH, SWIFT, AND WHITE.

Inseparably connected with the Congressional contest in the Third District is the struggle for the Senatorship in the First Senatorial. George White, of the Tenth, and Francis A. Riddle and Matthew J. Scrafford, of the Eleventh, are candidates for Senator. The Ninth and Tenth Wards together have fifteen votes, and the Eleventh just fourteen. It has been assumed in certain quarters for some time past that the Ninth would go for White, if White, or the Tenth, which is the same thing, would go for Davis. On the other hand, it was suggested that White would not care to antagonize the Eleventh Ward Republicans, whose votes he may need about election-day, by depriving that ward of a Senator and at least a chance of securing a Congressman. The action of the Senatorial District Committee at its meeting last evening would seem to knock the pins out from under this last suggestion, to show that the White-Smyth-Davis combination is not a fiction but a fact, and to explain why the four-to-three Congressional Committee were so strenuous in refusing to allow any but Davis judges in the Ninth and Tenth Wards.

FOUR TO NOTHING.

The committee met a Justice Scully's office, with the candidates for legislative honors as well as their numerous friends well represented. George E. White, candidate as well as committeeman, Francis A. Riddle, and Madison R. Harris, White's candidate for the House from the Ninth Ward, graced the meeting by their presence. Before the assemblage was called to order Committeeman Currier, a Davis man from the Eleventh, very innocently inquired what was the purpose of the meeting. John M. Smyth, of the Ninth, said it was necessary to arrange for the primaries—the time, the polling-places, and the judges. Currier having been duly enlightened, Smyth, as Chairman, called the meeting to order. There were present of the committee Smyth, Currier, and White.

George B. Swift presented the proxy of Col. Dan Munn, who is one of the committeemen from the Eleventh Ward. On motion of Senator White the proxy was received, and Swift was installed as a full-fledged committeeman by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Swift then called upon the various candidates for legislative honors who were present to come to the front and express themselves as to when and where the primaries should be held.

None of them responded, however, and Swift broke the monotony by saying that the candidates had no unanimity as to the date. To bring the matter up for discussion be moved that the primaries be held Tuesday, Sept. 12, between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m., at the same places as the Congressional primaries.

W. S. Johnson, who was present as the avowed friend of Scrafford, obtained permission to speak, and, in behalf of Scrafford and his friends, said that all that was desired was a full vote and a fair one. They were satisfied with Tuesday as the date, because the Congressional primaries would bring out a full vote, and of necessity force an expression of the people. Besides this, it would be

A SAVING OF ELECTIONEERING FORCE.

The gentlemen present knew what electioneering force meant. This sally brought down the whole Justice-shop. Johnson continued, and, in conclusion, said it was highly satisfactory to his friend Scrafford to hold the primaries Tuesday.

Committeeman and candidate White moved an amendment saving the Tenth Ward from the resolution by empowering the Tenth Ward Republican Club to make the necessary arrangements and to elect its own delegates to the convention—a little scheme which THE TRIBUNE coldly gave away the other day, but which everybody interested in it vehemently denied. The amendment was accepted, and by the monotonously unanimous vote of the committee the primaries were ordered held in the Ninth and Eleventh Wards Tuesday, between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m.

Committeeman and candidate White now played his trump card by moving that the judges of the Congressional primaries also act as judges of the Senatorial primaries. This was carried without debate or a dissenting voice. Mr. White subsequently arose to explain that his motion only applied to the Ninth and Eleventh Wards. This being duly understood, he moved that the Senatorial Convention be held at Carpenter's Hall, No. 221 West Madison street, at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 13th inst. This motion was likewise carried by a unanimous vote.

Dave Clark wanted to know the representation each ward was entitled to in the convention.

Mr. Swift said the impression was that the Eleventh Ward was entitled to fifteen votes since the new district was formed. The representation might be lessened, from the fact that the old Sixth Precinct was lopped off the ward. Mr. Swift politely called upon Mr. Riddle to give his views upon the topic. Mr. Riddle said that the Sixth Precinct was Democratic, contained very few Republican voters, and should make no difference as to the ward's representation in the convention.

Mr. Johnson took the floor and said that this was an effort to cut the representation of the Eleventh Ward down to thirteen votes.

Senator Riddle said the Eleventh Ward, with fourteen votes, was still one vote short of enough to make a nomination. The Eleventh Ward now, and must elect the Senatorial ticket, while the Ninth and Tenth were Democratic.

FOR TEN YEARS TO COME,

Senator White said the Ninth and Tenth combined contained more Republican votes than the Eleventh. The Sixth Precinct of the Eleventh Ward was put in the Fourth District to give Chris Mamer contiguous territory. For the sake of harmony he moved that the Ninth Ward be entitled to nine votes in the convention, the Tenth six, and the Eleventh fourteen, which, he said, was the same representation as in the Congressional Convention.

The motion was carried, and the Secretary was instructed to issue the call for the primaries and the convention. John M. Smyth was empowered to call the convention to order, and the funereal body adjourned sine die.

If any one has had any doubt up to the present time as to the status of the Tenth Ward in the Congressional fight, the action of the Senatorial Committee will once and for all time probably satisfy the most skeptical. It simply means that the Tenth Ward will give its delegation to Davis in the Congressional fight—which, it will be remembered, comes off Wednesday morning—and in return receive the support, not only of Smyth in the Ninth Ward, but of the Davis adherents in the Eleventh Wednesday afternoon. The "furniture-on-time" man is popularly supposed to be all-powerful in the Ninth. Swift, with the Davis strength and two able-bodied, slick judges, may be able to land a White delegation from the Eleventh. It is a mooted question with some as to whether White holds the upper hand on Davis, and will make him come to the scratch, or whether the long-haired statesman holds the edge on White. But it is certain that White can bring in the Tenth Ward with more ease than Davis, Swift, and Smyth can deliver up the Ninth and Eleventh. The action of the committee will serve to intensify the feeling in the Eleventh, if such a thing were possible, and many an able-bodied citizen who has generally held aloof from politics will be found industriously peddling tickets Tuesday.

Third Congressional—The Republicans Preparing for Tuesday's Tussle at the Primaries—Sample Davis Judges—The White-Davis Combination Complete.

The Third Congressional District Republican Committee issued its long-deferred call for the convention yesterday, and the interested reader will find it in another column. As will be observed, the call is on the basis of precinct primaries and precinct representation in the Twelfth Ward, and thus seems to dispose of the lingering suspicion that some loophole would be left open until the very day of the primaries by which the Davis forces could run a general delegate ticket throughout the whole ward. The call divides the ward up into nine precincts and assigns to each the number of delegates it had in the last County Convention. At least it purports to do that, and the fact that Mr. Brady, who may be taken as a representative of Mr. Mason's interests, affixed his official signature as Secretary to the document, is accepted as indicating that the Mason, Swett, and Morse men considered everything "straight." The primaries will be held throughout the various wards Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 7, and the convention Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in Union Park Hall, No. 517 West Madison street. Unless popular expectation is very much out of the way, the Presidential primaries and the Farwell-Hall Convention of 1880 will cease to be a standard of comparison after Tuesday and Wednesday.

NICE JUDGES.

The Davis judges, for some reason or other, are very much opposed to any and all propositions looking to the presence of clerks and challengers inside the polling-places. Mr. Morse's experience in endeavoring to secure the adoption of a fair plan for conducting the primaries in the Twelfth Ward has already been recounted. Mr. Tuthill, as the representative of Mr. Swett's candidacy, met with even less success yesterday when he submitted a similar plan to the Davis judges in the Eleventh Ward—Messrs. Kaufman and Storer, the former an employé in the Recorder's office. Mr. Tuthill's proposition was as follows:

WHEREAS, It is of vital interest to the success of the Republican party in the coming election, and to the election of its candidate for Congress, whoever he may be, that there be no just ground of complaint that there has been unfairness or fraud in the primary election to select delegates to the Congressional Convention;

It is therefore agreed by the undersigned judges of the primary election to be held on the 12th day of September, 1882, in the Eleventh Ward:

1. That there shall be selected by us (Messrs. Kaufmann and Storer, as friends of Col. George R. Davis, designating one, and R. S. Tuthill, as a friend of the Hon. Leonard Swett, designating the other) two persons to act as clerks of said primary, who shall keep an accurate poll-list of all persons voting at such primary, giving their names and residences.

2. That all ballots cast shall be numbered on the back thereof, and the number taken down by the said clerks on the poll-lists, the same as is done in the case of a regular election.

3. The challengers, one to be selected by the friends of Col. Davis, and one by the friends of Mr. Swett, shall be and permitted to be and remain in the room with the judges of the primary.

Both Kaufman and Storer absolutely refused to sign the proposed agreement. The former, ignoring what has been the custom in the Eleventh Ward, declined to allow the presence of challengers, and said he was fully authorized to speak for Storer, who refused to sign, but seemed unable to give any reason for so doing. As for the clerks, Kaufman cheekily remarked that he and Storer proposed to appoint two themselves, and added that he would name as one of them P. Bird Price, probably for the reason that Mr. Price, it is understood, will not consent to serve. While about it, Mr. Kaufman further declared that he

of the First Precinct Club—a Republican organization which has committed the grave offense of being friendly to Mr. Swett—inasmuch as he was inclined to suspect that some of the members were not good Republicans. The gentlemen upon whose Republicanism this ex-Clerk to a Democratic Board of County Commissioners proposes to pass are altogether likely to present themselves at the polls, notwithstanding Kaufman's bulldozing serious question with Sheridan whether he can "deliver the goods." James Healy, ex-Chief Clerk under Sheriff Hoffman and now a well-to-do packer at the Stock-Yards, is a candidate for Sheriff, and musters a big following from the packing-house region. John Dunphy and Mike Ryan, also candidates for Sheriff, are reported as having entered into an alliance of the offensive and defensive character, and they, too, will be very apt to step on Sheridan's coat-tails in the Fifth Ward and prevent any such transfer of votes to McGarigle if they can help it. In short, Sheridan is in about as uncomfortable a position as can well be imagined. If he delivers the Fifth to McGarigle he may against him in his own ward in his Congressional deal. If he doesn't, Cullerton will throw the Sixth somewhere else, provided he doesn't keep it for himself, which is more than likely, and Hildreth will clamp down on the Seventh and hold it in his fist. The most probable outcome, according to the knowing ones, in case Sheridan fails to come to time for McGarigle, is Ed Cullerton himself as the machine nominee for Congress.

Both Sheridan and Cullerton are now making overtures for the nomination by Rafferty's "regulars," not that they care for the Rafferty crowd particularly, but because each one has figured it out that if he secures a nomination in that quarter the other will be less apt to get it from the Mackinites. Each of them, in other words, wants a nomination from the "regulars" to give himself a sort of send-off to the disadvantage of the other fellow, and at the same time destroy all excuse for the other fellow's running as an independent candidate. With the first nomination secured, each fancies that the second will come more easily. It is just possible, however, that neither Sheridan nor Curran will get away with the nomination by the "regulars."

The element which is likely to prove a most disturbing factor is the one which has insisted and still insists on making a most excellent piece of Democratic Congressional timber a candidate in spite of himself. The movement is in behalf of John F. Finerty is

NEITHER DEAD NOR SLEEPING.

The mention of his name as a representative Irishman has awakened no little enthusiasm among those who object to being owned by the Sheridans, the Currans, the Cullertons, the Hildreths, and their satellites, and the enthusiasm is spreading. A meeting of a well-known Trade and Labor Council club in the Fifth Ward Friday night indorsed Mr. Finerty for Congress. Dick Powers, of the Seamen's Union, Tom Nugent, Watt Conway, O'Hare, Redden, Leddy, and a number of their influential workers around the packing-houses and elsewhere are for him and will do some lively hustling in his behalf. There is enough backbone to the movement to make it possible that Finerty himself may get the nomination from the "regulars" instead of either Sheridan or Curran. The "regulars" held a meeting yesterday and issued their call for Thursday's convention, which will be found in another part of THE TRIBUNE. The primaries will be held Wednesday from 5 to 7 p. m., the list of judges appointed is said to be an unusually honest one, made up of men who want to see fair play and cannot be bought. There will be an exciting struggle in the Fifth, a probable split in the Seventh, and probably a Finerty delegation from the Eighth. In the Sixth, Cullerton and Kilday will probably have their own way, if they recognize the convention at all, although ex-Bailiff Dooley threatens to run a delegate ticket in the interest of Judge Moore. In the scramble, the friends of the Finerty movement hope to come out ahead, and from the very complex situation of things it would seem that their chances are at least as good as anybody's else. Should the nomination of the "regular" convention go to Mr. Finerty, a strong effort will be made to secure his nomination by the Mackin machine. While the prospect of success in that direction is not the most favorable, still the desire for party harmony may finally get the better of even the machine. Until both conventions are held, however, careful observers of political movements in Bridgeport are not apt to wager much of their loose change on the final result.

TWELFTH WARD.

The following address to the Republican voters of the Twelfth Ward was issued last night, and will be distributed throughout the ward tomorrow:

To the Republican Voters of the Twelfth Ward: The majority of the citizens of the Twelfth Ward are so deeply engaged in business and professional pursuits that they fail to secure a true knowledge of the status of political affairs until it is too late to escape from the thraldom in which they are placed by those who secure power by chicanery and fraud. We desire to call your attention to the following facts concerning the Congressional campaign now about to open.

Mr. M. A. Morse, as committeeman from this ward, having determined to become a candidate for Congress in this district, requested the Chairman to call a meeting of the Congressional Committee for the purpose of withdrawing from the same and naming a proxy.

The meeting was called for the evening of the 17th of August.

During the day Mr. Morse learned that the committee—a majority of which were in the interest of George R. Davis—had determined to allow him to resign, but when he named his proxy they would very promptly vote him down.

This being accomplished, they had a list of judges and polling-places all prepared in the interest of this same candidate, which they would adopt regardless of the wishes of this the largest Republican ward in the city. Mr. Morse did not resign and thus abandon the ward to the manipulations of these political schemers. He was accused of dishonorable conduct. They asserted "that he could not act as committeeman and be a candidate, for he would appoint judges in his own interest," etc.! and visited a penalty upon him before any crime was committed. He entered a vigorous protest, and the Chairman gave a week to consider the situation created by a 4 to 3 vote—which vote controlled every matter presented to the committee. At this juncture a resolution was presented which disfranchised the ward. By this resolution a subcommittee was appointed to take charge of the appointment of judges and selecting polling-places in this ward. The Chairman appointed this committee, a majority of which were known to be in the interest of Mr. Davis. By this all-powerful 4 to 3 vote the utter disfranchisement of our ward was made complete, and men who represent but a tithe of the Republican vote of this district became dictators to a ward which has the majority to carry the county—possibly the State at the coming fall election. Mr. Morse set aside his interests as a candidate and called a large meeting of representative Republicans, who selected the list of judges (representing all the candidates) and requested Mr. Morse as committeeman to present it for adoption by the committee. This list was embodied in a minority report and offered as a substitute for the report of the sub-committee. It was promptly voted down by the packed 4 to 3 vote, and by the same vote the majority report was adopted, which has given you judges two to one in favor of George R. Davis.

Against this usurpation of power we shall forever protest, and we will never submit to such gross violation of our rights as citizens.

Honest electors! Turn out in force! Attend the primary election Tuesday, Sept. 12, from 4 to 7 o'clock p. m., and compel by your presence a pure ballot!

You who believe in justice and a representative Government untarnished by a disreputable dictatorship, return a verdict at the coming Congressional primaries, affixing the penalty of death, politically, to any and all candidates who make use of such methods for personal aggrandizement.

ELEVENTH WARD.

The jolly political row in the Third Congressional District assumed a new phase last evening in the Eleventh Ward. A meeting of the friends of Leonard Swett was called at Martine's Hall several days ago, and last evening a goodly number of the gentleman's supporters called at the hall on Ada street and found that the supporters of Col. Davis had preceded them. In others words, the Davis crowd had outwitted the Swett men. There were some loud words among the more fervent supporters of Mr. Swett and their opponents over what may very properly be termed a "lock-out" outside the hall, but the matter was soon temporarily settled by the Swett men adjourning to Grow's Opera-House at 517 West Madison street, about two blocks away, where a combined indignation and eulogistic meeting was held.

About 8:30 o'clock Mr. G. W. Sherwood called the meeting to order, and Judge Henry Booth was chosen Chairman.

Mr. Marshall Carter said that the friends of Mr. Swett had been treated very unfairly by Mr. Martine or his agent, one Phipps, and he called upon Col. R. S. Tuthill to state the facts in connection with the case.

Mr. Tuthill took the platform and said that early in the campaign Mr. Woodard, Mr. Hebard, and himself, constituting an appointed committee, called at Mr. Martine's office and saw his agent, Mr. Phipps, from whom they rented the upper floor of the building as a headquarters for the season, with the understanding that they should have the lower hall whenever they desired. It was also stipulated that whenever any other organization desired the lower hall they should be informed of the fact, and their consent secured before it was rented. A few days previous Phipps had told him that Mr. Davis' friends wanted the lower hall for last night, and he consented to their having it. Later, however, he informed Phipps that Mr. Swett's friends wanted it, and Phipps said they might have it. Accordingly a meeting was advertised. When they reached the hall they found that a committee of Davis men had possession of the hall, and the door was locked. They asked the committee very courteously if they would not hold their meeting in the upper hall and allow them to have the lower hall, but they refused to accommodate them. The speaker had heard that large sums of money were being used in the ward in behalf of Davis. Where it came from he did not know, but it was not unlikely that the funds were those that the poor girls and boys of the Post-Office were Hubbellized out of. He did not know where they came from.

was next introduced to the audience, and delivered a brief speech eulogistic of Mr. Swett, whom he had known in the discharge of his professional duties. He thought the only claim a man could have to the position of Congressmen was that of preëminent ability, which he thought Mr. Swett possessed.

Mr. Gus Van Buren spoke at some length in favor of Mr. Swett, in the course of which he alluded to him as being at the front of the legal profession, and a man who would reflect credit upon himself and his constituents in Congress.

Mr. Sherwood spoke briefly, ridiculing Col. Davis' Congressional record, and condemning his vote on the River and Harbor bill.

Willard Woodard addressed the audience at some length, claiming that Col. Davis' career in Congress was devoid of good results, and also condemning him for his vote on the River and Harbor bill.

Mr. Carter then presented the following, which was adopted:

WHEREAS, Col. George R. Davis, Representative in Congress from this district and a candidate for renomination, was guilty of voting for what is known as the "infamous" River and Harbor bill, by which the public treasure has been worse than squandered and wasted in so-called "improvements" of insignificant creeks and ponds in various sections of the country, whose names are not to be found in any geography or on any map, and were never heard of by probably a voter in this district until mentioned in this bill, as objects upon which the money wrenched from the people by outrageous and excessive taxation was to be thrown away, and

WHEREAS, Said Davis, in flagrant and known opposition to an almost unanimous and correct public opinion in this district, as well as throughout the country, coöperated with other Republicans, like himself recusant to the trust reposed in them, and with a nearly solid Southern Democracy, principally benefited by the bill, clamoring always to be "conciliated" by the donation to them of the taxes collected from the farmers, mechanics, and laborers—"mudsils," as they have sometimes been called—of the North; and, notwithstanding that palpable and constitutional objections to this monstrous robbery of the National Treasury were clearly presented to Congress in the very able and clear veto message of President Arthur, with indecent haste voted to pass the bill over the President's veto; therefore,

Resolved, That we, Republican voters of the Third Congressional District, in mass-meeting assembled, denounce the conduct of said Davis in voting and working for the passage of the said River and Harbor bill as without excuse or any adequate apparent motive, and as wholly indefensible upon any ground of public policy or even expediency.

Resolved, That we will by every means in our power endeavor to prevent the nomination of said Davis to a trust which he has thus so shamelessly abused.

Resolved, That we call upon all such Republicans as disapprove of National demoralization through unconstitutional and indefensible appropriations and waste of the public funds, and upon all who are interested in the success of the ticket to be nominated by our party to coöperate with us in endeavoring to prevent the nomination of said Davis to again misrepresent us by again voting in favor of measures which can receive naught but our unqualified and indignant condemnation.

The meeting then adjourned.

Later in the evening a TRIBUNE reporter had a talk with Mr. Phipps, Mr. Martine's agent, regarding the squabble between the two factions. He said he had been told by Col. Tuthill not to rent the hall without seeing him. When Capt. Stone called on him to rent the hall he told Col. Tuthill, as agreed, and the latter said it was all right. He secured Capt. Stone's receipt for the rent of the hall, and then was told that Mr. Swett's friends wanted it. But it was then too late and he could do nothing.

From all the statements secured it seems that Col. Davis' friends merely outwitted their opponents in the fight which is now being waged.

Fourth Congressional—A Campaign Between Two Gentlemen—The Figuring of the Two Forces.

The contest between Gen. Thomas and Senator Adams on the North Side—"the gentlemen's campaign," as it is called, in contradistinction to some others that the people of Chicago wot of—has made some little headway during the week. It has become a trifle more lively, if nothing else, although still as dignified and gentlemanly as ever. Gen. Thomas and Senator Adams have mounted the stump, figuratively speaking. Each has modestly set forth his claims, as he sizes them up, and the other's drawbacks, as he is reluctantly but dutifully compelled to point them out in justice to himself and his hearers. The arena in which these dignified and knightly champions have held their wordy but interesting jousts has as yet been confined to the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Wards. Senator Adams lives in the former, and Gen. Thomas, on the principle of giving his adversary something to do at home, has "carried the war into Africa." The meeting season has not been inaugurated in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Wards as yet, but will doubtless open up in the course of the present or coming week. Gen. Thomas is still serenely confident of his ability to take care of the two last-named wards. In this connection, it is perhaps somewhat significant that the counter-movement in the Seventeenth Ward has lost some of its vehemence and force, although the Adams allies are still working that special field. The Thomas men are apparently in no danger of being lulled into overconfidence, but are keeping their skirmish lines well out, and watching their opponents' maneuvres. The Fifteenth and the Sixteenth are still considerably torn up. The Thomas people are organizing their forces like veteran campaigners, and claim that they will give Senator Adams all he can do to take care of his own ward. Conrad Folz is still a puzzling factor in the contest. Conrad naturally wants to carry the Fifteenth for Gen. Mann, and the Thomas men still appear to inspire considerable hope from the belief that the Folz and the anti-Folz wings cannot coalesce on an Adams delegation. Unless they can harmonize there will be three delegate tickets in the field, and in the scramble the Thomas workers appear to think they will have as good a chance of coming out with whole skins as anybody else, or a good chance anyway, whether there are three tickets or only two. The Sixteenth is debatable ground of rather uncertain character. The Adams people hold a cudgel over the Thomas forces, but the latter rely on what they claim to be their superior workers, and, from what can be seen, appear to feel no uneasiness over the result.

The Congressional Committee will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Club-Room No. 4 of the Grand Pacific to decide upon the time for holding the convention, to appoint judges, etc. The chances are that the convention will be held about the 19th of the month, although the committee is a good deal divided, and the advocates of a late convention may predominate and shove it off until about the 1st of October.

Seventh Senatorial.

The first of the Cook County Senatorial Conventions will be that of the Republicans of the Seventh Senatorial District, comprising all of the country towns except Hyde Park, Lake, Lake View, and Evanston, which will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in the County Board room in the new Court-House. The primaries will be held tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 7. The district will elect a Senator and three Representatives this fall, and, being Republican by 4,218 majority, the Senator and two of the Representatives will be of that political faith. Senator W. J. Campbell, of Blue Island, is a candidate for re-election and will probably be renominated without opposition. The same is true of Lorin C. Collins Jr., one of the present Representatives—and a good one, too—who is also a candidate for reëlection. The tug will come over the nomination of the second House member. Messrs. Campbell and Collins are both lawyers. The farming element will name the other Representative, and the custom has been to give the office to a representative German. George C. Struckman, the present member, would like to go back, but has met with some little opposition and may slip up. At last accounts Commissioner Senne was reported to be seriously considering the advisability of occupying a seat in the next House.

WALKERS.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 9.—The seventy-five-hour walking match at Milwaukee Garden closed to-night at 11 o'clock with the following score: Brett, 280 miles; Krohne, 275; Harriman, 275; Kane, 218.

ON THE BOARD.

What Representative Business-Men Have to Say About Defaulting.

The Committee of the Shorts Believe No Offer of Compromise Would Be Received.

Considerable Activity in the Produce Markets at Irregular Prices.

Further Gossip About the July Deal.

There seems to be but one sentiment among business-men outside of the Board of Trade in regard to the July wheat deal, and that is that the shorts ought to settle—that defaulting on their contracts is a disgrace not only to the board but to the city, and that persistency in their present course cannot but result in injury to its produce and provision trade. In order to learn the views of leading merchants and bankers on the subject, a TRIBUNE reporter called on quite a number of them yesterday, and some sample interviews are appended, as all were of the same tenor.

"I don't believe in defaulting on contracts," said Mr. Marshall Field, "and if operators don't live up to them it must hurt business on the board, and, indirectly, that of the whole city, as people outside will lose confidence in us, and send their stock and grain to other markets."

"I think the best thing the shorts can do is to settle," said Mr. Wheeler, of the Union National Bank. "A contract is a contract, and ought to be lived up to. If contracts on the Board of Trade are defaulted on, it will spoil the business."

"The defaulting is a most unfortunate thing," said Mr. Monro, of the Bank of Montreal. "I certainly don't approve of it at all. A contract ought always to be lived up to. The statement of some that they are not able to pay because others don't, carries very little weight. I haven't heard any one say the defaulting would have a good effect. On the contrary it would have the reverse, and I think it must. I am opposed to making a contract and defaulting upon it. It ought to be most sacredly kept."

"I have but one opinion on the subject," said Mr. James Sturges, of the Northwestern National. "When a man makes a contract he ought to live up to it if he is able. I think the will be very bad—drive business away from Chicago—because it will weaken the confidence of people in the integrity of the board. And I believe a majority of the members feel as I do. There are some men who, I understand, don't settle because their principals have instructed them not to. If I were such an operator, I should have a fight with my principal and not with my principle."

It was reported that about 40,000 bushels of July wheat were settled on the basis of $1.35. There were some parties, however, who heard this statement that said that these settlements as well as those of Friday were misleading to the trade. They stated that there was no reason to think that a single one of the shorts had settled since the committee made its award. The wheat supposed to have been settled is said to be that dealt in in the manner described in THE TRIBUNE yesterday. Several hundred thousand bushels were out in cross trades between different brokers for the clique, and some of these, it is asserted, were held open for the express purpose of settling them on the committee's basis, and thereby setting a precedent which it was hoped the smaller fry would follow. Some of the shorts, however, talked in a very decided tone in regard to settlement, and expressed the wish that the longs would come down a little from the high horse which they seemed to be riding. One gentleman who is short to the extent of about 500,000 bushels said that he would be willing to settle on the basis of $1.30, and that he knew of several others who would be WILLING TO DO THE SAME THING.

But he didn't want to pay $1.35, and he thought that the others would not be willing to do it unless they were absolutely frozen into it. He said that, as far as he was concerned, simply standing in the gap between other parties and Mr. Armour (and some leading operators on the Board were in the same position as himself), he thought $1.30 would be a fair price to settle at on both sides. It would involve a considerable loss to some of them, and would concede a fair profit to the longs. When the reporter asked him if this arrangement would be fair to those who had settled on the basis of $1.35, he said he was not talking about that phase of the question, and intimated a doubt with regard to the validity of the statement made about the settlements. The points mentioned above were not given by him, but he spoke as if he knew the situation very much as detailed by the parties whose language has been given.

The shorts who want to settle, and say they cannot, and those who are praying for a compromise, met again yesterday to hear the report of the committee appointed Friday to confer with the longs. There were about seventy-five present. Mr. C. E. Culver presided, and said:

For the information of those gentlemen who are now present but were not at the meeting Friday, and to avoid the repetition of the attempts made yesterday to discuss subjects foreign to the object of the meeting, the Chair will state that this is not a meeting of the Board of Trade, and was not called to discuss the rules of the board, nor to consider the action of any former committee of the board. We, however, came together as individuals and representatives of firms involved in a common dilema, and for the purpose of extricating ourselves from that dilema if possible, to our own satisfaction as well as to the mutual advantage of those for whom and with whom we have

UNSETTLED CONTRACTS IN JULY WHEAT.

As was stated Friday, I believe, it is the desire of all present to stand up to their contracts, but there is an honest difference of opinion as to the extent of the obligations or liabilities under those contracts on the part of those for whose account they were made. It was hoped that the decision of the committee appointed by the Vice-President of the board would determine to the satisfaction of parties in interest the true measure of damages to be assessed on the unsettled contracts; but unfortunately the legality of the proceedings and finding of the committee have been questioned, and certain members of the board have exercised their legal right to petition the courts to restrain the Directory of the board from enforcing said decision, thereby estopping the collection from those members of damages on the basis of $1.35 per bushel, the price fixed by the committee; and of course embarrassing all others having transactions with them. At the meeting Friday a committee was appointed to confer with those supposed to control the July deal, for the purpose which will appear in their report which the Chairman, Mr. Crosby, will now please present.

The report was as follows:

Your committee appointed at Friday's meeting to confer with the parties most largely interested in the enforcement of the recent decision of the committee fixing the price of unsettled contracts for July spring wheat beg leave to report:

That we have consulted with the individuals representing these interests, and that, while the peculiar nature of the case precludes any positive acknowledgments or agreements by them, yet we have their assurances, given in the frankest and most kindly manner, that there is no disposition upon their part to take any steps towards disciplining members for non-compliance with the recent decision of the committee under the rules of the board until the courts shall have decided upon the injunctions already issued against the board, and that, pending that decision, their interests and influence are in favor of taking no action under the rules.

In view of the fact that much of the discussion at Friday's meeting was relative to the question of a possible compromise between the two interests by an agreed selling price below the figure named by the Committee of Award, this committee think it advisable to say that, without making such a proposition, or its consideration, any part of their official mission, they are nevertheless confident that no proposition for such a compromise would be entertained, and your committee would not recommend any such procedure.

The document was very well received, pleasing everybody apparently, and was unanimously adopted.

The meeting then adjourned.

It was stated yesterday that a firm had been asked to appear before the Directors and give their reasons for not settling a trade in July wheat. This is the first case of the kind so far, and the larger longs have no interest in the proceeding, they having decided to defer any attempt at discipline until the courts have disposed of the injunction matter.

There was a story in the alley yesterday that a "gap short" had recovered his difference from the party indebted to him and put the money in his pocket, to await the decision of the courts, to which he has applied for relief against the longs to whom he owes the account. This trick, with the other, which have been published in THE TRIBUNE, shows how at least some of the operators on the board are degenerating, and the prevailing impression is that a decision by the courts sustaining the award of the high joints will have a very beneficial effect on the morality of that representative trade body.

Review of the Markets Yesterday.

The markets were generally active and very irregular yesterday. Pork and corn were exceedingly weak, while other things were relatively steady. The pork market opened with a show of strength. There were several buying orders in from New York, which put the price up some 7½ to 10 cents per barrel, but there was a big pressure to sell, and as soon as these orders had been filled the market tumbled off, and never stopped until it had gone down 70 cents for this month and 40 cents for January. It closed at a decline of 45 cents for October and 10 cents for January as compared with Friday afternoon. The relative weakness on the near futures brought the different deliveries nearer together, but October and November still had a wide premium over later deliveries, being at about $2 over the price of January. The lard market was also very active. It advanced five cents early in sympathy with pork, though quoted lower in Liverpool; then declined 15 cents, and closed five cents lower than on Friday. An operator said a footing of the sales showed both in pork and lard, the quantity turned over yesterday was a little in excess of the total quantity in store, so that if the trading should be in the same ratio for the whole year it would be some 300 times the quantity at the actual disposal of the trade. The market for meats was steady as compared with the other pork products. Cash lots were very firmly held, and some quoted them a little higher even than on Friday, while the winter futures were a shade easier. There was nothing doing in October delivery on short ribs, probably for the first time in five or six months; a little in September, and not much in the longer futures.

THE CORN MARKET

started in firm, but soon tapered off, and closed at a decline of 2 cents for September and 1¼ cents for later deliveries. The trading was very active, and seemed to be influenced by the feeling in pork more than anything else, excepting that the receipts by canal were unusually large, and formed the subject of some comment among operators. There was a break of about ½ a cent early in the day, and then the market ruled steady for a considerable time, and became firm at about half-past 12 o'clock; then it weakened under large offerings for September, some of which were supposed to be corn that had been delivered on contract for this month. The result was that the September premium was diminished about ¾ of a cent as compared with Friday. Shippers were not operating to any large extent, and the shipments of two days preceding were small as compared with the receipts. These facts led some operators to infer that the demand for corn East is falling off, and they were all the more willing to sell, though the decline of the past week has carried the market to a very much lower point than was ruling at the beginning of the month.

Wheat was steady on futures, except November, and stronger on spot. There was a fair amount of trading, estimated to be a little greater than Friday. The receipts of winter were a little less, and those of spring wheat a little greater, but both grades were in good demand, supposed to be rather to fill September shorts than for shipment. The feeling has taken hold of the trade that Milwaukee parties have got possession of the wheat market for this month, and so those who were short filled in, causing a widening of the September premium over the price for October. On the contrary, there was a vigorous selling for November delivery, which depressed that to over one-half a cent below the price for October. The delivery of wheat from the country seems to be down about on an even keel, and two or three receivers who were spoken with said that the average of the last fortnight will probably be maintained up to about the close of navigation—that is, about 400 car-loads per day of both varieties.

Oats were stronger early, but declined half a cent later in sympathy with corn. The rye market was rather tame, with very little demand, and barley declined two cents late in the day.

THE CRIMINAL COURT.

Proceedings Yesterday Before Judge Hawes—Grand Jury Matters.

Before Judge Hawes, presiding in the Criminal Court yesterday, the bail of Adolph Geisberger and others impleaded with George Hartendorf for the larceny of a large quantity of copper from the firm of Park Bros. & Co. was declared forfeited. Geisberger's bond was forfeited Friday for non-appearance in court. He was present yesterday and asked to have the forfeiture set aside, which was agreed to, provided he would pay the costs. This he claimed he was not able to do, and he was taken to jail upon the capias. The cases of Louis Otto, William Pope, Gustav Matthews, Elias Rosenbaum, and George Gruendel, also impleaded with Hartendorf, were continued and set for trial Sept. 16. In the larceny case of Sadie McBride a nolle pros. was entered as to the second count, and, the arguments having been concluded by 11 o'clock, the case was given to the jury. At 4 o'clock, having failed to come to any agreement, they were discharged. Charles Burns, indicted for malicious mischief, gave $300 bail, with James Mullin, of No. 242 Kossuth street, and John C. King as sureties.

Alexander McKay, the safe-blower under sentence to eight years in the penitentiary, was brought to this city and lodged in the jail yesterday by Bailiff Oleson. He is wanted as a witness in the hog-stealing cases which come to trial Monday morning. In view of the fact that McKay was a leader in the mutiny and attempted jail-delivery of last year he was not put in with the other prisoners of the jail, but was assigned to quarters in the boys' department. McKay looks unusually well, but Harty, who is also wanted as a witness in the same cases, looks as if jail life did not agree with him half so well as stealing hogs.

Frank Scott and George McLane were discharged from the jail yesterday, the grand jury having failed to indict them. W. D. Pahlman, the straw-bailer, was brought up on a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Williamson, and after a hearing was released upon furnishing a recognizance bond of $1,000.

The grand jury yesterday found and returned a true bill for murder against William Zincke, the young newsboy who shot and killed Herman Berning, Aug. 19, at the corner of Chicago avenue and Wood street. It is stated that the testimony given before the jury was decidedly different from that adduced at the Coroner's inquest, and that Zincke was not nearly so blameless as he at first appeared. He was recently admitted to $8,000 bail on the supposition that the case against him was merely a form of manslaughter. His bondsmen are good, but all the same he will be arrested upon a capias as soon as found, and it was expected that he would be run in some time last night.

SUICIDE.

The Third of a Series of Wealthy Illinois Farmers.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LEROY, Ill., Sept. 9.—This village was shocked this evening by the terrible suicide of Seth Moore, a prominent and wealthy farmer who resided not far from town. Mr. Moore, just after supper, went to his room, and soon after the report of a shotgun was heard, and when his friends rushed to the room they were horrified to find him lying in a dying condition on the floor. He had taken the gun and placed it in his mouth, and in some way discharged it, the load blowing away a portion of his head. Death was almost instantaneous. He was a married man in good circumstances and much respected. It is supposed he was suffering from mental derangement.

No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a non-intoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case, take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

REV. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881.

Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business, pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hundreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Harry E. Ely, the young man who skipped Chicago some time ago, has been heard from. He is in Philadelphia, and tells in a letter to a friend a long cock-and-bull story of how the gamblers drove him out of Chicago. His recital is simply untruthful.

J. Morton and wife, of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; J. I. Case, of Racine, Wis.; F. L. Williams, of Texarkana, Tex.; Thomas Keene, of New York; George B. Caldwell, W. O. Clarke, A. B. Case, and C. C. Darling, of Providence, R. I., are at the Tremont.

A sharper named C. Bartlett got hold of a green youth named A. Lignier, and, after running him around town for a while, borrowed his watch, and was about to "skip" when he was collared by Detectives Tierney and Thorpe and locked up at the armory.

An inquest was held at 4827 Laflin street yesterday on the body of Edward Gleeson, whom the jury found to have come to his death Sept. 8 from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid taken with suicidal intent. The man's death was the close of a drunken spree.

A roll of bills accidentally dropped on the street Friday afternoon by Frank Wallish suddenly disappeared with a loafer who chanced to be near at the time. Tom Cooney, arrested as being the thief, was yesterday held to the Criminal Court by Justice Ingersoll in $300 bail.

As the result of a bloody row between two stevedores in a South Clark street saloon a week ago Edward Ingram was yesterday held to the Criminal Court by Justice Wallace in $500 bail for assault to kill. George Broosh was the assaulted party, and the weapon used was a chair.

President Jones, of the West Side Railroad, says the ordinance providing for stoppages at crossings only except in cases of long blocks is in the interest of the general public. Signs will be created in the middle of blocks over 500 feet in length showing where the cars will stop.

A meeting of "non-partisans" to arrange for the Harrison reception was held last evening at the Iroquois Club. The only business was the report of the Finance Committee, which reported an abundance of funds. This being assured the meeting adjourned until Tuesday at 4 p. m.

Col. A. L. Wagner, U. S. A., Dr. H. Marion Sims, of New York; Judge E. R. Hammond and family, of Rensselaer, Ind.; the Rev. Dr. Cochrane, of Brantford, Ont.; the Count de Tilkpersjold and party, of Paris, France; and Frank Hatton, of Washington, Assistant Postmaster-General, are at the Pacific.

THE TRIBUNE of July 16 contained an account of the defalcation and flight of Robert F. Richards, a trusted employé of the Rock Island Road. It was told in the article that he was the son of an ex-President of the Board of Trade, which is not correct, as Mr. Jesse M. Richards, the ex-President, has no son.

The Union Catholic Library Reading Club held its regular weekly session Friday evening. The essay upon "Lyrical Poets" by Miss Rose L. Sullivan was perhaps the best that has been read before the club. The program consisted of selections from the various authors mentioned in the essay, the Misses Flavin, Mary Furey, Clara Wright, Teresa Donoghue, and Mamie Gates, and Messrs. William McCleave and W. J. Cooney taking part.

Joseph H. Slane, a Kansas stockman, came into town with Robert Crawford, who accompanied him on a purchasing tour. What he bought was left at a Canal-street saloon Friday evening, and then Crawford steered him into a disreputable establishment on Clinton street. Leaving him there, he went back to the saloon, and by representing that he had been sent for the goods got possession of them, after which he made himself scarce. He was caught yesterday and booked at the Desplaines Street Station for larceny by Detectives Smith and Costello.

Georgie Conallin, the actress who deserted her husband in Kansas to run off and marry Octave Bouscareau, was, with her second liege lord, yesterday turned over to the custody of Sheriff D. D. Woodward, of Mexico, Mo., requisition papers having arrived. Bouscareau was cool, Georgie was weeping, and Conallin, the deserted, paced nervously up and down the detectives' room. As stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE, there will probably be an effort at conciliation between Conallin and his erratic better half.

A 10-year-old newsboy named Samuel Lunn, whose parents live at No. 214 Johnson street, jumped from a Van Buren street car at the corner of Fifth avenue and Madison street yesterday afternoon, and fell under the wheels of a passing coal wagon driven by Joseph Hussy. Two of the wheels passed over the lad's body, and he was removed to the County Hospital in an insensible condition, and will probably die. The driver of the wagon, although apparently irresponsible, was arrested and locked up at the armory.

A new court of the Ancient Order of Foresters was duly organized and its officers installed by James H. Smith, D. D. C. R., assisted by district officers William Jackson and Charles Blair. The new court has now forty-five members. This is the sixth court of Ancient Foresters organized in this city and suburbs since Oct. 31 last. There will be a reunion of the courts of this district of the Ancient Order of Foresters at Washington Heights Thursday, Sept. 14. Charles J. Beattie, of Chicago, will deliver the oration.

The Executive Committee of the Young Men's Hebrew Charity Association held a meeting last Thursday evening at Standard Hall, Mr. Jacob Newman presiding, and Mr. James Rosenthal officiating as Secretary. It was resolved to hold the second annual charity ball on Dec. 12, 1882, and that both the building of Battery D and the adjoining new cavalry armory be rented for that purpose. The amount realized from the last ball was $6,800, distributed among worthy charities, and the association expect to realize from their coming ball at least $10,000. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Death has taken from our midst Charles D. Metzler, a member of our society; be it

Resolved, That we deeply deplore his untimely death and offer our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the association, and and a copy hereof be sent to the relatives of the deceased.

A committee of seven was appointed, which is to meet next Tuesday evening at the same place, to perfect arrangements for the ball.

At the meeting of the Swedish Methodist Conference yesterday Minneapolis was chosen as the place of next year's meeting. A lengthy discussion took place about the translation of a hymn-book. They had been waiting for the General Conference to furnish them with an official one for several years, and it seemed they would have to wait for several more, so that they took upon themselves to translate one, no matter if it was not official. Bishop Peck protested, and said if they did so it was at their own risk, and he would not promise that the Bishop would indorse the action. The conference accepted an invitation to go on an excursion to Evanston Monday afternoon.

A meeting of the Sixth Ward citizens was called last evening at 140 Canalport avenue, Mr. Charles Doerner in the chair. The question of the evening was in regard to the opening of String street from Canalport avenue to Twenty-second street. Owing to complications in the matter of ownership there has been serious question as to the right of way. It is the wish of the citizens, however, that the street be completed. Alderman Altpeter was present and explained the situation in German. After some discussion a petition asking for the opening of the street was read and a committee appointed to circulate it.

The recklessness of the drivers of the heavy express wagons has become proverbial. Yesterday afternoon wagon No. 535 of the American Express Company, while driving across Clark at Adams street, did his best to crush an empty wagon and team going north. The man on Clark street had the right of way, but the express wantonly forced him to turn out on Adams street to keep his team and wagon from being crushed. The express wagon was laden, but the driver acted from wanton mischief, as a number of gentlemen who saw the affair can fully testify.

At a meeting of some of the officers who participated in the battle of Corinth held at the Grand Pacific Hotel yesterday afternoon to consider the matter of celebrating in an appropriate manner the twentieth anniversary of that fight, it was decided that an adjourned meeting be held at the Tremont House Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock to further consider the matter. All officers who were engaged in that battle are invited to be present. The twentieth anniversary occurs on the 2d and 3d of October. It was thought by those at the meeting that a banquet, speeches, etc., would be proper for the occasion.

Charles J. Beattie, Supreme Deputy Commander of the Order of the Red Cross for the jurisdiction of Illinois, has during the past week issued three dispensations for new commanderies in this State, as follows: Wellington Commandery, No. 14, at Pullman; Sherman Commandery, No. 15, at Evanston; and Springfield Commandery, No. 16, at Springfield. The last-named commandery starts with sixty-seven members. The Grand Commandery of Illinois, Charles H. Smith, Commander, convenes in annual session on the last Tuesday in October next at the hall of Occidental Commandery in this city. The annual election of grand officers will then take place.

Tuesday next will be the first anniversary of the death of Maj. Lanigan, for many years Cashier in the City Treasurer's office under several Administrations. The deceased was a gallant soldier during the War, and was Adjutant of the famous Twenty-third Illinois Volunteer Infantry, of which the lamented Mulligan was Colonel, and it was in the arms of Maj. Lanigan that that hero expired on the battlefield. The Rev. Dr. Butler, of Rockford, who was Chaplin of the Twenty-third Regiment during the War, will celebrate high mass of requiem in the Cathedral of the Holy Name Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock for the repose of the soul of Maj. Lanigan. Friends of the deceased are invited to attend.

The German Aid Society held their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at their rooms, 76 La Salle street. Those present were President Jacob Beiersdorf in the chair, Vice-President William H. Hettich, Secretary M. Eberhardt, Treasurer Conrad L. Niehoff, Directors F. Madlener, Louis Wampold, Carl Moll, George H. Rapp, Agent Charles Endres, and Assistant W. C. A. Thielepape; Mme. L. Boerlin, of the German Ladies' Society, and A. Bucher, President of the Swiss Aid Society, visitors. The Agent's report indicated that the arrival of immigrants had not been as large in August as in July, when 21,000 arrived. Only 13,300 came in August. Swedes and Norwegians were in the majority, and next to them came Bohemians and Poles. Four-fifths of all these proceeded on West and Northwest after a short stay here. About one-fifth remained in the city and vicinity. A large majority were of the farm-laboring class, some are mechanics, and a few follow other pursuits. A great many of these immigrants found their means totally gone before reaching their destination. The Aid Society was compelled to grant immediate help in forty-three cases. During the month $587.50 was expended in this way. The society found employment for 336, of whom sixteen were females. The larger number went on farms at $15 to $20 per month. The society recovered lost baggage in three out of five cases reported to them. In two cases assistance was given in finding lost relatives. Eight poor and sick persons were given free admission to different hospitals, and four others given free treatment at the homes of their relatives. In forty-five cases transportation was given. The work of the meeting was only routine. It was reported that the society had lost an old and respected member, Mr. William Klinger, by death during the month.

AN IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE.

An important change is announced in one of Chicago's leading wholesale jewelry houses which will be a surprise to many people. The firm of Giles Brother & Co., whose names have been before the public for a quarter of a century, is this day dissolved—the senior member, Mr. William A. Giles, retiring. The business will be carried on by the other partners. Mr. William A. Giles' object in retiring is to obtain that rest which he could not otherwise command. He retires to private life with the kindly regard of all who know him. Mr. Giles will join his family in Europe soon, but will shortly return and make his home in Chicago.

CITY-HALL.

The plans for thirty-eight new tenements were submitted to the Health Department for inspection last week.

There is a great deal of anxiety expressed to know when Mayor Harrison will arrive home. He is now sailing on the bright blue ocean, and is probably seasick.

Controller Gurney wants it distinctly understood that he will not accept of a Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third District, and those who are using his name in that connection are doing so without his authority.

The entire expense to the city of entertaining the royal visitors and Capt. Shaw, Chief of the London Fire Brigade, this week, will not be over $60. And Controller Gurney congratulates himself that they were well entertained too.

Superintendent Cheney, of the Sewerage Department, is disgusted with dogs, and especially with royal canines. The next man who talks of dogs to him is liable to get hurt. At least that's what he says.

A strong complaint has been lodged with the Health Department against No. 589 North Clark street, a place owned by J. Jacobs, where it is alleged he harbors a lot of sick horses in a filthy shed, to the annoyance of the people in the neighborhood.

The Council meets Monday evening, after a rest of five weeks. Numerous ordinances left unsigned by the Mayor will become laws without his signature. Among these is the lengthening of the Twelfth street viaduct, and the ordinance granting the Trade and Labor Council 100 feet of the Lake-Front.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: D. B. Shipman, two-story lead works, 100x50 feet, Nos. 1510 to 1516 State street, to cost $10,000; P. Ott, two-story dwelling, 21x32 feet, Waubansia avenue and North Robey street, to cost $2,000; M. Bischka, three-story, basement, and attic store and dwelling, 22x66 feet, No. 168 De Koven street, to cost $6,000; Joseph Bihak, one-story and basement cottage 20x56 feet, No. 298 Fourteenth street, to cost $2,000; F. Rubat, two-story and basement dwelling, 20x56 feet, O'Brien, near Union street, to cost $3,000; E. K. Rogers, two one-story cottages, 22x34 feet, No. 216 McGregor street, to cost $2,000; J. T. Davis, two-story and basement flats, 308x55 feet, Bissell street, near Webster avenue, to cost $65,000; J. Philbin, three-story flats, 25x60 feet, No. 201 La Salle avenue, to cost $10,000; J. Johnson, two-story dwelling, 27x64 feet, Sheffield street, near Waubansia avenue, to cost $2,800; J. Fruding, two-story and cellar dwelling, 21x46 feet, No. 155 Sheffield street, to cost $3,000; A. Pflarson, three-story store and flats, 75x55 feet, West Van Buren street and Armitage avenue, to cost $18,000; J. Peterson, two-story and basement dwelling, 21x50 feet, Maxwell street, near Blue Island avenue, to cost $4,000; A. Williams, two-story and cellar dwelling, 40x44 feet, Nos. 1074 and 1076 West Harrison street, to cost $6,000; George Seggiegra, two-story dwelling, 21x50 feet, No. 912 North Halsted street, to cost $3,600; Theretta Trusselt, three-story and basement dwelling, 20x60 feet, No. 297 Lincoln avenue, to cost $4,000; F. J. Dewes, two-story dwelling, 20x40 feet, No. 776 West Chicago avenue, to cost $2,000; Barbara Titus, six three-story dwellings, 120x60 feet, No. 489 West Van Buren street, to cost $24,000; John P. Oett, two-story store and dwelling, 22x44 feet, No. 448 Twenty-sixth street, to cost $4,000; L. W. Yaggy, six-story and basement apartment house, 65x65 feet, No. 148 Dearborn avenue, to cost $80,000; John Featherstone, three-story and basement machine-shop, 111x72 feet, Front and Halsted streets, to cost $17,000.

TENEMENT INSPECTION.

The Tenement-House and Factory Inspectors last week made 18 special and 208 inspections of dwellings. These contained 1,637 rooms, occupied by 443 families of 2,407 persons. There were 47 factories, 42 stores, and 22 miscellaneous places inspected, employing 1,864 persons. There were 101 notices served and 71 nuisances abated. There were 48 notices served on architects and builders to submit plans for buildings now in course of erection.

The following are some of the defective sanitary premises reported upon:

Nos. 1347 and 1349 Clark street, owned by the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company; a two-story frame, overcrowded and occupied by Italians, the premises being very filthy and privy-vault overrunning.

No. 148 Chicago avenue, owned by Joseph H. Dixon, the Warden of the County Hospital. A three-story and basement brick of fourteen rooms, used as a grocery, saloon, and boarding-house. There is no sewer-connection with the water-closets, while the privies are overflowing. The premises are in a general unsanitary condition.

No. 46 North Halsted street, owned by a Mr. Hale, a two-story and basement frame. The ceiling of the basement is very low, and there is stagnant, stinking water under the floor, the sewer being obstructed. The basement is an unfit place for habitation.

There was a large number of places examined, the main defects of which were overflowing privy-vaults. On Wesson street there seems to be a necessity for a general cleaning out.

COUNTY-BUILDING.

Messrs. Tryber & Sweetland, doing business on Canal street, were arrested for contempt of court yesterday at the instance of Judge Loomis. A levy is standing against their effects, it appears, and some of their creditors caused them to be subpœnaed to answer certain questions, which they failed to respond to. They gave bail, and will have a hearing today.

The arrangements are complete for the corner-stone laying at the County Farm tomorrow, but there is nothing to add to the details which have already been given, except that the Milwaukee authorities will be received at Grayland, instead of in this city, and taken to the farm. The Masonic fraternity will meet at the American Express Building at 9 o'clock and march to the new Court-House, preceded by a band, and there they will be joined by the Commissioners and the invited guests and proceed to the train. The train will start at 10 o'clock sharp, and no one will be allowed on board unless he presents an invitation. The corner-stone laying occurs at 12 o'clock, as has already been announced.

After the adjournment of the County Board yesterday the Clerk, Mr. Filkins, presented each of the Commissioners with a gold star, suitably engraved, and incased in a rich morocco box. There was an air of mystery about the presentation, and, despite the most diligent inquiry, very little could be learned calculated to throw any light on the subject.

Commissioner Purington, for instance, expressed the greatest surprise as to where the gift had come from, but he accepted it without any particular reluctance and attached it to his lappel.

Commissioner O'Neill was not so much surprised, and as he looked at the object of gold said it was the proudest occurrence in connection with his official life. It would be more valuable to him after he left the board, he thought, than it was at present.

Several others were talked to in reference to the presentation, but it was not until Commissioner Clark was seen that anything tangible could be learned. He said, in his usual frank and off-hand manner—in explanation of the mystery—that the "stars" had been a gift of the Commissioners to themselves, and that they had cost about $15 apiece. They had met a week or more ago, he said, and agreed upon the design, and when the bills came in each one would pay for his individual adornment. The "stars" were ordered, it appears, in view of the corner-stone laying tomorrow, and are neat and elegant, and no one can object to the County Fathers wearing them as long as the public is not to be taxed to pay for them.

UNCLE SAM'S DOMAIN.

The internal-revenue receipts yesterday amounted to $32,300, of which $23,712 was for spirits, $1,795 for cigars, $3,930 for tobacco, and $2,717 for beer.

The frescoing in Judge Blodgett's courtroom is now so nearly finished that one is enabled to see how artistic it is to be. The work blends so well with the marble panels that it will be when finished one of the most beautiful rooms in the country.

The new late deliveries and collections of mail from the hotels are likely to prove of immense value to transient visitors to the city. The carriers leave the office at 9 p. m. and arrive at the different hotels between 9:15 and 10:10 p. m., the latest collections being those nearest the office. The mails reach the office at 10:15 p. m. Sundays the collections are made at 6 p. m.

The rumors in regard to the pardon of Smith Whittier, alias "Dr. James," still continue, and Whittier is boasting about town that, although he may have been convicted, he has peculiar influence with the Administration, which will secure his release, or at least a mitigation of his sentence. The Department of Justice opposes all his efforts with commendable energy, and just how President Arthur can be influenced in favor of such a despicable scoundrel does not appear. Whittier was arrested Dec. 18, 1880, and was tried last June. The principal witness against him was the father of a young girl to whom one of his vile circulars had been sent. It is claimed that President Arthur will override the law officers of the Government, but in spite of the petitions which have been presented in Whittier's behalf it is believed that the President will turn a deaf ear to the application.

SUBURBAN.

LAKE.

Stephen Morse, of Columbia City, Ind., was picked up on the prairie in the vicinity of the Rock Island shops at 11 o'clock Friday night, suffering from bruises which he said he sustained at the hands of a man who robbed him. Morse was on his way to Iowa, and had, he said, $314 on his person. He met the usual "friend" who knew him at home, and they both proceeded towards the country south of the city. When near the shops he was assaulted and relieved of his wealth. Justice Thomas discharged him yesterday morning.

Capt. Palmer, of the Citizens' League, swore out warrants before Justice Wallace yesterday for the arrest of the following persons: James Lynch, Forty-sixth and Wallace streets, for selling liquor to drunkards. M. E. Jennings, 4459 Halsted street, for the same offense. Hiram Puggy, Forty-seventh street, near Wallace, for selling liquor to minors; and Henry Jurrs, Forty-seventh and Laflin streets, for allowing minors to play pool in his place. The cases will be called Monday.

James Clearhin, who examined James Johnston's lungs a few days ago with a chisel, was arraigned yesterday for preliminary examination. Owing to the absence of several important witnesses the case was continued until Monday.

James Sheehan, when under the influence of drink, finds amusement in beating his daughter over the head with a chair. He practiced his fun once too often, and Friday night cut a gash in her head several inches long. James will be given an opportunity to square himself tomorrow.

Prof. Wentworth, of the Cook County Normal School, is still in Colorado undergoing medical treatment. Although the gentleman is suffering from a complication of disorders, nevertheless his friends are sanguine of seeing him back at his old post before cold weather sets in.

Fire-Marshal Shaw, of London, England, visited the Stock-Yards and packing-houses yesterday in company with a number of city officials. Armour and Fowler's packing-houses were scrutinized thoroughly, and the workings of the butchers were viewed with intense satisfaction.

Sundry cattle-drovers at the Stock-Yards have for months instituted a practice in driving cattle to the down-town slaughter-houses that is simply shocking. The attention of the Humane officers has been called to the mode in which cattle are treated, but the large territory that they have to cover precludes the possibility of their catching the culprits while in the act. Yesterday at noon an emaciated steer was driven at a furious pace along with a herd down Central avenue. The poor beast was so weak that it could hardly walk, but this did not prevent the cruel drivers from beating it badly. At Thirty-ninth and F streets the steer made a stand in order to regain its strength, and in another moment a drover drew near it and discharged four shots from a revolver into the beast's head and side. The wounds inflicted did not kill the animal, and it pawed at the ground furiously. Subsequently a gang of hoodlums procured stones and clubs and began to batter the animal on the body until it dropped to the ground exhausted. A few minutes afterward several drovers appeared and practiced their marksmanship by firing ten more bullets into the body of the beast. After lying on the ground for some time it was carted away to a slaughter-house, where in all probability it will be sold to some epicure as first-class beef. The practice is brutal and uncalled for, and should be discontinued at all hazards.

PULLMAN.

A very pathetic incident occurred at Pullman last week. A young lady from New Haven, Conn., arrived in the morning and passed the day in patient but unavailing search for her brother, William Dougherty, who was at one time employed there, and from whom his friends have not heard for nearly a year past. It was thought that probably her missing brother and a man of the same name who was killed by an Illinois Central train some time last autumn were one and the same. The descriptions tallied, and the poor girl departed almost broken hearted over her loss.

The Pullman public schools will open Wednesday, occupying quarters in the Eastern Pullman depot, the freight depot, and Market-Hall. The elegant new school-house to cost 40,000, and which will accommodate 700 pupils, is expected to be completed about the middle of November.

A promenade concert will be given at Market-Hall Thursday evening to raise funds for the purchase of instruments for the Pullman Band. The program will be rendered by home and imported talent.

Mr. William Lee, assistant civil engineer at Pullman, has resigned his position to accept a position on the Hennepin Canal corps of engineers.

Mr. Duane Doty, the agent of the Pullman Company at Pullman, was called to Ann Arbor last week by the death of his mother.

Thou hast broken every vow

Thou hast left me for another

The greatest array of rich and exclusive attractions in fine and medium furnishings for fall and winter, an absolute guarantee of lowest prices for qualities of goods furnished, the finest salesroom on this continent for their display, and the most courteous treatment extended, are facts which combine to make the old and well-known house of Brown & Prior, Wabash avenue and Monroe street, the most desirable place at which to make fall purchases.

Said an old gentleman, patronizingly, to a bright little fellow, "Be a good boy, my little man, and you may be President." "Yes, I may be," the wide-awake youth replied, "but you don't want to gamble on it."

After repeated experiments some years ago, D. F. Bremner obtained what he claimed perfection in breadmaking, and consequently rightly named it "Eureka," since which time several bakers have imitated his trade-mark with very much inferior bread. So popular has Bremner's production become that every one knows that to obtain the genuine they must see that the letters D. F. B. are stamped on each loaf.

The obliging visitor, to show that he really is fond of children, and that the dear little one is not annoying him in the least, treats the kid to a ride upon his knee. "Trot! trot! trot! How do you like that, my boy? Is that nice?" "Yes, sir," replies the child, "but not so nice as on the real donkey—the one with four legs."

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

We publish today the dissolution notice of the old firm of Giles Bro. & Co. But this old landmark of the jewelry business of Chicago and the West is not going to pass from among us, although the senior partner, Mr. W. A. Giles, retires. Mr. C. K. Giles, who is probably better known personally in the retail jewelry business than any other man west of New York, will continue the business as President of the new corporation of Giles Bro. & Co. With undiminished capital and the retention of all the old trusted employés of the house, it is confidently believed that the new firm has entered upon a career of greater prosperity than ever before.

TWO MISSOURI JUDGES IMPRISONED.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 9.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday William P. Bares and Finis E. Johnston, County Judges of Cass County, were committed to jail by an order of Judge Krekel for refusing to make a levy on the county to satisfy a judgment obtained against Cass County to pay the bonds and interest issued by Cass County in aid of the Tebo & Neosho Railroad.

WHERE TO BUY FRUIT.

Fruitful Facts from Large Dealers.

For information concerning the extent and growth of trade in fruit in packages, etc., our representative first called upon C. Jevne, 110 and 112 Madison street, who is one of the largest dealers in the city. Mr. Jevne said that Mr. Ericson was in charge of the fruit department and could give all information required. We learn that three months ago one man attended to the department, but it now required five, besides the manager and salesmen of the house selling large quantities. On asking how the fruit business was conducted, the manager said all packages were examined in the store and carefully assorted, and when repacked were sold as represented. It is proverbial with this house not alone in fruit, but also in plain and fancy domestic and foreign groceries and condiments, that with their immense trade they do make the lowest prices for the best goods.

Messrs. A. E. Dore & Co., 582 West Madison street, the popular West Side grocers and fruit dealers, were next interviewed as to the condition of the fruit trade in their section. Mr. Dore said that the sale of fruit in packages was now very satisfactory, as his customers knew that every basket could be relied upon as being of uniform excellence and in sound, prime condition. He said that they put up most of their packages themselves, and bought of only reliable fruit-growers and warranted every package. They are handling large quantities of the best California fruit. Mr. Dore believes that in prices he is somewhat lower than other dealers, quality of fruit considered. His patrons number a large list of the better residents of the West Side who purchase for the table and as gifts to friends.

A REMARKABLE SHOWING.

The growth of Chicago, its past, present, and future, can be seen at a glance by perusing the Monthly Business Record, as published by Brown, Thomas & Co., the enterprising exchange brokers and real-estate dealers of No. 155 East Washington street. The August number takes up the city as far back as 1832, and gives a correct record, year by year, of the remarkable growth of the only Chicago in the world. In addition to our city's condensed history, the Record contains a most valuable list of property for sale in the hands of Brown, Thomas & Co., which it would be well for capitalists to investigate.—Inter-Ocean, Sept. 2.

At Ten O'clock Yesterday the Star-Route Jury Asked for Instructions.

They Were Instructed, and Remained Out Until 6 Last Evening.

They Then Declared They Had Agreed "As to Some of the Defendants."

THE JURY STILL OUT.

RECITAL OF THE DAY'S SUSPENSE.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—The star-route jury has not yet rendered its verdict. Three times today has the jury come into court, and each time has indicated that it has made progress. Tonight at 6 o'clock it again came into the court-room, in which but one solitary lamp was burning, and the foreman, in answer to the usual question, replied:

"We have come to a conclusion as to some of the defendants."

The Judge, declining to accept a partial or imperfect verdict, remanded the jury to their quarters until tomorrow (Sunday) at 10 o'clock, which the records of the court will show as the continued session of Friday. Meanwhile we are left to speculation as to the conclusion which the jury has reached, and if one is to judge by the countenances of the defendants those speculations must be that some have been found guilty.

GEORGE BLISS AND RICHARD MERRICK, counsel for the Government, tell me that their argument from the law as to the conclusion at which the jury have arrived is this: The jury, under the charge of the Judge, had these things to determine: First, were there two conspiracies proved by the evidence? If there were two conspiracies, then the whole case falls, as the indictment charged but one. Second, was there one conspiracy? Third, was there one overt act which was proven by the evidence exactly as it was described in the indictment? If so, and the conspiracy has been proven, the one overt act will be sufficient to prove the conspiracy. The other overt acts which take fifty-three printed pages to describe, need not be considered. Fourth, the conspiracy being established and the overt act proven under it, there remains for the jury only to determine who of the defendants, if any, were the conspirators. This, said George Bliss and Mr. Merrick in substance, was what the jury had to decide. Their progress through the day, as indicated by their reports, has

PLAINLY BEEN THIS:

They have reported to the court, first, that they had come to a conclusion as to one defendant. They have reported to the court tonight that they have come to a conclusion as to more defendants. This must mean that they have settled all questions as to technicalities, and are now only discussing the relations of each defendant to the evidence. If they had decided that two conspiracies, for instance, had been proved, they would have reported that, and, under the instructions of the Judge, the whole case would have fallen and all have been acquitted. If they had found that no conspiracy at all was proved, they would, in like manner, have returned the fact with its consequent verdict of acquittal for all the defendants. If, having been convinced that there was a conspiracy, they had been unable to find one single overt act in all the mass which was accurately described in the indictment, they would also have reported that their conclusion was that the indictment failed, and that all were acquitted.

THEY HAVE EVIDENTLY DECIDED, on the contrary, that there were not two conspiracies, that there was one conspiracy, and that there was one overt act under that conspiracy accurately described in the indictment. Hence, they came in and said they had found a verdict as to one defendant. That, of course, means that they have decided to acquit Turner, as to whom the Government counsel said that they should not ask for a verdict of guilty, as they acknowledged that the conspiracy as to him had not been proved. And now they come tonight and say that they have reached a conclusion as to more defendants. That means, Mr. Bliss and Mr. Merrick both think, that the jury have found the following persons guilty of conspiracy: Brady, Vaile, and Rerdell, and are still considering the case of the two Dorseys. In other words, the jury, having decided against all the technicalities raised by the defendants, have taken up the case in its order, in its natural, logical, and legal sequence, and have disposed of each defendant as the ballot was reached. The four persons named stand in their legal relations together, and if the verdict of guilty has been found as to one undoubtedly it has as to all four. This, briefly stated, is the argument of the Government counsel as to the situation.

IT IS TO BE UNDERSTOOD that these conclusions are based entirely upon the natural relations of the law to the action of the jury and upon the reports which have been made by the jury to the court. Both of these gentlemen disclaim having any knowledge as to what has transpired in the jury-room. The conclusions at which these lawyers have come by a process of reasoning may or may not be correct, but they are confirmed by the gossip about the court. It is in the air, and it may be said that the jury has disposed of the case of four persons in addition to that of Turner, and the logical group as to the four persons is as above indicated. The two Dorseys stand in their legal relations apart from the other four. The Government counsel are very hopeful that the jury, since it has evidently made so much progress, will by tomorrow at 10 o'clock be able to render a full verdict to the court.

THE SCENES IN COURT

during the day were of the most intense interest. The reappearances of the jury were alike in every instance. The court-room was densely packed. The defendants, with the exception of Brady and Stephen Dorsey, with their counsel, were always in their places. The eighteen chairs assigned for the defendants and their numerous counsel were in every instance filled. The three chairs which alone sufficed for the representatives of the Government were occupied respectively by Merrick, Bliss, and Ker. The defendants from early morning until the last report was made, as the fading daylight was rendered still more dim by a solitary, smoky, flickering lamp, all had very serious faces, and the expression on the faces of the counsel was that of great concern. Once only during the day did take his accustomed seat; that was at nightfall when the last ominous report of progress was made—that the jury had come to conclusions as to some of the defendants. He seemed more careworn than he has at any time. He still preserves that imperturbable, stolid look which has characterized him throughout the trial, but his face showed evidence of mental disturbance. He left the court-room with a very slow and heavy step, stood long beneath the porch talking to one of his counsel, "Jeff" Chandler, in a most earnest manner, and then strolled across the street slowly and alone to the hotel, the restaurant of which is the headquarters of the defendants. Stephen Dorsey did not appear in court today, and has not for a week, but he sat in a chair on the sidewalk, in front of the "Hole in the Wall," his eyes (which, it is said, are rapidly losing their sight) shielded from the light by dark goggles, and his face giving evidence of deep concern. Of the other defendants in the court-room, alone seemed cheerful. Turner well could feel relieved, for he had good reason to know he was the only one certain to be acquitted, and, as if expecting the announcement of the verdict, and that he was to become the centre of attraction, he had brushed still more carefully those marvelous whiskers, and dressed his curly hair. Vaile, rubicund, genial, preserved the appearance of a successful interior merchant, and betrayed no uneasiness. As for the rest, the peculiar bulging eyes of Miner were more restless than ever, and their look was almost wild, while he held his head as if afraid to meet the coming storm. It is not unlikely that Mr. Miner may have deeply regretted the day when he reconsidered his determination, which, it is believed, he had at one time fully made, to become for the Government State's evidence against his co-conspirators.

VAILE AND TURNER

had lost the bluff which has characterized him to this time, and seemed to be apprehensive of the verdict. He could scarcely fail to have remembered that, in all the volumes that have been spoken for the other defendants, very few hearty words have been said by the defendants' counsel for him. John Dorsey sat there, as he has throughout the week, speechless, wrinkled, and sallow—a picture of dejection—a man noted, like the one who stood upon the street-corners, for his long prayers, but who is discovered in bad company. During the day there was one incident which served to still further weaken the case of the defense. The jury in the morning came into court and asked some questions as to the law. The Judge advised them. The defendants' counsel, or some of them excepted, and and for their answers received such forcible suggestions from the court as to the law as to serve to impress more deeply upon the minds of the jury that the Judge, at all events, was satisfied as to the guilt of the defendants. So the day wore on. It may be that the speculations of the Government counsel are wrong and that the conclusions which the jury have formed are in favor of acquittal; but the logic, certainly, on which rests the judgment that a verdict of guilty has been agreed on as to some seems complete.

THE "CRITIC,"

Brady's organ, is very bitter tonight upon Attorney-General Brewster and Prosecuting-Attorney Bliss. It charges Bliss with corrupt jury practices, and says that Brewster, late at night, some weeks ago, at Chamberlin's Club-House, when all present were warm with wine, embraced Dorsey in an effusive manner, and said that he knew that the Government had no case against him, and was sorry for it, but that he inherited the case, and could not help it. The Critic claims that H. M. Hutchinson, of the Alaska Fur Company, Olmstead, a real-estate agent here, J. R. Boster, the great cattle-dealer of Carlisle, Pa., and Chicago, and John Chamberlin were witnesses to this midnight feast. The Critic claims that a memorandum of the circumstance was made at the time. It is rather remarkable that Brady's paper should have postponed the publication of this extraordinary pretended circumstance to this hour just as the verdict of guilty, possibly, is about to be pronounced.

THE COURT.

To the Western Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning the jury in the star-route case came into court and reported that they had been unable to agree upon a verdict, and asked for further instructions. These were given by Judge Wylie at considerable length, and their general tendency was strongly against the defendants.

At their own request, the jury were allowed to take their notes into their room, and again retired.

AT NIGHT.

At a few minutes past 6 o'clock the "Come to order, gentlemen; hats off," of the crier announced to the large audience that the Judge had ascended the bench.

All the defendants except S. W. Dorsey were present, Brady occupying his customary seat for the first time since the retirement of the jury and smilingly greeting counsel for the defense as he entered the court-room.

Deputy-Marshal Williams, in obedience to an order from the court, retired to the jury-room for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not they had agreed upon a verdict. He was informed that the jury would be ready in a few minutes to report to the court.

At ten minutes past 6 o'clock the jury came into the room, and in answer to the query of the clerk: "Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?" Foreman Dickson replied: "We desire to report to the court that as to some of the defendants named in the indictment, not as to others."

The court—The court is not now, at any rate, willing to accept a verdict of that kind. There have been instances in which what I may call imperfect verdicts have been rendered—a verdict as to some of the defendants and no verdict as to others. I am not willing to accept such a verdict as that, at any rate at this stage. The verdict of the jury, in my judgment, ought to be complete. You have a number of defendants here. Those who are guilty (if there are any) will have to submit of course to a verdict. Those who are innocent (if there are any) are entitled to the verdict of the jury. I do not mean to say that if, after a fair test, the jury should come into court and say they are able to agree on a verdict as to some but that they are really unable to agree as to others, the court might not accept such a verdict. But it would

on the part of the jury.

Foreman Dickson—The jury have not yet desired me to make such a report. We have simply come down in obedience to your summons.

Col. Ingersoll—I do not know, of course, what the jury have done, but if a defendant, or any number of defendants, has been found not guilty, I can myself see no reason why they should not know that fact and why they should not be discharged. I do not see what right a court has to hold a person after the jury have declared him not guilty. It seems to me if they have found one or more of the defendants not guilty that it is the right of the defendants to know and have that verdict. If they fail to agree as to others, that is another matter.

The court—When it comes to the time when the court is prepared to discharge the jury and the jury should say, "We find certain of the defendants not guilty, and are unable to agree as to the others," that would be the time for the court to determine that question. But that time has not come. I think in which a court of common law has accepted a verdict of acquittal as to one today, as to another tomorrow, and as to another next day, or proceeded on any such principle as that.

Col. Ingersoll—I would like to see the goods delivered as fast as they are finished.

The Court—If I saw any propriety in such a practice as that I should be willing and glad to relieve the mind of any of the defendants. But until the moment arrives when the court is prepared to discharge the jury, I think it would not be proper to accept a verdict of this kind.

Mr. Merrick—There can be but one verdict in any case. It cannot be divided.

The court then stated to the jury that the Government would be obliged to entertain them another night. The record of the court would not observe Sunday because it had taken recesses since Friday.

IF THE JURY SHOULD HAPPEN TO AGREE upon a verdict tomorrow, they could let him know, and he would relieve them from their imprisonment.

Henkle suggested that it might be well to fix some time tomorrow for a meeting of the court.

This suggestion met with the approval of the court, and he ordered the recess to be taken until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, not 7 as formerly reported.

In answer to a question from a representative of the Associated Press touching the present status of the jury, one of the prosecuting officers stated that it was his opinion that the jury were unanimous as to the guilt of Brady, Rerdell, Miner, and Vaile. Perhaps, he said, they entertained some doubt where the remaining defendants were concerned.

WHAT THE TRIAL HAS COST.

Payments already made on account of expenses in the prosecution of the star-route cases are as follows: B. H. Brewster, for services and expenses before his appointment as Attorney-General, $5,000; W. A. Cook, $6,702; George Bliss, $19,251; W. W. Ker, $6,527; R. T. Merrick, $5,000; A. M. Gibson, $5,000. Total, $47,480. It is estimated that the total expenses of the trial will be $200,000.

THE MORMON ACT.

FIRST REPORT OF THE COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—The following report from the Utah Commission has been received by the Interior Department:

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 31, 1881.—The Hon. H. M. Teller, Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C.—DEAR SIR: The commission appointed by the President under the ninth section of "An act to amend Sec. 5,352 of the Revised Statutes of the United States in reference to bigamy, and for other purposes," approved March 22, 1882, respectfully report that all the members of the commission met by request of the Chairman at the City of Chicago the 17th of July, 1882, and remained in session several days. James R. Pettigrew, of Arkansas, a member of the commission, was appointed temporary Secretary.

After consultation, and examination, and consideration of the laws of the United States and of the Territory of Utah pertaining to our duties, it was determined that nothing could be done in regard to the registration of voters and the conduct of any election in Utah until the necessary appropriation bills then pending in Congress should be passed. Accordingly the commission adjourned to meet at Omaha, Neb., on the 15th of August, where the Commissioners met, and on the following day commenced their journey to this city, arriving here the evening of the 18th inst.

On the day following a session was held for the transaction of business, Arthur L. Thomas, Secretary of the Territory and ex-officio Secretary of the commission, being present, and one or more sessions have been held each day since.

A STRONG DISPOSITION

with some of the non-Mormon citizens against preparing for the election of a Delegate in Congress manifested itself before the work of preparation therefor was commenced. But upon investigation as to the condition of affairs, and an examination as to the state of the law and the duty of the commission thereunder, the following preamble and resolution were adopted:

WHEREAS, It is provided by the Revised Statutes of the United States (Sec. 1,862) that every Territory shall have the right to send a Delegate to the House of Representatives of the United States, and as it is further provided (Sec. 25) that such election shall be held in all the Territories of the United States on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1882; therefore

Resolved, That, in order to prepare for such election in the Territory of Utah on the day so established, the commission will proceed forthwith to appoint registration officers to revise the registration lists now on the files in the offices of the Clerks of each of the several counties in the manner required by law.

IN PURSUANCE OF THIS RESOLUTION

the commission proceeded with great care and deliberation to prepare rules and regulations for the guidance of registration and election officers to be appointed. This was a difficult and delicate task because of the necessity of framing the rules and regulations governing the registration of voters and the conduct of election to conform to the principles and requirements of the act of Congress as well as to the laws of the Territory. We inclose a printed copy of the same, together with the forms of affidavits, etc., provided by the commission.

The matter of the appointment of registration officers for the several counties in the Territory was then taken up, and one for each county has been duly appointed and commissioned. In addition to these, a deputy or assistant in each voting precinct in the Territory will be immediately appointed.

Our selections have and must necessarily be influenced in a considerable degree by the suggestions and recommendations of the leading citizens here.

THE EMBARRASSMENTS

in this direction have been great, but the commission have endeavored to secure the very best available men, rejecting, of course, all persons who are ineligible under the law. From present indications it appears that that class of persons who are deprived of the right of suffrage by the act of Congress will not attempt to register or vote. These will number, male and female, probably 10,000 voters. Many of the non-Mormons have hitherto refrained from voting, but it is believed that at the November election they will cast a much larger vote than at any time heretofore. However, the business of the commission, as understood by the members thereof, relates not to the questions of parties nor candidates, but to securing so far as possible a fair registration and an impartially conducted election under the law. As before suggested, the commission have encountered many embarrassments and complications.

THE APPROPRIATION

made at the outset by some non-Mormons of respectability and influence against holding a regular election for Delegate in Congress, as required by law, in November next, was an unpleasant feature of the situation. But there does not appear to be, under the law, any discretion whatever for the commission.

THE LAW DEMANDED AN ELECTION.

The people of the Territory were clearly entitled to representation in Congress, if the same could be secured through a due observance of the restrictions imposed in relation to bigamy and polygamy. We did not see how we could excuse the omission, if, being present and prepared to proceed with the work assigned us, we should not even attempt to perform this manifest duty, and so it was decided to proceed. It was not deemed advisable, even if the power was in the commission, concerning which there is some doubt, to commence de novo a registration of the voters of the Territory; but, after a very careful consideration, it was decided to order a revision of the existing registration lists in September, as required by the Territorial law, applying to the same the governing principles of the Edmunds act. We think the regularity of this proceeding cannot be questioned. Its effectiveness will be equal to an entirely new registration, and we believe the results of the election will so demonstrate. In the preparation of rules and regulations to govern registration and the conduct of election, as before stated, the labor of assimilating the acts of Congress and the local election law was tedious and perplexing, involving a much greater responsibility than was agreeable to the commission to assume, but to accomplish the results required by the provisions of Sec. 8 of the Edmunds act it became necessary to use all the powers conferred.

A LATER EMBARRASSMENT

came in the form of a demand on the part of certain Mormon citizens of high character that the commission should assume jurisdiction and decide the local statute authorizing women to vote to be illegal and void. We concluded it was not competent for the commission to repeal or modify that statute in the manner suggested; that the principle of female suffrage is in no respect in conflict with the purpose of the Edmunds law, and therefore that the commission had nothing whatever to do with the subject; moreover, we found on investigation that this statute had been in force for twelve years, without being adjudicated in the courts of the Territory or disturbed by Congress.

In conclusion, permit us to say we believe the results to be reached through careful registration already insured, and the impartial election which can hardly fail to follow will be satisfactory to the Government and the country.

In closing this report it is due to the Territorial Secretary, who is ex officio Secretary of the commission, Arthur L. Thomas, to say that the commission has received from him valuable assistance in its work, particularly in the matter of selection of registration and other officers.

Very respectfully, your obedient servants,

ALEX. RAMSEY,
A. S. PADDOCK,
G. L. GODFREY,
A. B. CARLTON,
J. R. PETTIGREW.

SERGT. MASON.

A STANDING ILLUSTRATION OF THE THINNESS OF THE IDEA THAT THIS IS A GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—J. G. Bigelow, counsel for Sergt. Mason, convicted for shooting at Guiteau, has received a letter from the Secretary of War declining to furnish him with a copy of the opinion of Judge-Advocate-General Swaim on the case, for the reason that such reports are confidential in their nature. Bigelow will probably make his attempt to secure the release of Mason through a writ of habeas corpus next week.

THE ILLINOIS HORRORS.

A Rumor at Lincoln.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LINCOLN, Ill., Sept. 9.—Great excitement was created here today by the circulation of a report that two brothers named De Haven, formerly of this county, had been arrested in Chicago, charged with the Mt. Pulaski murder, about which so much mystery hangs. A great crowd assembled at the depot to await the arrival of the Chicago train, thinking the parties were coming on that, but they were disappointed, as Sheriff Wendle, who came down on the train, knew nothing of any arrest being made. The rumor seemed to be without any foundation.

Miss Bond, and the Fiends Who Butchered Her.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Sept. 9.—Dr. Vermilion, one of the Bond "suspects," who is confined in jail, will have a preliminary hearing on the 18th, at which time there will be some thirty witnesses to hear, and the trial promises to be of intense interest. Justice Ricks said today that at that time there would be some startling developments, and that, while they would not change the appearance of the case in the least, he believed that the evidence would be very conclusive and fix the guilt upon those who have been arrested and held under bonds. Miss Bond was very low this morning, but has rallied some during the day. Her physicians are not yet of the opinion that she will ever wholly recover.

YACHTING.

The Regatta Yesterday Afternoon—Miscellaneous Notes.

The annual fall regatta of the Chicago Yacht Club was given yesterday afternoon on the Lake-Front. The Goodrich steamer Sheboygan, with the judges and a large party aboard, left the dock at 1 o'clock for the south end of the Government pier, where the gun to get ready was fired, and the second one to start at a little after 1:30.

Eight yachts were entered for the race, two in the first class, two in the second, and four in the third. The time for starting was taken as the boats passed through the opening between the north and south breakwater off Van Buren street, the course from which was southeast around the stake-boat, anchored about four and one-half miles off Thirty-ninth street, thence northerly around the crib, and home between the piers off Van Buren street, leaving everything on the port hand. The distance sailed was about sixteen miles. The day was beautiful, the skies being clear, but the wind was very light, being a little south of east, and the time averaged somewhat over six miles an hour. The race, though devoid of excitement, was interesting, the centre of attraction being the contest between the two yachts of the first class, the Cora, commanded by Commodore Griswold, and the Wasp, under Capt. John Prindiville, for the Fisher Challenge Cup, valued at $300, which was won by the Cora at the July regatta.

THE CORA STARTED

nearly six minutes ahead of the Wasp, but lost about 15 minutes in rounding the stake boat, making a bad move at the first attempt, which passed her on the port side. At this juncture the wind was nearly at a dead calm. This gave the Wasp time to catch up and make the turn first, and she was nearly half a mile ahead of her competitor on the course to the crib. But the Cora gained steadily on the last half, keeping well to leeward, and rounded the crib just about three minutes after the Wasp, and crowded her well on the return trip, being some twelve lengths behind in passing inside the breakwater, and making up her time. The Cora, notwithstanding the delay, made the quickest time and won the prize, being allowed nine minutes over the Wasp.

The little Zephyr, of the third class, was the first to pass out between the piers, and kept the lead of the fleet during the entire race, followed several lengths behind by her competitors, the Ariel, Peri, and Wonder. In the second class the Nameless kept with the fleet, and easily won the race, her competitor, the Burke, lagging far behind, being badly handled.

Mr. J. Wilder sailed the Nameless, M. Waite the H. Burke, G. E. Weiss the Ariel, E. W. Sayer the Peri, A. W. Cleaver the Wonder, and F. B. H. Bouter the Zephyr.

The judges, Messrs. L. T. Stanley, O. Kraus, e S. Baker, submitted the following report of the regatta:

	Start.	Finish.	Actual time.	Cor. time.
First class.
Wasp	1.47.55	3.38.38	1.50.43	1.50.43
Cora	1.42.13	3.40.34	1.58.21	1.48.15
Second class.
Nameless	1.36.50	3.47.22	2.05.32	2.05.32
Burke	1.38.38	3.58.20	2.19.42	2.18.30
Third class.
Ariel	1.38.37	3.37.40	1.59.03	1.59.03
Peri	1.37.04	3.48.45	2.11.41	2.09.29
Zephyr	1.36.45	3.35.49	1.57.01	1.54.03
Wonder	1.37.23	3.50.28	2.22.04	2.15.56

They award the prizes as follows: First-class sloops—Fisher Challenge Cup to the Cora. Second class—A marine glass to the Nameless. Third class—First prize, barometer, to the Zephyr; second prize, pennant, to the Ariel. The tin cup to Harry Burke.

The judges decided that the Cora beat the Wasp two minutes twenty-eight seconds. Second class—The Nameless beat the Burke twelve minutes fifty-eight seconds. Third class—Zephyr the Ariel four minutes fifty-eight seconds; Ariel the Peri ten minutes twenty-six seconds.

This is the last regatta held by the Chicago yachts this season. Most of the boats will now take a cruise and then lay up. The Countess and Idler sail at once for Lake Erie.

The schooner yachts Viking and Idler, with parties aboard, were out yesterday accompanying the regatta, but not as competitors for prizes. Capt. Shaw was a guest of the Viking.

The Nereid was last heard of at Monistique, near Mackinaw. For a boat of her size she is making a long cruise. Mr. Phillips and his party are having a fine voyage.

Mr. C. L. Willoughby, of Willoughby, Hill & Co., has been on a salt water cruise in the yacht Vision. He carried the pennant of the Chicago Yacht Club.

PERFECT VENTILATION.

A New System That Revolutionizes All Others in Point of Thorough and Complete Displacement of Hot and Foul Air.

A careful investigation of the history of all great inventions, and by the adjective great we mean those important creations of genius which, in their application to the needs of humanity, have most benefited the race, will disclose, notwithstanding the prevalent idea that they are the fruitage of years of searching and incessant toil, that they have actually burst upon the mentality of their authors with a suddenness suggestive of a revelation from some higher realm of intellectual activity than ours. It is remarkable, too, of these great inventions that they are for the most part so simple in principle and philosophical in mechanism that men are led to exclaim, "Why was not that thought of before!"

These reflections and remarks are urged upon us by an examination just closed of an exhaust fan for ventilating purposes and its eminently practical working, as demonstrated in THE TRIBUNE's stereotyping department, where two of them have just been satisfactorily introduced.

Ventilation, it is known, has been a vexed question, we were going to say, ever since men abandoned cave life and took to living in dwellings; certainly ever since architecture advanced to the position of a recognized art, and men began to realize in its outward perfection they were being hedged in with disease and death attendant upon a want of free and uncontaminated air.

How many devices have been tried, or how many thousands of dollars have been expended in the effort to remove this serious result of our civilization, who can tell? The general endeavor for relief has been to force the pure air into buildings, and in this way to get rid of the vitiated atmospheres. The result of this practice has been inglorious failure, showing the theory to be unsound. We need not go out of Chicago to find a notable instance, in the case of one of our theatres, where a small fortune, under this theory, was expended on an apparatus that in the end had to be cast aside for its signal worthlessness.

The ventilator recently placed in THE TRIBUNE Building seems to be constructed on an entirely different and new theory. It is a disc fan, provided with a series of gain-scrolled wings so shaped as to give an equal pressure of air on each square inch of blade (or rather bucket), thereby insuring the absolute removal of all the air it comes in contact with. In motion, it strikes the air edgewise, sculling itself through it, and as a natural consequence takes but a fraction of the power (less than one-horse power) required by others, and runs noiselessly. Practically, it creates a vacuum by withdrawing the foul air and allowing it to be replaced with fresh, instead of endeavoring to force air into a space already full, as unsuccessfully tried by other methods.

This ventilation must be recognized as a new device based upon an entirely novel system of ventilation, whose striking advantages are beyond estimation, and which commend themselves to every thinking mind. By it all hot or foul air, sewer-gas, and kindred atmospheres may be rapidly and effectually removed from any rooms, and as instantaneously replaced by the pure and healthful air of Heaven.

The application of this invaluble invention comes to all communities like a benefaction. Hospital wards reeking with disease can be made wholesome, and famishing lungs be supplied with pure oxygen—the great restorer of health and strength. Mines, too, can be worked more economically and safely, as, not only can temperatures be reduced, but "fire damp," and all other dangerous gases generated in the bowels of the earth be readily removed. Boiler rooms, where the temperature is so high as be intolerable, can be economically reduced to an agreeable degree. Hot kitchens may be shorn of their terrors since, besides the subjugation of the heat, it will as well remove that bane of hotel-keepers and housewives, the odors of cooking food. Laundries too may come in for its grateful respite, in winter or summer, from its capacity to remove the heat and steam, thus rendering the ironing rooms habitable. It will make cellars dry and fit for storage, as all dampness and mustiness succumb to its operation. It is needless to speak of the benefits that may accrue from this great discovery to public buildings, such as theatres, halls, churches, as it matters not what may be in the way of perfect ventilation from any defects of architecture or location this device is sure to correct the fault and afford a pure and wholesome circulation of fresh air under all circumstances—one of its most important uses being in flour mills, where the device perfectly removes dangerous gases, avoiding the dangers of explosions. It is but proper before closing this short sketch of a valuable invention to refer to the experience of THE TRIBUNE Company.

The stereotyping room of a newspaper is of all earthly places the hottest and most uncomfortable. Since Hell has been expurgated (see Revised Edition) it should take its place as the synonym of aggravated diabolical intense heat.

Various methods had been tried to render that of THE TRIBUNE habitable but without avail, and we were at the time the Exhaust Ventilator Company presented their device removing an elaborate and costly wheel that had been on trial and accomplished nothing. The manufacturer of this new invention solicited a trial, guaranteeing success. Consent was given, and a wheel placed in proper position and run. The effect was instantaneous and magical. A current of hot air shot out of the window, and a stream of cool, fresh air was drawn into the room, which in its turn was sucked into the fast revolving wheel and thrown out.

A draft was created that was strong enough near the doorways to take off one's hat. Not only was this one large room thoroughly and most effectually cooled and ventilated, but even the air in the counting-office up-stairs, and in the intermediate rooms was drawn towards the wheel and a current created that had a wonderfully refreshing effect on the temperature there. This simple, inexpensive wheel accomplished all that had been striven for, and seemed to have resources within itself for greater efforts. THE TRIBUNE has no hesitation in recommending it above all other devices for the purposes for which it is intended and refers its readers with confidence to the manufacturers, whose card appears in the advertising columns of this paper. This wheel can be seen in operation at the Exposition Building.

CRICKET.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—The cricket match between the Western and Merion Clubs was concluded today. Yesterday in the first inning the Westerns scored 129 and the Merions 43, and when the stumps were drawn in the second inning had secured 56, with a loss of three wickets. The Merions ran their score up to 165, making a total of 208. This required the Westerns to make 80 runs. When they had made 70 eight wickets had fallen and they had only one wicket to spare, being short one player. They scored 81 without the fall of this wicket, thus winning the most exciting game during their tour east.

MUSICAL SUCCESSES.

"Nothing succeeds like success," says the old French proverb, and its truth is proved by numberless instances that we see in all pursuits and in every direction. However, the beginning of this success is rarely attained in a day or in a short season, but usually takes years of patient and indefatigable work and untiring energy. But when this period has been once reached, and that which is the candidate for public favor has made the fortunate "hit," the road is broad and clear of obstructions.

Many geniuses have changed entire systems which up to their time had been supposed to be perfectly accurate, but they did not live to enjoy the fruition of their life-work. It was only after many years of violent persecution, together with many rebuffs and much ridicule, that a Richard Wagner succeeded in getting a fair and respectful hearing for his school of composition, but thanks to his perseverance, as well as to the merit of his works, they are now on the topmost wave of favor in the musical world. The present century alone and the history of our own country can point to not a few such illustrations, not only in the world of science but also in that of the practical and mechanical arts.

A brilliant and sounding example is the history of piano-making in this country—more especially that of upright pianos. For many years they suffered the opprobrium which the first specimens that were introduced brought down upon them, as well as from the general principle that they were "something new." The present foremost position of the upright was not gained for it without much combating with well-founded prejudice and slow-moving conservatism, backed by the undeniable fact that all of that style first used in this country became, after short usage, utter failures. This form of pianoforte had long been the favorite in Europe, as it is at the present time, and the first upright pianos that were used in this country were brought over from Europe. That was wherein the trouble originated.

As everybody knows, the climate of this country is much more rigorous and changeable than in the same latitudes in the eastern hemisphere, consequently pianos made there, as well as those made on the European principle here, were not able to withstand the severe climatic changes, or intense cold and heat of our continent. The result was complete disappointment, and it was this failure of a foreign product that prevented the improved home-made instrument from taking that place which it has since proved its right to hold. The American makers of the new and improved instrument thus had to work long and steadily to overcome the reproaches which the fundamental defects in the foreign-made uprights caused to be remembered long after their usefulness had departed. Various American manufacturers of the early times, seeing the intrinsic superiority of the upright form of piano, endeavored to overcome the defects in the construction of the European-made instruments, but met only with failure. It was reserved to the firm of Steinway & Sons, of New York, to so improve on and radically change the then existing principle of their construction that, instead of the upright style being a byword and a reproach, they brought them to a state of perfection and durability that causes them to now receive the preference.

When Steinway & Sons first introduced their uprights, some twenty years ago, disaster was predicted by many of their best friends, who regretted that they should jeopardize their world-wide reputation by attempting to force upon the public a form of piano which experience pointed to as impossible of bringing to anything like perfection, and which had tarnished the fame of many a maker and had proved the ruin of not a few of them. However, the result proved that Steinways' friends were poor prophets, and that Steinways' confidence in the upright was well founded.

Instead of following the old beaten track of others, they have in this, as in all that they have undertaken, made a thorough study of the subject, and, after diligent application and frequent experiments during many years, they have perfected a number of patented improvements, which enabled them to triumph over all the obstacles that had previously made the upright piano a failure in this country, so that they now make a piano which is the wonder and admiration of the musical world, and the unapproachable standard of excellence among all others. It is well known among rival manufacturers that without the Steinway improvements a thoroughly durable upright piano cannot be made. This is tacitly admitted by the fact that a number of well-known American manufacturers have at one time or another, either through ignorance or with fraudulent intent, infringed the Steinway patents, but, happily for Steinway & Sons, their rights are so well secured under the law that all have been forced to abandon them.

Messrs. Lyon & Healy, the life-long agents for Steinways' pianos in this city, have probably done more to break down the prejudice against upright pianos than has any firm in the United States, and this during many years when to urge the claims of uprights cost much in the matter of sales. However, they have now the satisfaction of seeing the upright piano leading all others in public favor, as is evinced by the fact that of their Steinway piano sales for the present year no less then 82 per cent are uprights.

For upwards of a decade they were the only house in Chicago whose warerooms constantly contained a large and varied assortment of upright pianos.

As they have led the music trade in many branches, so have they advanced the standing and the popularity of the upright pianos until they can now, as a firm, look backward and see the entire trade following in their wake.

The present position of the upright in public esteem being so satisfactorily settled, there can be no question as to its future. Steinway alone makes that form of piano in its perfection, and having done so for so many years to the utmost and unequaled satisfaction of the musical public—professional and amateur—has most assuredly earned for it the title of "Matchless."

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

Conflicting Statements as to the Protection of American Lumber.

Some Interesting Figures on the Magnitude of the Trade in the Northwest.

An Appeal for Lower Tariff in the Interest of Consumers of Barbed Wire.

Important Letters from O. W. Potter, Marshall Field, S. Corning Judd, and Others.

Morning Session.

The Tariff Commission resumed its sessions yesterday morning at the Grand Pacific Hotel. The room was as uncomfortably crowded as before, and it was as difficult to hear the statements of the witnesses as if the meeting had been held on the open street.

The first witness was Mr. D. R. Holt, of this city, who in the name of the Chicago lumber manufacturers wished simply to indorse the statements of the Saginaw lumbermen. The manufacturers in this city believed their figures to be true, and simply desired to make a formal indorsement.

Ald. Dean criticised the statements of the Saginaw men. He did not believe it true that the Canadian lumbermen could be poorer paid than the American when they could secure the advanced wages by simply crossing an imaginary line. The speaker gave a list of prices previous to 1880, when the figure was $10 per 1,000 for common stuff. The stumpage tax should be $4.50 instead of $2.50 per acre, and still the Michigan dealer could make money. The Southern pine did not enter largely into the question. It was chiefly used for local purposes. It was sometimes sold in this market for special purposes. In the opinion of the speaker the removal of the duty would be of immense advantage in the development of the Northwest.

Mr. Garland inquired how it was that when lumber advanced here more than $2.50 the Canada lumber did not rush in to meet the demand at the increased price, which was more than the duty.

The witness replied that the Canadian lumbermen were not able to at once accommodate themselves to this rapid change. The duty acted as a bar upon them which kept them behind.

Mr. E. G. Van Shaick was the next witness. He sympathized with the position of the Saginaw lumbermen, and believed their figures correct. He believed that if the duty were taken off Canadian lumber Canada would at once impose an export duty. He had found that the demand was greater than the supply, and his firm had never reached the limit of distribution. The growing West consumed lumber faster than the forests could supply it. If Canada placed an export duty on logs the stumpage would be equal to that of Michigan. The consumer would gain nothing by the transfer of the lumber manufacture to Canada. At present the lumber interests employed 75,000 men, or about twelve men to each million feet. The agricultural people would then lose the support of these 75,000 men, who would at once become competitors in agricultural pursuits. It has been estimated that it costs $2 per thousand to feed the lumbermen, and that would be all lost to the country. If the tariff were taken off it would simply result in this country developing the howling wastes of Canada and BUILDING UP A FOREIGN COUNTRY.

Lumber in the tree is worth an average of about $4 per thousand, and all the rest goes for labor, machinery, and transportation. For every thousand feet of lumber cut 4,000 feet are burned by forest fires caused by the advance of civilization.

Mr. A. Soper, of this city, simply wished to indorse the statements made by Mr. Dean.

Mr. C. W. Hotchkiss, Secretary of the Lumbermen's Exchange of this city, was called, and proved to be well informed on all the facts, although from his position he declined to discuss the advantages or disadvantages of protection. There was, he said, a great deal of timber in West Virginia, but it was but a small proportion of that in the country, when compared with the lumber interests in Michigan, Wisconsin, and Canada, as nothing in West Virginia affected this supply one way or the other. The lumber from these Northern districts was chiefly the white, or light pine, which was remarkably well fitted for finishing work. It was free from resin or turpentine, and was much better fitted for painting. The census reports showed 232,000,000,000 feet of lumber in the South. They were now shipping here black walnut, maple, oak, ash, and other hard woods for special purposes. Of Southern pine the receipts here last year had been 10,000,000 feet. There was one yard for the exclusive sale of Southern pine lumber. It was valuable only when compared with the Norway pine, which sold at $1 per thousand less than white pine. In Chicago there was a market for 2,000,000,000 feet of pine lumber each year. The product of Michigan is about 5,000,000,000 feet yearly, and of Wisconsin and Minnesota about two-thirds that amount, making the total annual product from this district about 8,000,000,000 feet. The demand for white pine averages 300 feet for each inhabitant. Last year the consumption was 18,700,000,000 feet, and this year it will be over 20,000,000,000 feet. It is estimated that the demand from 1880 to 1890 will be 210,000,000,000 feet. The stock in sight in Michigan is 35,000,000,000, in Wisconsin 40,000,000,000, and in Minnesota 6,000,000,000, making a total of 81,000,000,000 feet. The stock will be exhausted in ten years, and these figures are based on eight-inch trees, instead of twelve inches as in former years. The best estimates for Canada place the entire supply at 50,000,000,000 feet, of which 25,000,000,000 feet are in Ontario. Today the lumbermen are taking even the hoop-poles out and leaving absolutely nothing for seed.

IN RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS

Mr. Hotchkiss said that when the pine forests are cut down they are succeeded only by a valueless undergrowth of blackberry and quite as valueless scrub-oaks. Whenever pine lands are thinned out the rest of the forest perishes. Like the Indian, the pine cannot stand civilization. The consumption of Southern timber in this market would be much greater were it not for the prohibitory tariff of the railroads. The Northern timber weighed only 2,200 pounds to the thousand, while the Southern pine weighed 3,500 pounds.

In reply to Chairman Hayes the witness said that the Southern cypress would make a good substitute for the white pine. The white wood or tulip tree is of excellent use, but it is chiefly and really more valuable for furniture, wagon bodies, etc. There is no shingle equal to that made from the cypress, but at present the pine shingles are cheap enough to drive it out of the market.

In reply to other questions the witness stated he was a lumberman in Canada in 1851, and bought lumber for $7 to $14. In 1860, during the period of reciprocity, he paid $14 to $38. This advance he did not attribute to any tariff question but to the development of the country.

Mr. Francis T. Sherman followed with a paper in behalf of the manufacturers of barbed-wire fencing. In the interest of the consumers and the country at large they asked for a reduction of the tariff on the steel bars from which the wire is drawn. The present jobbing price is eight cents per pound. The wire costs four and three-quarters cents per pound, and the cost for barbing is one to two cents, making the total cost about six cents. The material is all imported from England, Germany, and Belgium. This fencing is all made under patents, and the manufacturers paid a royalty of $15 per ton to the patentees. If the duty were reduced one-third the witness would guarantee a corresponding reduction to the consumer. The sharp competition would force it, provided the wire-mills made the reduction. If, as had been attempted, a duty of two and a half cents per pound is put on the steel rods, and they are classified as finished material, it would add $40 to $50 per ton to make barbed wire. There are now about forty-five mills in this country making this fencing, which is purely an American product. The patents run until 1891. The present duty on wire is two and a half cents and 20 per cent ad valorem. The witness would drop the ad valorem duty, which was simply an incentive to fraud, and believed one and a quarter cents per pound

WOULD BE AMPLE PROTECTION.

He believed this country was overprotected, and thought that "with a much more moderate tariff it would be thoroughly protected from the bugbear of pauper labor, and I will guarantee that the American manufacturers will never suffer at the low tariff I have named."

Mr. R. E. Sears, of Marshalltown, Ia., said that the manufacturers chiefly wished to be rid of the annoyance caused by the different rulings on steel rods. There was now so much uncertainty as to their place on the list that the manufacturers could not tell how much they would have to pay for wire, and hence could not afford to make any long contracts. The witness presented figures showing the use of this article, the consumption for last year being 60,000 tons, or 120,000,000 rods of fencing, displacing 960,000,000 feet of lumber. Barbed wire fences are now being constructed at the rate of 1,200 miles per day, thus solving the great question of fencing which has been agitating the farmers for so long. A reduction in the tariff on steel bars would be felt by every farmer in the country.

Mr. C. M. Fay submitted a paper against the abolition of the duty on corks and bungs. He did want, however, the duty placed at 25 cents per pound instead of the advalorem duty of 30 per cent, which at present led to serious difficulties owing to fraudulent undervaluation. Not over 20 per cent of the true duties was realized by the Government under the present system. The annual product in this branch of industry is now $2,000,000, and 1,000 men and women are employed, of whom half are skilled laborers. Not more than 10 per cent in bulk and 20 per cent in value of the corks used in this country are now imported. Twenty firms are engaged in the business. He believed that to reduce the tariff would reduce the price of the higher grades but raise the price of the lower grades. The American goods are better, but the manufacturers have to make up on the higher grades what they lose on the lower.

Mr. A. H. Reeves appeared in behalf of an increased duty on gold leaf. He simply made his appeal to benefit the employés and protect them from the competition. Nearly 40 per cent of the cost of gold leaf is in the labor. In England the wages are only 55 per cent and in Germany only 35 per cent of what they are here. The fineness and quality was fixed, and the whole question was one of labor. He wanted the duty increased from $1.50 to $2 per pack of 500 leaves.

Mr. George W. Murray made a poetical appeal "in behalf of the finer feelings of the country," with especial reference to art in flowers. He explained that bulbs of the crocus, hyacinth, and tulip could not be propagated in this country. Nevertheless, there was a duty of 30 per cent, which was an unnecessary tax on the consumers and benefited no one. French moss and bouquet papers were similarly protected, although neither of them were manufactured in this country at all.

The commission then adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

Afternoon Session.

At the afternoon session Mr. Porter read the following letter from Mr. O. W. Potter, President of the North Chicago Rolling-Mills:

GENTLEMEN: It was my expectation to have appeared before you this morning, not for the purpose of making any argument bearing upon the relations of the iron and steel industries of this city and State, or in relation to the numerous collateral industries that are affected by the prosperity or adversity attending these industries, but rather to explain to you why there would probably be no argument made before you relative to the industries above named during your stay in this city.

The appointment of the Tariff Commission being considered a matter of such moment by the manufacturers of iron and steel in this country, and by the producers of iron-ore and all other materials entering into the manufacture of iron and steel, there has been a convention called to meet at Cresson, Pa., on Tuesday, Sept. 12, at which convention representatives of all those different industries throughout this entire country are to be present for the purpose of considering carefully the relations of the tariff to these industries and any changes that may be made therein affecting them in any way.

After a full and careful consideration of this entire subject it is the intention to have appointed by that convention a committee who shall present the results of that convention to your honorable body in as concise and condensed a form as it is possible to present a subject of such magnitude, especial care being taken to avoid details that may tend to take up the limited time that has been allotted to you by Congress in which to make your report that is of so much moment to the people of this entire country.

As all of the interests of these individual industries in the different cities and States of this Union will be presented to you through that committee, it has been thought wisest and best that this whole subject be so presented to you in that manner rather than by the individuals in person at the different towns and cities at which your sessions may be held during the time allotted for the work. This explanation is made to you that you may feel that the representatives of these industries in the City of Chicago and State of Illinois fully appreciate the importance of having their interests properly presented to you, and that the representatives not appearing before you in person is calculated in no way whatever to ignore the value and importance that they place upon the report of your commission to the members of Congress.

Trusting this explanation may prove what the representatives of these industries of this city and State desire—namely: their full appreciation of the work you have in hand and their reasons for not appearing before you at this time.

MR. R. BLAKELY, OF ST. PAUL, made a short statement concerning the sirup and sugar interests of the Northwest. The industry was yet in its infancy, he said, and the country should foster it so that it would thrive. There were nearly 9,000 acres of cane sown this year in Minnesota, and the acreage would increase each year.

A letter was read from Mr. Marshall Field, in which he said he took pleasure in submitting his general views on the tariff question. He was for a liberal tariff, as he believed in encouraging home manufactures and home labor in every reasonable way. He thought the present tariff too high, not only for the good of the people, but for the good of the manufacturers. It should be reduced, and thoroughly revised and simplified. He said the present tariff was unreasonable and unscientific. Mr. Field made the following statement: "With a lower duty on articles of luxury, such as silks, kid gloves, velvets, ribbons, laces, fine shawls, and similar merchandise, not only would the Government receive a greater revenue, but the American manufacturer would receive a better protection, as it would largely tend to prevent undervaluation and smuggling, and place the import business, in this class of goods, where it has never been, on an honest basis. Today it is almost entirely in the hands of Frenchmen and Germans, mostly aliens and agents of foreign principals and men who have no interest whatever in this country save to make their fortunes and return to Europe. An American merchant cannot go to the foreign markets and buy these goods for importation at the ruling foreign prices except at a ruinous loss. They are delivered in the United States to the agents mentioned only in prices in American money, which is done to avoid establishing a foreign market value. This is a business very hard to detect. The temptation to undervaluation is, of course, the enormous duty, which insures a correspondingly large gain.

"There should also be a large reduction in the duty on all raw materials. Raw wool should not be taxed more than 15 per cent. This would make 35 to 40 per cent a reasonable tax on manufactured woolen goods, such as carpets; a duty of 25 per cent on all manufactures of cotton and linen; 35 to 40 per cent on any manufactures of wool should be sufficient; silks, velvets, ribbons, and laces manufactured from pure silk should pay about 35 per cent; on piece silks and satins, a specific duty by the pound weight, that would yield an average rate of 35 to 40 per cent, should suffice; a specific duty by the dozen pairs on kid gloves should be in the neighborhood of $3 per dozen, which would amply manufactured in this country, but would be reasonable on finer grades, which are not made here at all.

"The duty should be entirely abolished on all packing charges, shipping charges, brokerages, and commissions. In other words, the dutiable value should be the wholesale price of the goods at the actual market in which they are purchased; the abolition of all fees in connection with the payment of duties, and the privilege of making a general warehouse bond instead of an individual bond, on every consignment that is warehoused, would also be a beneficial reform. All mixed duties should be abolished, and the rate on articles should be specific or ad valorem. The present classification of silks, cottons, and wools is remarkably involved and should be simplified. In conclusion, it seems that the day is not far distant when all raw materials should be absolutely free, and that still further reductions on manufactured goods than those indicated should be made. The tariff restricts American manufacturers almost entirely to the home market. With our cheap lands and cheap foods a steadily decreasing tariff would enable us to compete successfully with England for the trade of other countries, where now she has practically supreme control, and where she will have so long as our present tariff laws are maintained."

Mr. Field appeared personally before the commission, and in answer to questions substantially reiterated the views expressed in his letter. He was asked by a member of the commission if he would enumerate a list of the articles on which the tax should be reduced or simplified for the benefit of the commission, but Mr. Field said his business interests were so large that he could not afford the time. He said, however, that he would give the commission all the information possible if he had the time at his disposal.

Mr. J. Tyrrell appeared before the commission on behalf of the importers of earthenware, asking a reduction in the duty on that article. They recommended a uniform duty ad valorem on all earthenware, china, and porcelain, which will increase the importance of the better grades of goods not produced in this country. Notwithstanding the American industry has been protected for a century, it has made no substantial advance. A uniform duty ad valorem of 30 per cent on all earthenware ought to be levied on the cost of bare the goods. This duty would protect the grades of goods which can be produced in the United States at least 65 per cent.

Mr. S. Corning Judd, from a committee appointed by the Iroquois Club, presented a long statement of facts and figures in favor of a repeal of all protective duties and a tariff for revenue only.

Col. Hitt, Deputy Collector, who had been invited to address the commission, said there was but little to complain of in the way of conducting the business. He thought it would be a wise thing to abolish the withdrawal charges, because they complicate matters considerably. He hoped Congress would still further liberalize the Immediate Transportation act. The act was of great benefit to this city.

Mr. O. A. Bishop, the Socialist agitator, appeared in behalf of the workingmen with a long argument in favor of unlimited free trade, the abolition of monopolies, and various other reforms which the wage-workers demand.

Col. J. K. C. Forrest addressed the commission briefly, saying that the tariff should be on a sliding scale to keep pace with the value of money, as no comparison could be made between former years and the present time. The same thing might result again.

At the conclusion of Col. Forrest's remarks the commission went into executive session, after which they adjourned to meet at 12 noon tomorrow at the Plankinton House, Milwaukee.

That Complaining Letter.

It having been charged in dispatches from New York that Mr. Robert Porter, the Secretary of the commission, was the writer of the letter purporting to have been written from Cincinnati to a gentleman in this city complaining of a lack of interest on the part of the manufacturers in the sessions of the commission, a reporter had a brief talk with him yesterday, and the following interview took place:

"The publication of a letter unsigned to an unknown person," said Mr. Porter, "and which could only have been published by a breach of confidence on the part of the receiver, or deliberate treachery on the part of a private and confidential Secretary, is of such little importance to the public that I must beg to decline to make any comment in regard to it. The letter and its publication must speak for itself to the public, as well as the value to be attached to it."

"Are the comments which its publication has drawn forth as to the want of interest manifested in the work of the commission correct?"

"So far as the commission is concerned, there has been in some places a lack of interest on the part of those whom it would be supposed would be most interested. By this I don't wish to be understood as referring especially to manufacturers, but to those representing the agricultural interests and what may be called the consumer. It must be borne in mind that we have just completed a circuit through the vast and that the lack of interest, so far as the coming before the commission is concerned, has been shared by both consumer and manufacturer; still, it must be remembered that, so far as the manufacturer is concerned, many of the great industries are preparing at great length and much deliberation arguments and facts for the commission. But they should be careful about further delay, as their arguments might come too late to admit of that careful examination which the commission hopes to give all matters brought before it."

"Has the lack of interest extended to all places visited?"

"I am glad to say that in Chicago the interest taken in the commission has been more than that in other cities so far. The information presented has been of the most valuable character."

"Has the commission derived much information from it?"

"The visit yesterday to South Chicago Rolling-Mills and Pullman was of more value in showing what our National policy of political economy has done, as well as illustrating the of the West, than several days' testimony, and the testimony here has been by no means one-sided. Both manufacturer and consumer have been represented, and I feel that a great interest has been awakened in the work."

"How long do you remain here?"

"We leave for Milwaukee this evening, thence on to St. Paul and Minneapolis; then on to St. Louis. From there the commission will probably go through the great agricultural regions of the South, and enable all those in that section of the country to come before it and present their views on the matter under consideration."

"Has the commission been very busy since it commenced its work?"

"The trip has been a rapid one and a hard working one for the members. We have traveled all night and held sessions in the day. At times, of course, when few persons seemed interested in the work—when the manufacturer seemed to be contented with the incongruities of the tariff, and the voice of the consumer, which rings so loudly at times in the halls of Congress, was hushed—we have felt discouraged. But the reception in Chicago has dispelled these feelings. A real, genuine interest has been manifested on all sides, and has done much towards allaying the despondent feeling which necessarily arose on our visit to some other places."

Mr. Kaltenbach and the Flax Interest.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—In your issue of this morning, under the heading "The Tariff Question," you accuse a Mr. H. Kaltenbach of having inflicted on the Tariff Commission, in its yesterday's sitting, a dreary paper in regard to the flax interest. As there are several citizens of that name in Chicago, and not desiring that an innocent person should suffer, I shall thank you kindly to state that I am the guilty party in this matter.

I wish also to say that I am not visiting this country merely, as you state, but that for the last nine months I have been a resident of Chicago, and intend continuing to reside here; further, that more than a year ago I took out my first papers, intending to become an American citizen.

My connection with the flax and linen trade during a period of thirty years in the principal flax-producing countries of Europe, my consequent thorough knowledge of the question, and my numerous contributions on flax-culture to the agricultural papers of this country, justify and excuse to a certain extent my presumption in appearing, although still a foreigner, before the Tariff Commission, and not thinking that my nationality would expose me in this free country to adverse criticism, I ventured, like other foreigners, to appear before that forum. I remain yours respectfully,

H. KOELKENBECK.

ART IN CHICAGO.

The growth of interest in art in Chicago has been very rapid in the past few years. As an instance we cite the success of Thurber in his efforts to secure the patronage of the people who appreciate high art. His rooms at 210 Wabash avenue are always filled by the art-lovers. His latest importation is that of some very fine productions in oil by a renowned French artist. They are worthy of study, and have created quite a sensation among the critics.

A GOOD PLACE FOR THE BOYS

is the Metropolitan Business College, opposite McVicker's Theatre. Strict discipline and systematic work are maintained in every department under able and experienced teachers. The rooms are pleasant and the course of instruction is thorough. Sessions day and evening. Now is a good time to enter.

HOME AGAIN.

After several weeks of vigorous search through the principal cities of the East for the newest and the best, Fred W. Croft, the tailor, returns with what he is pleased to announce the best-selected stock of cloths for fall and winter suits to be found in the city. Parlors, 157 Clark street.

MARINE NEWS.

A Fair Demand Yesterday for Vessel-Room, but Carriers Scarce.

Rates Strong at 2 3-4 Cents on Corn and 3 Cents on Wheat to Buffalo.

Dock and Other Notes—Vessels Passed Port Huron—Vessel Charters—Around the Lakes—Port List.

Lake Freights.

There was a very fair demand yesterday from grain-shippers for vessel-room, but vessels were scarce. Rates were very firm, and 2¾ cents a bushel on corn and 3 cents on wheat were paid by shippers wanting room for Buffalo. In this connection it is but fair to say that most of the engagements at the above rates were for lots of from 8,000 to 20,000 bushels, and would not have been paid by shippers for cargoes of 50,000 bushels or more. Receipts of grain by rail are not what was anticipated some two weeks ago, and has much to do with keeping rates down. The additions to the tonnage here for the past three days has been about equal to that taken by shippers; the additions, however, being mostly sail vessels, while the tonnage chartered has been principally steam. This has caused shippers to hold back somewhat, knowing as they do that the majority of owners of sail vessels cannot, or will not, allow their vessels to remain in idleness any longer than possible, whatever carrying rates may be. There is, however, a very confident feeling among the generality of vessel-owners and agents that carrying rates are on the edge of an upward "boom," and that is only a question of a very few days when the necessities of shippers will compel them to concede to carriers rates that will pay the latter a fair profit on their ingestments. This feeling is not shared in by all vesselmen, the more conservative of whom think that 3@3¼ cents a bushel on corn to Buffalo will be the maximum freight rate this season. They argue that the big line steamers must have down freight, and, rather than leave port light, they will take grain at anything from 2 cents a bushel upward, and that shippers will give them the preference because they will make the trip in much shorter time than sail vessels. And there is a great deal of sound logic in their reasoning. As one owner expressed it: "The days of sail-vessels are nearly over so far as carrying grain is concerned. What shippers want nowadays is quick dispatch. That is what the transportation lines furnish, and because of that they secure the bulk of the grain-carrying business." This, too, is in a great measure true, however unpalatable it may be to those who own sailing vessels. Yesterday's engagements embraced the following vessels:

	Bushels.
For Buffalo.
Propeller Colorado, wheat	48,000
Propeller Boston, corn	82,000
Propeller Idaho, corn	25,000
Propeller Vanderbilt, wheat	32,000
For Erie.
Propeller Gordon Campbell, flaxseed	32,000
Propeller Gordon Campbell, oats	20,000
For Kingston.
Schooner Sligo, wheat	22,000
For Midland.
Steam-barge Nevada, corn	29,000
Total capacity	290,000

Dock and Other Notes.

But few vessels were left on the lumber market last evening.

The fine passenger propeller St. Paul left for Collingwood last evening.

The iron-ore receipts at this port yesterday by lake were 5,325 tons, all from Escanaba.

The steam-barge S. C. Hall is in Miller Brothers' dry-dock for repairs to her stern-bearings.

The passenger steamer Idaho, of the Western Transportation Line, leaves for Buffalo Tuesday evening.

The schooner Pilgrim went into the Vessel-Owners' dry-dock yesterday evening to have a leak stopped.

The steam-barge Maine is in one of the docks of the Chicago Dry-Dock Company to have her wheel tightened, her stern-bearings repaired, and to be recalked.

The receipts of coal from Buffalo by lake the past week footed up 11,760 tons, against 26,686 tons the week before. The receipts yesterday by lake from all points were 5,110 tons of hard and 3,000 tons of soft coal.

Capt. James Grant, master of the schooner Sunrise, yesterday filed his wreck report at the Custom-House. He places the damage to the schooner from going on the Whale's Back Reef, Green Bay, July 1, at $8,000.

The steamship Queen of the West, Capt. Charlie McMillan, sailed for Buffalo last evening with a cargo of grain. If Mac keeps up his gait he will score the boss number of round trips this season, and that, too, without accident.

The fine steam-barge Nevada, Capt. A. S. Fairbanks, is loading grain for Midland. Capt. Fairbanks has a great curiosity on board his steamer. It is a black bear, which he has trained as a lookout in foggy weather. He ties the whistle-cord to the bear's tail, and whenever bruin sights a vessel he climbs the foremast and pulls the whistle-ropes. The Captain says the bear answers the place of a fourth mate.

Capt. Dan Swinburne, of the schooner Selt, has purchased an interest in the fine lumber schooner E. P. Royce. Capt. William Smith, late of the schooner H. D. Moore, will take command of the Royce upon her arrival at this port. Under Capt. Smith's management the Royce will undoubtedly retain her reputation as a fast sailer and money-making vessel. The Royce is now engaged in the Muskegon lumber trade, having a very good paying contract, considering the hard times.

Last evening at 5:30 o'clock people along the docks were completely deafened by the loud and long-continued whistling of one of the largest, if not the largest, iron race-horse tugs (aided by a couple of propellers) in the river. It seems that the tug and her tow were just in time to get caught north of the Lake street bridge by the 5:30 bridge ordinance, and the Captain gave vent to his anger by blowing his whole battery of whistles for an unnecessary length of time, much to the annoyance of everybody along the docks for blocks, and to the intense satisfaction of the bridgetenders, who were serene in the knowledge that all the whistling the tug and propeller could do would not compel them to turn the bridge. It is the first open exhibition of temper on the part of a tugman at being "red-balled" at 5:30 p. m. for a long time, and it is to be hoped it will be the last. Fortunately for the tug Captain, Officer Florence Donahue was not around, or his little amusement might have cost him something.

THE COUNTY BOARD.

An adjourned meeting of the County Board was held yesterday afternoon, all of the members present except Commissioner Hutt.

Mr. Albright named Dr. E. W. Whitney as the member of the new Medical Board of the County Hospital, which he was empowered to do, and he was elected without opposition.

A communication was read from the Secretary of the State Agricultural Fair asking the board to appoint three persons to represent the county at the State Fair, to be held at Peoria on the 27th. Messrs. Ender, Senne, and Albright were appointed.

The Committee on Public Charities reported on bills to the amount $5,266; the Committee on Hospitals, $877; and the Committee on Jails, $4,772. The reports were all approved.

Mr. O'Neill called attention to the removal of Mr. Burke as plumber at the new Court-House by Mr. Albright.

Mr. Albright replied that he had removed Burke because there was no longer any use for him, and, furthermore, because he was devoting his time to the neighboring saloons rather than his business.

Mr. O'Neill retorted in language more severe than elegant, in which he charged Mr. Albright with being an old granny and spy, and in which he went on to intimate that some one was buying up the "orders" of some of the employés they were following and persecuting.

Mr. Albright came to the front again and charged Burke with being a loafer, which Mr. O'Neill had admitted, he said, and went on to contend that to get rid of him would be for the BENEFIT OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

He thought the Commissioner was holding on to him for political purposes; but, for one, he would not stand such a thing, for he wanted nothing to do with bummers, but relied upon the business public for his backing.

Mr. Purington said he was confused, and expressed the desire that the combatants should speak out and call names.

Mr. O'Neill replied, defending Burke, and saying that he was not the kind of a man to find $72.03 in his pocket at the end of a campaign which he could not account for.

Mr. Purington again suggested that he wanted names called.

Mr. O'Neill responded that the money referred to was campaign funds, which Mr. Albright had found in his pockets, and went on to intimate that the gentleman did not know the meaning of the word "honesty."

Mr. Donnersberger, tiring of the dispute, moved that Mr. Burke be retained pending an investigation into the charges of the Committee on Public Service.

Mr. Purington thought the two carpenters employed in the building should also be looked after, and after some further discussion it was agreed that both the plumber and carpenters be retained until their usefulness could be passed upon by the committee named.

The board then adjourned to meet at the poor-house tomorrow at 12 o'clock, when the corner-stone of the new infirmary will be laid.

MAGNETON APPLIANCES.

THE "MAGNETON,"

A Marvelous Invention for Healing the Sick and for Conquering Pain.

A New Broadway in the Realm of Demonstrated Science—Magnetism and Electricity Converted into Powerful Agents for Curing Disease—The King of the Air and the Lightning from the Clouds Joined Together for the Good of Man.

A Revelation for the Sick—Nature's Laws Brought into Harmony with the Human Body—Electric and Magnetic Currents Utilized as Never Before for the Relief of Pain—One of the Grandest Inventions of the Age—Science Ever Keeping Up with the Wants of the Human Race—No Fiction or Fantasy, but Truth Coming to the Front.

Great Developments must follow Wherever Intellect Concentrates the whole Powers of the Working Brain—The "MAGNETON" Appliances Equal to the Wants of the Age in Which we Live—A Scientific Method of Curing the Sick through the Agency of Magnetism and Electricity—The Greatest Known Powers Concentrated and HELD Subservient to the Will of Man.

How to get well when sick, and how to keep well when once in health, are questions of vital importance. Millions of dollars have been expended to educate men in the divine art of healing, while millions of people are today dragging out a miserable existence, in consequence of sickness and disease, caused by the violations of Nature's laws. Why are these suffering people dragging out lives of misery and pain? Nature and applied science offers a certain remedy. Nature, as a mistress, is gentle and holy; to obey her laws is to live. Magnetism, her prime minister, has entered the field to combat disease and cure the sick. Magnetism, when skillfully and scientifically applied, will meet and overthrow the enemy, disease, at the very portals of despondency, when all medications have failed, and a long-suffering humanity can now receive the gentle ministrations of this mighty power—magnetism. It is a demonstrated fact that electricity and magnetism are two of the most potent agents for curing diseases ever discovered by man. These subtle electric forces are combined and fully utilized by the "Magneton," and Nature's laws are complied with in the construction of what is known as the "Magneton" appliances. To the suffering public we will say this is no dreamy hallucination or phantasmagoria of some fertile brain; but a fact, well proven and testified to by some of the most learned scientists of Europe and America. We challenge a refutation of the facts we publish. A full, careful investigation solicited. For details and full particulars as to the cures the "Magneton" appliances have wrought, both in this country and England, call or address the Magneton Appliance Company, 218 State street, Chicago.

The Magneton! A new pathway in medical therapeutics! One of the greatest discoveries of the nineteenth century! Marvelous wonder of the age! Electricity and magnetism utilized as never before for the healing of the sick.

No curable disease can hold out against the influence of the Magneton. It relieves pain, heals the sick, and cures disease like magic. Scientists and physicians indorse and recommend its use in both acute and chronic cases. It is the greatest known remedy for nine-tenths of all prevailing diseases, and, what is better, a sure protection against them. If you are sick, or sensitive to disturbing influences, wear the Magneton and be well. It will positively neutralize the effects of blood poison, cleanse the system of nearly all impurities, and protect it against all disturbing influences. Try it and be convinced.

MAGNETISM.

The principle of magnetism is not new, but as a science it has been applied for the curing of disease for many years. Our full set of magnetic appliances comprise several hundred permanently charged magnets, each one of which is capable of exerting its influence upon the human organism separately, or in union with the whole chain, when worn in our complete suit or outfit. The reader can judge of the healing influence and soothing magnetic power exerted by several hundred magnets in contact with the body, with a constant radiation sufficient to deflect the needle of a compass at a distance of several feet, and penetrating enough to pass through solid wood or glass.

It is often surprising to witness the effect upon the wearer of these appliances for the first time. The invalid or sick person finds no language to express the delightful sensation produced by these magnetic garments. Some say they feel a warming influence at once, while others declare the sensation is of a cool, pleasant flow, like a soft induced current of electricity; while all affirm that they experience a delightful sensation of relief from whatever ache or pain they may have suffered. The reader will please bear in mind that these magnetic appliances will last for years without losing their polarity, and may be worn by different members of a family with equal benefit.

Reasons for Adopting Magnetic Treatment by the Agency of the "Magneton."

1. The blood being highly magnetic when in a healthy condition, disease can only attack the system when the blood is deprived of its magnetic element, therefore it is necessary to keep up a continual supply of the magnetic current and this is accomplished by the application of the Magneton Curative appliance.

2. The majority of local symptoms and weaknesses proceed from debility of the constitution. Whatever part of the body be affected, producing local weakness as a symptom, a power and vitality must be infused constitutionally before signs of local improvements can appear.

3. The vital invigoration of the constitution is speedily affected by the natural stimulus of magnetism, which promotes the circulation, improves organic action, and strengthens the entire system. This penetrating influence permeates every nerve, fibre, and tissue of the body.

4. The vital power being improved by the Magneton appliances, a patient is less liable to a return of the weakness, or to be influenced by atmospheric changes.

5. The appliances are made and conveniently Incased to wear on different parts of the human body, according to the nature and position of the attack.

6. The Magneton appliances retain their curative powers for upwards of eighteen months, and can be recharged with the Magnetic current, upon application, without further outlay.

7. The fact that the first outlay is not recurrent places the magnetic treatment far before ordinary medical aid in point of economy.

8. It is not necessary to continue wearing the appliances after the patient experiences relief, a relapse being a most unheard of occurrence.

9. It is a fact that no single instance of harm resulting from the use of these appliances has ever occurred, the system regulating its own supply harmoniously.

10. Disease is another name for a discord in the physical economy of man, the harmony attending health is disturbed, and to restore it is to equalize the natural forces of the body. This is effectually produced by magnetism judiciously applied, a natural power is exerted, and in consequence the disease is controlled, and its au se gradually eradicated.

11. Electricity, applied scientifically, holds a most important position, and is daily revealing its too long hidden power and usefulness; the electric telegraph and, only lately, the electric light and the telephone must convince all that a great future is yet to be derived for the benefits of mankind from this most potent and simple force.

CUT ILLUSTRATING MANNER OF WEARING THE MAGNETIC APPLIANCES.

The Magneton Appliance Company, 218 State street, Chicago, Ill., are the sole manufacturers and proprietors of these goods in the United States.

The articles furnished by them for general use are ladies' and gentlemen's (Magneton) jackets, abdominal belts (for both), spine bands, lung-invigorators, throat-protectors, nerve-invigorators, shoulder appliances, arm and leg appliances, head bands, insoles, anklets, wristlets, knee-caps, friction gloves, etc. Our appliances must not be confounded with any so-called galvanic and medicated belts and pads, as they involve a new and scientific application of an entirely different principle. They are the only garments and appliances which afford sure protection against the disturbing influences of climatic and atmospheric changes, and consequently as a means for the recovery and preservation of health, have no equal.

As a hygienic garment, pleasant and comfortable to wear, a sure protector and conserver of health and vitality against the rigors of our changeable climate, and fluctuations of atmospheric force, they must become a popular necessity as fast as they become known; and besides the garments, the special appliances for local use when needed, fill a place and necessity for which there is indeed no substitute.

Directions for Measurement to Be Sent when Ordering the Magneton Appliances by Mail or Express.

In Sending Measure for Jacket, Ladies or Gents, it is Well to Measure Over the Under Garments Only.

For Lady—Measure around waist, bust, the back, from nape of neck to end of spine, from under the arm to hip; and from the hollow of the neck down over the abdomen as low as can be comfortably worn. Use tape measure and be exact. This will enable us to send a perfect-fitting garment.

For Gentlemen—Send number of inches around chest and waist; length of spine; from hollow of neck to the lower portion of the abdomen, and from the arm pit to hip.

For Lady's Belt—Take tight measure over dress around the bottom of the waist.

For Gent's—Take tight measure over pants around waist.

For Lung Invigorator—Mention whether for lady or gent; if stout or slender.

For Head Appliance—Give size of head.

For Throat Appliance—Give size of neck.

Shoulder Appliance—Size of arm just below shoulder and above the elbow.

Wristlet—Size of wrist, and arm five inches above.

Sciatic or Hip Appliance—Measure thigh next to body, and four inches above the knee; mention whether for right or left side.

Knee-Cap—Give size around knee-joint.

Legging—Measure four inches below knee, and around the ankle; giving length between.

In ordering insoles give number of shoe worn. Some persons finding their shoes too small to admit the insoles, wear them nights with thin stockings. This insures refreshing sleep; but shoes should not be worn so tight as to impede the circulation, or prevent the wearing of insoles.

We consider the Magnetic (cork) Insoles one of the most important appliance we make, and necessary to be worn in connection with either or all the other appliances. This course insures perfect results.

In sending for Appliances by mail or express write name and address, County and State plainly, so as to avoid mistakes. Be careful to send exact measure according to directions. Money may be sent by draft, money-order, registered letter, express, currency or postage stamps in letter at our risk. Address Magneton Appliance Company, No. 218 State street, Chicago, Ill.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS.

Nervous Prostration from Excessive Brain Work.

95 DEARBORN STREET, CHICAGO, Ill., June 22, 1881.—Magnetic Appliance Company, City—Gentlemen: From my own delightful experience and the experience of my wife, I most cordially commend the Magneton Appliances to public attention, as entitled to the fullest confidence.

They are of inestimable value to all persons suffering from nervous prostration and the many ills which follow. I have worn the belt, lung invigorator, insoles, sleeping-cap, and am now wearing the jacket with marked results. Suffer no inconvenience from the wearing in the hottest weather, while I experience a soothing, invigorating influence which can only be appreciated by one who has suffered the terrible consequences of exhausted vital force. No one suffering from rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion, constipation, wakefulness, loss of appetite, constant headache, or general debility should go without the appliances for an hour longer than possible to obtain them. I speak from actual experience and voluntarily.

My wife has not been so strong and well for a long time as since wearing the Belt, hence we hail the introduction of your Appliances as indeed a happy event.

Very truly yours, D. B. DEWEY.

CONSUMPTION.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 13, 1881.—To the Magneton Appliance Co., 218 State Street—GENTLEMEN: On the 9th day of November last I was suddenly taken sick with a severe pain in my right lung, and also in my right side below the ribs. The pain was so severe that I was unable to stand or walk erect. From that time until I began using the Magneton Appliances I was unable to sleep, eat, or work; was bedfast most of the time, and became very much emaciated. From my symptoms, and the fact that I have inherited a tendency to pulmonary disease, I could foresee but one possible result—"consumption." On the 17th of November my wife persuaded me to go with her to your office, she having seen your advertisement, and get some of the Magneton Appliances. I had no faith in the treatment. But as a last hope I went, mainly to please her. I purchased a jacket and insoles. You told me to wear the jacket three nights, and constantly during the day. The first night I wore the jacket I experienced a great relief from pain, and slept most of the night. By the 21st of November I was able to go to work again, and my recovery has been very rapid. The night-sweats have ceased, my appetite is good, the pain is all gone, and the only indication I have of my past trouble is a slight pressure in the right lung, and some shortness of breath if I exert myself violently. This trouble is, however, growing less daily, and I consider myself well.

My recovery is wholly owing to the use of Magneton Appliances, and I shall continue to wear them as a preventive.

Shall be pleased to answer any inquiries by mail or in person as to further particulars of my disease and recovery.

Very truly yours, WILBUR N. C. HAYES,
Stenographer, with Aiken, Underwood & Co., 130 La Salle-st.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM.

101 EAST HARRISON STREET, CHICAGO, Oct. 30, 1879.—I have received so much benefit from the use of your magnetic belt that I feel it my duty to the suffering, if not the proprietors of the Magneton, to say a word in its favor. For many years I have suffered from chronic inflammation of the bowels, stomach, spleen, and appendages of the heart, including palpitation—all the result, I think, of a long and severe spell of chronic diarrhea, some twenty-five years since. Some six weeks ago I was induced to try one of your largest and strongest belts, and I am free to say that I was not only pleased, but astonished at the sudden and wonderful effect. I had not worn it over three days before I felt a decided benefit, and in less than ten days I was more free from pain and internal troubles than I had been for ten years. Of all the pad and belt appliances for the relief of pain and chronic complaints, I have no doubt but the Magnetic or Magneton is superior to all others.

J. H. JORDAN, M. D.

RHEUMATISM.

RACINE, Wis., Oct. 6, 1881.—GENTLEMEN: Last winter I was so crippled with rheumatism that I was unable to stand straight, and in going upstairs was obliged to creep on my hands and knees. For weeks I could not stand up, and it was impossible for me to turn over when lying in bed. I was recommended to try one of your "Belts" and "Knee-Caps." Did so, and after wearing them one week in January felt a decided change for the better, and from that time steadily improved, until the rheumatism left me entirely. I have had no return of it, and although I am over 64 years of age, am now able to dance around like any young man. Should be glad to give particulars to any who may wish to know further of my case. Yours truly,

A. KRAUPA, Hardware Merchant.

Do not hesitate to order any of our Appliances that you desire (sent by express C. O. D. and return charges), with privilege of examination, and if not found as represented return them at our expense.

From a Prominent Physician.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 10, 1881.

The Magneton Appliance Co., 218 State street, Chicago.

Gentlemen: You have noted here my personal experience in the use of the Magnetic Insoles, to be applied to such use as you see fit.

For some twenty years I had rarely been able to get over three or four hours' sleep of a night, and was obliged to give up surgical and medical practice mostly, on this account, at 64 years of age, and at 68 entirely. Am now in my 71st year. Two years of entire rest brought me up to four or five hours' sleep at the best. Three weeks since I began using the Magnetic Insoles, mostly by night. I now get six to seven hours of sounder, more refreshing sleep than for twenty years before, with much less nervousness, irritability, and headache. I can attribute this result to no other cause than the use of the Magnetic Insoles. Yours truly,

S. H. WHITTLESEY, M. D.,
350 West Adams street.

If a pair of Magnetic Insoles will produce such results, what may be expected from a full set of Appliances? There need not be a single case of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, or Paralysis in Chicago. The "Magneton" Appliances have restored and cured over 1,000 persons who were wholly or partly paralyzed.

We can restore to perfect health those who are helpless in nine-tenths of the cases which come to us. There is no remedy on earth equal to Magnetic Appliances for weak nerves.

It is a demonstrated fact that Electricity and Magnetism are two of the most potent agents for curing disease ever discovered by man. These subtle electric forces are combined and fully utilized by the "Magneton," and Nature's laws are complied with in the construction of what is known as the "Magneton" Appliances. To the suffering public we will say this is no dreamy hallucination, or phantasmagoria of some fertile brain, but a fact well-proven and certified to by some of the most learned scientists of Europe and America. A Father's Testimony.

OFFICE OF THE CHICAGO Times, CHICAGO, Jan. 24, 1881.—SIR: Speaking of the Magnetic Appliances which I purchased of you some time since for my two little girls, I am free to say that in each case they have been most successful. The first Appliance I had was a Nerve Invigorator, which has wholly allayed the symptoms of heart trouble produced by a rheumatic affection, of which she complained much.

The second was also a Nerve Invigorator, which has proved equally beneficial in a case of constitutional weakness and want of tone. My little girl has not complained of cold feet since wearing the insoles. My belief is that the treatment has been more perfect and effective than mere ordinary medical treatment.

J. F. PATTERSON.

103 STATE STREET, CHICAGO, Feb. 16, 1881.—DEAR SIR: I am much pleased with the effects produced by the "Magneton" appliances prescribed for several of my patients, as well as by those I am wearing. It seems to me they prove themselves of great value in many chronic troubles, especially those arising from impaired and weakened nerve-force, and are constructed on scientific principles.

MRS. E. G. COOK, M. D.

Send one dollar in postage stamps or currency (in letter at our risk) with size of shoe usually worn, and try pair of our very thin Magnetic (cork) Insoles, and be convinced of the power residing in our other Magnetic Appliances.

SCIATICA.

109 WRIGHT STREET, CHICAGO, Nov. 26, 1881.—Dear Sir—For years I have suffered from Sciatica, which left me quite lame, especially on rising in the morning. The pains used to come on in spells, and for a time I would be almost useless. It is now six months since wearing the "Magneton Belt," and I am now out of pain and my lameness is almost gone. I can rise now without that dreadful stiffness and pain in the back.

I do not know how I should have been able to be out in all weathers and in this wet season had it not been for the belt.

BROWN, Expressman.

CHRONIC LUMBAGO.

89 SOUTH HALSTED STREET, CHICAGO, Jan. 5, 1882.—SIR: I am pleased to announce that my back was cured in a few hours, although I had tried many things without success. At the time I got the "Belt" I was suffering horribly, getting little or no sleep. However, in less than an hour I was relieved and cured in less than a day. The pain has not returned. I consider it a wonderful cure, as I had been suffering for months, and had given up all hope. It was occasioned by a blow some years ago, and in which lumbago had settled.

J. TURNEY.

Send $6 in draft or currency in letter at our risk, for narrow Belt and Insoles. No lame back, costiveness or nervousness when they are worn.

The Magneton Responds Instantly.

532½ WABASH-AV., CHICAGO, Feb. 20, 1881—GENTLEMEN: Seven months before calling on you I fell from a step-ladder, injuring the sciatic nerve. Rheumatism immediately set in, and I suffered intense pain, especially nights, being obliged to get up every night sometimes five or six times to rub the limb.

I was able to walk with great difficulty by the help of a cane. The cords of the limb were much contracted, and I experienced peculiarly disagreeable sensations in the heel.

Send $3 in postage-stamps or currency in letter, at our risk, for a Head Cap and a pair of Insoles. No Nervous Headache or Sleeplessness when they are worn.

I had become very much reduced in flesh, and the prospect of waiting two years to get well, as my own and other physicians said I must, was very discouraging when my attention was called to your Magneton Appliances. After a thorough examination of my case you recommended Belt, local Appliance for the injured part, and insoles.

I put the soles into my shoes at your office and, after sitting half an hour, experienced such a sense of comfort that I concluded to walk home (a distance of six blocks). To my surprise I felt no fatigue from the effort, as previously walking a short distance had greatly exhausted me. You told me to wear the Appliances days only, but as it was then nearly night I thought for once I would try the effect of sleeping in the Belt. Did so, and enjoyed the first perfect night's sleep in seven months. Since then I have slept soundly every night.

I have had no pain since I put on the Appliances. My general health is so much improved that my friends recognize my changed appearance and say: "What have you been doing?"

I no longer use a cane, and not only has the rheumatism disappeared, but also an annoying cutaneous disease which had long troubled me.

For the good of humanity I want every one to know of the Appliance.

You are at liberty to use my name or refer to me. It is now three months since I came to you. Respectfully, MRS. M. J. WILSON.

Send $5 in stamps or currency in letter, at our risk, for Knee-cap and Insoles. Send size of knee and shoe. No Rheumatic pain there when they are worn.

GENERAL DEBILITY.

DAVENPORT, Ia.—SIR: The "Magneton" Belt I purchased of you for my wife has proved a great success in a case of Nervous Debility and Neuralgia of the Stomach. It seems to have built her up, and to have permanently benefited her. She has discontinued wearing it constantly, but puts it on when she feels indisposed; it never fails to reinstate her health.

LUTHER M. TRACY.

Send $10.00 in draft, currency, in letter at our risk, for gent's "or lady's" Belt and pair of Insoles. Send size of waist and number of shoe. No lame back, or kidney ache, or nervousness when they are worn.

Try a pair of our superior Magnetic Insoles. No cold feet or chilblains where these are worn.

The above testimonial is but one of a thousand (that we are receiving daily) as to the wonderful results derived from wearing the "Magneton."

Gentlemen's High-Cut Combination Jacket. Price $20.

THE VEST OR JACKET.

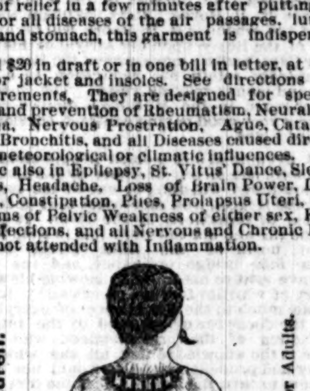
In selecting the most complete appliance and protector from the changes and inclemency of our climate, it is well to bear in mind the fact that full and complete insulation, full and complete protection is best secured by the jacket, which covers all the great vital centres, including the entire length of the spinal column. So necessary is this in all organic difficulties we cannot restrain the impulse which prompts us to urge upon the invalid the best and most complete protection it is possible to give with these appliances.

It has been our aim, in making this vest, to conserve all the active magnetic forces in the organism, while at the same time greatly reinforcing the natural product of this life-giving energy. With the Vest any lady or gentleman can bid defiance to nearly all zymotic and contagious diseases so fatal to the youth of our country. Nor is this all—for with these Appliances as a protection the cold and exposure so unavoidable in our climate may be so modified as to have but little effect upon those who are thus protected.

The Vest constantly charges and magnetizes the iron in the blood, causing this fluid to become a magnet in every sense of the word.

The power of the system to react against disease, when the blood is properly polarized and magnetized is truly wonderful. We accomplish greater benefit with the Vest than with all other garments combined, for the reason that this exquisite garment covers the entire trunk of the body; reaching at once, as it does, with its soothing, vitalizing, magnetic force and power all the great nerve centres and blood-vessels. The warmth and genial glow which this garment affords is so great the wearer often expresses a sense of relief in a few minutes after putting it on. For all diseases of the air passages, lungs, liver, and stomach, this garment is indispensable.

Send $20 in draft or in one bill in letter, at our risk for jacket and insoles. See directions for measurements. They are designed for special relief and prevention of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Asthma, Nervous Prostration, Ague, Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Diseases caused directly by meteorological or climatic influences. Are specific also in Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, Sleeplessness, Headache, Loss of Brain Power, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Piles, Prolapsus Uteri, and all forms of Pelvic Weakness of either sex, Kidney Affections, and all Nervous and Chronic Diseases not attended with Inflammation.



The above cut represents our spinal band with Belt and Chest band combined, containing nearly one hundred permanently charged magnets, and especially adapted to cases of seminal weakness, nervous debility, and loss of vitality.

This appliance imparts directly to the weakened parts a steady stream of Magnetism flowing through the weakened organs and giving Strength, Vigor, and Vitality to every organ of the whole system, soon restoring health, strength, and manhood. It also operates equally as effectively in cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, or paralysis.

We also make this appliance of two grades of magnetic power. One is of ordinary power and the other of extra strong magnetic power. The former we advise to be used by women and children and those who are very weak and delicate; the latter to be used in cases of seminal weakness, nervous debility, etc., and also in cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, and paralysis.

Price of spinal band, belt and chest band combined, $10. Sent by express upon receipt of price and return charges, with privilege of examination before payment.

In ordering send measurement around waist and chest, and length of spine from nape of neck to waist.

The Magneton Appliance Company's magnetic flesh mitt, when used, a sure and quick remedy for rheumatic pains, nervous complaints, impaired circulation, lameness, etc. Price $2, sent by mail on receipt of price. Remittances can be made in currency or stamps sent in letter at our risk. Magneton Appliance Company, 218 State street.

Are You Nervous, and Lack Vital Energy?

In all diseases of a nervous or muscular type, such as nervous debility, paralysis, overworked brain, exhaustion, or loss of vital energy, weak back, kidney disease, our Magnetic Belt, or Regenerator, is made expressly for the cure of derangements of the procreative organs. Whenever any debility of the generative organs occur, from whatever cause, the continuous stream of Magnetism permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. There is no mistake about this appliance. Years of use have tested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from indiscretion, incapacity, lack of vigor, sterility—in fact, any troubles of these organs is cured. Do not confound this with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the one specific purpose.

Price of belt $10. Sent by express upon receipt of price, and, if not found as represented, money refunded. In ordering, send measure of waist. Remittances can be made in currency, sent in letter at our risk.

A CHALLENGE.

To any physician we will send one of our Magnetic Head Bands with our urgent request that he test it in every case of headache and neuralgia he may chance to meet, and if it fails to cure within a few minutes nine cases out of every ten, let him warn his patients not to buy them.

We submit that this is fair advertising, and every person reading it may have a Cap on trial, as is explained further on. Many people are doubtful about advertised remedies, and, while we have received thousands of letters inclosing the price of this article, no doubt a large number are incredulous, and hesitate to buy it through fear of being cheated. To remove this fear we have resolved to let all have them for a time before deciding to purchase.

It is warranted to cure nervous headache in five minutes! Cure bilious headache in five minutes! Cure neuralgia in five minutes! Immediately soothes the weary brain!

Out of a mass of letters from persons benefited, we have selected a few testimonials from people of some prominence; and can any sensible person think for a moment that men of position and wealth would deliberately sit down and write falsehoods for our benefit, or that we would dare publish fabrications over their signatures and addresses? Were we at liberty to use letters received from Senators, Judges, lawyers, doctors, ladies, and gentlemen whose names are known in the highest circles of the West, the readers of this paper would be astonished at the remarkable cures obtained from wearing our Magnetic Appliances.

Now, reader, are you troubled with any kind of Headache or Neuralgia? Do you wish to ward off these afflictions? If so, why not try our Magnetic Head-Band. If you are not satisfied with it you may return it. The Head-Band is made of beautiful material, containing nearly fifty magnets, permanently charged with an electro-magnetic force, which immediately acts upon the hair-glands, follicles, and brain. Always doing good, never any harm. There is no shock or sensation whatever in wearing it. The price is $2 each. If you wish to try it please send us that amount, and we will promptly forward it, postpaid, on trial. Should you wish to return it first write us, and we will send back the money. Is not this fair? When all advertisers offer these honorable terms they will show proper faith in their remedies, and the public will be quick to respond. We cannot do more to invite your confidence, and hope you will give us a trial.

This cut illustrates our beautiful and neatly fitting Combination Corset for Ladies. In calling special attention to this Garment we wish to impress upon the mind the all-important fact that our Magneton Corset furnishes full and complete insulation! Full and complete protection of all the vital organs of the body! Of the whole range of our Appliances, none so fully and completely recharges the blood and revitalizes the nerve centres as does this admirable Garment, serving at once all the purposes of a thick, heavy vest or waist, combining all the pleasant features of the Corset, while at the same time it is a complete protection against malaria in all its forms and a positive curative agent of great power for any and all diseases of the thorax and abdomen. No lady or gentleman with impaired health or weakened constitution can afford to go without this jacket, combining as it does two of the most important garments of underwear, and at the same time furnishing life to all the tissues, vitality to all the capillaries, and warmth, tone, and redoubled strength and power to every organ in the human body. We believe there is no other equal protection against diseases and cure for the same now known. We have had experience to warrant all we say of these appliances, and people who have worn them will cheerfully testify to what we publish from their own experience.

The Corset fits and conforms to the body like a glove, and while exerting its healing and sustaining power, it imparts a genial, warming, soothing influence upon the entire nerve ganglia. It tones and recharges the spinal nerves, imparts inward life and activity until the whole being is aglow with magnetic warmth and energy.

It is no profanation to say that the wearer of this exquisite garment has been "born again" physically. This is the precise language of hundreds who have worn it and been taken from beds of sickness and pain and restored to complete health in a few weeks or months. Could the reader realize the full force of these facts none would pass through the rigors of winter in our climate without this grand safeguard and protection against cold, catarrh, neuralgia, rheumatism, pneumonia, scarlet-fever, and nervous prostration, from whatever cause induced. In reply to the oft-repeated question, "What diseases do these Appliances cure?" we answer by positively asserting that we know of no disease of our climate these appliances will not cure except cancer; and in the earlier stages they will arrest and eliminate this terrible blood poison. Magnetism, properly applied, will cure every curable disease, whatever the cause.

This Corset, with the Insoles, comprises in itself a whole suit, equal to all our other appliances combined. It is a thing of beauty, light and easy to wear, convenient, and close-fitting.

In cases of consumption, paralysis, spinal weakness, locomotor ataxia, and all blood and nerve disorders, it is invaluable. Many persons after wearing this garment for a season declare they would not do without it for $500. It will repay twice its cost in the health and comfort it imparts in a single month. By sending us correct measures we can send a perfect-fitting garment to any part of the United States by mail or express. All letters of inquiry will receive prompt attention, and certificates and testimonials from prominent physicians and others will be furnished on application.

It is a true saying that "people cannot be too radical if right, while they cannot be too conservative if wrong." We take the former position and solicit the closest examination to ascertain the value of our Appliances as therapeutic agents in the curing of disease. There need not be a single case of rheumatism, sciatica, or neuralgia in Chicago or the Northwest. We offer a sure remedy, and positively assert that our Appliances have not failed in one single instance when worn according to our instructions and in quantities sufficient to reach the case. If you are suffering and have tried for years and get no relief, it is hardly to be expected that Magnetism and Electricity will make you well in a few days. These healing forces work by law, and stimulate vitality and augment the healing energies.

Long-standing cases, and persons in advanced age, require more appliances than those less advanced.

In very severe cases it is necessary to insulate and protect nearly the entire body, and limbs as well. The nature and severity of the case must be taken into consideration in determining the requisite appliances.

We cannot afford any experiments and must decline to sell our Appliances unless our instructions can be complied with. We furnish a few names of those who are now wearing the Appliances, and all persons can readily satisfy themselves of their merits before purchasing the same.

Persons who fail to derive full benefit from magnetism are those who do not follow the advice and instructions given in regard to wearing the Magnetic Appliances. Not one instance can be found where the Garments have been worn as directed without producing all the beneficial and curative effects promised.

Many persons suffer for years from chronic rheumatism, asthma, gout, lumbago, bronchitis, lung diseases, and other complaints, which baffle the skill of our best physicians; and expend hundreds of dollars in popular remedies and receive no good results. These people, as a last resort, seek relief in Magnetism, but, instead of purchasing the Garments recommended for them, they consult their pocket at the expense of health. It is not wise to place a higher value upon money than health. Having decided this question, then go ahead and secure the best, as the best is the cheapest in the end.

GENT'S BROAD BELT.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS.

As an assistant to pure spring water and appropriate medicine, an abdominal belt has no superior in the relief and cure of all kidney complaints. It carries a powerful magnetic force to the seat of the disease, and by its tranquilizing influence upon the sacro iliac plexus or nerves, and its powerful stimulus upon the blood, it possesses healing virtues rarely found at the best springs in Europe or America.

LADIES' ABDOMNAL BELT.

No lady or gentleman would do without this belt after wearing it a month for five times the cost of it. For lame back, weakness of the spine, and pain across the kidneys, this is the best Appliance and Curative Agent known.

It does not interfere with any action of the body, but acts as a stimulus and support to the trunk and spine, while reinforcing the kidneys with Nature's own healing energy.

Send $10 in draft, currency, in letter at our risk, for gents' "or ladies'" Belt and pair of Insoles. Send size of waist and number of shoe usually worn. No lame back or kidney ache or nervousness when they are worn.

MAGNETIC INSOLE.

Of all the Appliances we manufacture for the preservation of health and the curing of various morbid conditions, none surpass our Magnetic Insoles. These Soles insulate the body from the damp, cold earth, and prevent the abstraction of its vital electricity. If we could only make our readers realize the inestimable value of these Insoles, there would not be one without them. We place their price so low as to bring them within the reach of all, and no one should fail to experiment with our Magnetic Appliances to the extent of a pair of Insoles. Just think of it! only $1 for better protection than any one garment you wear. The health, warmth, and life-giving influence imparted to the whole body through these soles will convince the most skeptical minds of the value of our Appliances. We intend these soles for the multitude, and have placed them at the remarkably low price of $1 per pair as a special inducement to all.

The wearer of these Insoles cannot fail to realize the value of fifty times their cost in the exemption from damp, cold feet. Try a pair and be convinced that Magnetism is a positive force, and will keep your feet better protected and warmer than any overshoes you ever wore. No child should go without them. No protection ever before could so completely insulate the body from the earth as these do. It is a well-known law among scientists that the earth at times absorbs and draws away the positive electricity from our bodies. To prevent this loss it is only necessary to wear the Magnetic Insoles.

Send $6 in stamps or currency, at our risk, for Sciatic Appliance and Insoles. Send size of waist and shoe usually worn. No Sciatic Rheumatism when they are worn.

DOCTORS.

We wage no warfare against physicians or the medical fraternity generally.

Their sphere of usefulness is large, and we desire to aid them in furnishing auxiliary means for curing the sick. The honest physician occupies a high place in public esteem, and deservedly so too. While our Appliances are not a panacea for every ill, they are what we claim for them and will afford a speedy cure oftentimes after medicines have failed to give relief.

Try a pair of our Superior Magnetic Insoles. No Cold Feet or Chilblains when these are used.

IMPORTANT TO INVALIDS.

The Magneton Appliance Company, having at large expense procured the most improved labor-saving machinery, have come to the conclusion that the time has arrived when the benefits of these wonderful curative appliances can be forced within the reach of the whole mass of the population, poor as well as rich.

Although 50,000 patients in America have availed themselves of these garments, yet the hitherto high price has shut the door against hundreds of thousands of suffering invalids who might have been restored to health and usefulness.

Therefore on an after this date the prices of our Magnetic Appliances will be reduced much below that formerly charged, while the quality of the Appliances will be greatly improved and the high standard of excellence as a curative agent fully maintained.

Beware of worthless attempts at imitation of our Appliances that are offered under various names.

MAGNETON APPLIANCE CO.,

We publish a few of the many testimonials in our possession, showing the value of these goods, giving the public a chance to carefully investigate the facts we claim for them.

CAUTION.—Preserve this paper, and if you have any friends suffering call their attention to its claims. It will be a grand act of charity to suffering humanity.

The garments we manufacture are not ordinary wearing apparel, but made exclusively to hold our Electric and Magnetic Insulator, Circuits, Magnets, etc., and accommodate them to the body. The garments are made from the best material, and will last for years, protecting the Appliances they are designed to cover and hold in place.

See special directions for necessary Appliances to be worn for different complaints.

Gentlemen who are confined to office labor and troubled with nervous headaches or neuralgia will obtain relief in a very short time from the wearing of this cap as well as the immediate soothing of the weary brain.

Price of Cap, $5.00, sent by mail upon receipt of price, or by express C. O. D. with privilege of examination before payment, and if not found as represented can be returned with express charges to us. Remittances can be made in currency or postage stamps in letter at our risk. In ordering send size of hat usually worn.

MAGNETON APPLIANCE CO.,

Send one dollar in postage stamps or currency (in letter at our risk) with size of shoe usually worn, and try pair of our very thin Magnetic (cork) insoles, and be convinced of the power residing in our other Magnetic Appliances.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

The following suggestions are intended to assist those wearing Magnetic Appliances during the transition from an unhealthy to a healthy condition. Many who are susceptible of being benefited by Magnetism, from ignorance of physiological laws, find the benefit they would receive considerably lessened by daily violations of the commonest rules of Hygiene. Nature requires all the assistance that can be afforded her; though there are many ailments (from which thousands suffer) that can be readily removed by Magnetism, without entailing on the patient any radical change of habit or mode of living, yet assurance is made doubly sure when Nature is fortified at every weak point, and no unnecessary obstructions delay her progress.

RHEUMATISM, in its various forms, is a disease where magnetism asserts its superiority over all other remedies; and the kind of Appliances to be worn will depend on the part of the body in which it exists. If it be a vagrant character, shifting its position from one part to another, a belt is indispensable, as it will act directly on the great centres of nervous action. This coupled with a Lung and Nerve Invigorator is frequently all that is required in cases of ordinary rheumatism. But when the disease has become chronic, and is deeply seated in any one part, such as the knee, wrist, elbow, or shoulder, then the Knee-Caps, Elbow, or Shoulder Appliances, Wristlets or Anklets should also be used, and in all cases the Magnetic Friction Glove, an additional appliance, may be employed to great advantage. In such cases the jacket is supreme.

Temperance in all things is strictly enjoined, especially in rheumatism of an inflammatory or gouty character. The suppression of the various currents and nervous action, the great source of rheumatism, is admittedly occasioned by the absence of a due quantity of heat, causing congestion and stoppage of vital action; therefore we strongly advise, in most cases, that warm woolen garments should be worn over the entire body, and the Magnetic Appliances over all the parts affected.

SCIATICA requires nearly similar treatment to rheumatism. The diet should be temperate, and warm clothing should be generally worn, and Sciatic Appliances placed over the affected part. When the attack is severe we recommend the addition of a Belt, and in some cases a Lung Invigorator and Anklet. As this disease is a local affection of the sciatic nerve only, it is frequently cured without any change of diet being necessary. [A strictly grain and milk diet, with fruit, works wonders in rheumatism, and also in all acrid humors, as canker, salt-rheum, cancer, etc. Celery cooked in milk and eaten freely, and the milk also drank, is said to effect wonderful results in rheumatism.]

NEURALGIA—To equalize the nervous circulation is the first consideration; and to effect that object a Belt and Insoles are always an important adjunct. If the attack be in the face or head, then a Magnetic Cup is necessary in addition. Special appliances may be worn over any part acutely affected.

As this painful affection is most commonly associated with debility, to tone up the whole system is therefore most important. The clothing should be warm; the atmosphere of the house pure and dry. Sponge or shower baths may be taken in the morning, to be rapidly followed by the free use of the Magnetic Glove. All draughts must be avoided, and exercise in the open air should be frequent but not exhausting. Here the Jacket is the ne plus ultra.

MAGNETIC SOLES—These soles are indispensable for persons suffering from cold feet, weak circulation of the extremities, etc., and are recommended to be worn with any of the other appliances in every case, as they insulate the feet, so essential in guarding against the influence the earth possesses of abstracting the positive force of the body. This force retained, warmth is the inevitable result.

In cases of nervous or general debility the broad belts will be found of great advantage, but the Jacket is the sovereign remedy. A friction glove will be found an invaluable help.

We strongly advise the disuse of tobacco, especially by those with any constitutional or acquired tendency to paralysis; the use of food as a means of living, and not living for the mere purpose of eating and drinking. A careful attention to clothing is very important. In so variable a climate as ours, invalids especially should wear woolen garments next the skin. Temperance and moderation in all things are strongly enjoined.

NERVOUS DERANGEMENTS require special treatment, suitable in all cases to the locality and severity of the complaint. Paralysis, or loss of power, Epilepsy, Hysteria, Nervous Headache, Nervous Debility, St. Vitus' Dance, Deafness, together with Loss of Sight and Taste, all require the special use of the Jacket, aided, in many cases, by Special Appliances, which can be applied to any part of the body. The Broad Belts may be worn with great advantage in Epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance and Hysteria. In paralysis the entire seat of the derangement should, if required, be covered with our appliances, and worn in the form of ordinary garments.

CONSUMPTION, in all its forms, is a disease in which the system is peculiarly susceptible to climatic changes and atmospheric influences, and, above all others, needs the protection which the Magneton Garments afford, and the curative and invigorating influence of the magnetism they impart. In consumption, as in all cases where the full constitutional protection and invigoration of the system is required, a full set of Magneton undergarments should be worn. No more effective treatment could be devised for any stage of the disease. Where the invalid is confined to the bed the Garments may still be worn with comfort, or Magneton Blankets may be spread for the patient to lie upon, and also used as a covering. This treatment would be especially effective in all bedridden subjects, as it would be certain to impart new life and awaken ambition. Says Dr. Wetton: "One great advantage of the Magnetic Appliances in consumption is, that they prevent the waste of vital heat, and by regulating the action of the nervous centres become a conservative and sustaining power that builds up and arrests the breaking down of structure." In cases of weak circulation to the extremities the Appliances may be worn in the form of Anklets, Wristlets, and Soles, or made into Leggings of any length and dimensions in order to maintain an equal degree of warmth throughout the whole system; a consummation highly necessary in connection with glandular and pulmonary derangements. The equalization of the vital heat must be attended to as a preliminary to every other curative resource; and warmth can be obtained by Magnetism when all other means fail.

AFFECTIONS OF THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER AND CONSTIPATION usually require both a Belt and Lung-Invigorator. The Belt to be worn low down over the loins.

In constipation the diet should be of a solid character and well masticated.

Food should not be taken too frequently. Frequency of eating is a common cause of constipation, as by overloading the bowels it causes incipient paralysis. We would recommend in all cases of constipation that the diet should be diminished rather than increased; and that the food should be thoroughly masticated before it is permitted to pass into the stomach. In most cases a Lung-Invigorator and Belt, or, still better, a Jacket, are found sufficient to remove in a short time all symptoms of this complaint.

With regard to children, the most suitable diet is one consisting mainly of farinaceous foods, fruit, and milk. Meat, tea, coffee, and alcohol must of necessity do great harm. The common practice of leaving the necks, legs, and arms of children uncovered is fraught with great mischief. Young persons, even more than ourselves, require to be protected against adverse atmospheric changes, for the obvious reason that they are weaker.

The Appliances should be worn the flannel side toward the body.

The general arrangement of the Appliances and the Magnetic Strips they contain should not be altered. Attention to this will insure the most beneficial results, and the retention of the magnetic power almost indefinitely.

It is not essential that the Appliances be worn next the body, as the magnetic force penetrates with facility any intervening garment.

The Appliances should not be worn continuously, unless specially directed. As a rule they should be taken off at night.

Do not hesitate to order any of our Appliances that you desire (sent by express C. O. D. and return charges), with privilege of examination, and if not found as represented return them at our expense.

We cannot afford any experiments, and must decline to sell our Appliances unless our instructions can be complied with. We furnish a few names of those who are now wearing the Appliances, and all persons can readily satisfy themselves of their merits before purchasing the same.

Persons who fail to derive full benefit from Magnetism are those who do not follow the advice and instructions given in regard to wearing the Magnetic Appliances. Not one instance can be found where the Garments have been worn as directed without producing all the beneficial and curative effects promised.

Many persons suffer for years from chronic rheumatism, asthma, gout, lumbago, bronchitis, lung disease, and other complaints, which baffle the skill of our best physicians, and expend hundreds of dollars in popular remedies, and receive no good results. These people, as a last resort, seek relief in Magnetism, but, instead of purchasing the Garments recommended for them, they consult their pocket at the expense of health. It is not wise to place a higher value upon money than health. Having decided the question, then go ahead and secure the best, as the best is the cheapest in the end.

A QUEER CASE.

Slanderous Letters to Oust a Rival from a Situation.

A suit was commenced Friday in the Superior Court, but suppressed for service, by Mary Watson against J. J. Griffin to recover $10,000 for alleged slander. Mrs. Watson is the wife of J. B. Watson, the Chicago agent for Cassel, Petter & Galpin, and Griffin is the New York agent of the same firm. Griffin, as is charged, became ambitious some time ago to control all the American agencies of his firm, and for this purpose attempted to oust Watson and reduce him to the ranks as book canvasser. Watson, strange to say, objected to this little scheme, and a few days ago received the following note:

"Mr. Watson: Leave Merry no more with your wife alone. Save your child's honor and your wife from open shame. Be very careful or Cassel, Petter & Galpin will arrest you for your embezzlement of their money. Go at once to New York and work for the house direct, and save your good name. DETECTIVE."

The name "Merry" belongs to an employé in Watson's office, and Merry, too, received a note about the same time to the following effect:

"Mr. Merry: A detective of the Police Gazette warns you to at once leave America, as your liaison with Mrs. Watson is known. Don't delay a moment, but close your business at once and go to England. Your family name will be known here, and your assumed name will be known in England. Save a great scandal and yourself getting into the papers. Witnesses have seen you and Mrs. Watson's love-making, and will swear to it."

Watson suspected Griffin, as the embezzlement referred to was an unsettled account of about $300 by Watson with his firm, and Watson surmised the object of the letter was to drive him to New York. The writer of the notes made an evident attempt to disguise his handwriting, but it seemed to resemble Griffin's, and on that theory Watson sued him for $10,000 damages for slander. In addition to this, Griffin was arrested on a criminal charge of libel Saturday and taken before Justice Brayton. It was there shown that the above letters came here from St. Paul under cover to Postmaster Palmer, who was expected to mail them as from Chicago, but he stamped them as coming from St. Paul. Expert testimony was introduced as to the handwriting, and Griffin was held to the Criminal Court on three charges under bonds of $500 in each case.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

The Melancholy Man Who Wanted Rest at the Bottom of the River.

A middle-aged man with a melancholy face, long black beard, and seedy attire climbed onto the railing of the Van Buren street bridge about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and plunged headlong into the opaque waters and sewer emanations of the Chicago River. He had a number of interested spectators, including Special-Officers Walker and Oswass. They, anxious to save Coroner's fees to the county, succeeded, after some trouble, in fishing the would-be suicide out of the river. They received no thanks for their pains, however, as the water-soaked individual, who gave the name of John Shorall, laconically observed that he would "try it on again" at the very first opportunity. He was taken before Justice Wallace at the armory, where his dripping garments created numerous little pools of water in the prisoner's box, and showed with ridiculous plainness the nature of the case.

"I suppose you have been trying to drown yourself?" said the court. "What's the trouble with you?"

"I'm tired of life," responded the prisoner, as he dug Chicago-River tears from his eyes and slily dropped them on the floor.

"Well, what made you throw yourself into the river when there was a nice, clean lake near by?"

Mr. Shorall made no response.

"Are you married?"

"No sir."

"How long have you been in Chicago?"

"Two weeks this time, but I lived here two years ago. My home is in the old country. I have a great sorrow on my mind."

"What is it?"

But the melancholy prisoner would not divulge.

"I'll send you to the bridewell for a month," said the court, "and you can work your great sorrow out making brick."

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Young men and young ladies who wish to engage in active business life cannot do better than to invest a reasonable amount of time and money in obtaining a thorough business preparation at H. B. Bryant's Chicago Business College and English Training-School. The graduates of this college are self-supporting and able to carve out a future for themselves. Some students take only the English branches at first, while others begin at once with the regular business course or with shorthand and type-writing. The day session is always in operation and the evening session will begin Sept. 18. Students may enter at any time.

BASE-BALL.

The Championship Question Still in an Unsettled Condition.

Providence Is Ahead Four Games, but Chicago May, Nevertheless, Get the Pennant.

Extraordinary Batting Display by the Home Team Yesterday—Troy Beaten 24 to 1.

Providence Successful 5 to 0 at Cleveland—Detroit and Buffalo the Other Winners.

The League Championship.

The only thing settled by last week's play is that either Providence or Chicago will win the championship, with the probability still strongly in favor of Providence, as that club has now a lead of four games won over Chicago, and though the latter still has two more games to play than the Providence has, it will find it next to impossible to overcome such a lead. Should Chicago beat Providence two out of the three games to be played here this week Providence would still go from here with a lead of three; but if, on the other hand, Chicago should win three straight and Providence should strike Detroit next week in the same humor Boston found the Michiganders, the situation would be materially changed. About the best Chicago can hope for, however, is to win two out of the three games with Providence. This would still leave the result very much in doubt, as it would virtually reduce the lead of Providence to one game, and the latter's series at Detroit, what time Chicago was beating Worcester three straight, would, with a fair degree of success by Detroit—say two out of three—leave the two leaders virtually a tie. One thing is certain: Chicago played last week three remarkably strong games—much stronger than Providence played at Cleveland, for one of the three won from Cleveland was a rank gift by the umpire. Beyond question the three games to be played on the Chicago grounds this week Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday will excite a livelier interest than any three league games ever played, and it would not be surprising if the total attendance of 19,000 for Fourth-of-July week would be exceeded if the weather is favorable. Among other things virtually settled is, that Boston will now be no better than third in the race, and will have a hard time holding that position as against Detroit and Buffalo. The situation at the close of yesterday's play was as follows:

	Boston	Buffalo	Chicago	Cleveland	Detroit	Providence	Troy	Worcester	Games won	Games yet to play
Boston	—	5	6	6	8	5	3	7	40	11
Buffalo	4	—	6	6	2	6	3	11	38	13
Chicago	6	2	—	7	8	5	9	6	43	13
Cleveland	3	6	2	—	3	4	7	11	36	12
Detroit	4	7	4	6	—	2	8	8	39	12
Providence	5	6	4	8	7	—	9	8	47	11
Troy	6	6	3	2	4	3	—	6	30	12
Worcester	5	1	3	1	1	1	3	—	15	12
Games lost	33	33	28	36	33	26	42	57	288

Chicago 24, Troy 1.

The Chicagos had a great picnic at the expense of Troy yesterday, and 2,500 people sat and watched it until the thing grew tedious by its duration. It seemed as though there was no limit to the batting possibilities of the home team or the muffing possibilities of the visitors, though the latter were in some degree excusable for being rattled by such tremendous hitting as that done by Chicago. Welch was fearfully punished in the second, third, fourth, and fifth innings, and in the midst of the fifth, when Flint had led off with a triple, Dalrymple and Gore had made singles, and Williamson a home run, with nobody out, Welch changed places with Egan. The latter fared little better, as two more earned runs were made before the inning was over. Corcoran, on the other hand, was hit clean but three times. Chicago's batting prolonged the play so that it was necessary to call game at the end of the eighth inning on account of darkness.

Troy scored an unearned run in the first inning on Burns' fumble, Flint's passed ball and wild throw, and Welch's single, but only two more clean hits were made during the rest of the game, and only two errors more by Chicago, so that no more runs were made by the visitors. After a one-two-three whitewash in the first inning, Anson led off in the second with a furious three-bagger, and six runs, three earned, were made on singles by Kelly, Burns, Gore, and Williamson, and a double by Flint, together with two errors by Egan, one by Gillespie, and a low throw by Holbert. In the third two unearned runs were made on singles by Kelly and Corcoran, a muffed thrown ball and fumble by Ferguson, and a muffed fly and fumble by Pfeffer. In the fourth singles by Anson and Burns and a double by Kelly, with a fumble by Pfeffer, gave three runs, two earned. Flint opened the fifth with a triple, Dalrymple and Gore followed with singles, and Williamson with a home-run hit over right-field fence. Then Welch went to centre field and Egan came in to pitch. Anson and Kelly went out on flies, but Burns hit for a base, Corcoran for a triple, and Quest a single, and on Welch's muff of Flint's fly Quest scored the seventh run, six being earned. Singles were made in the sixth after two outs by Anson, Kelly, and Burns, but no run resulted. In the seventh, after Quest's out, Flint made a base hit, stole second, and made third on Pfeffer's muff of the return by Gillespie of Dalrymple's fly. Gore, Williamson, and Anson followed with singles, and on Ferguson's muff of a thrown ball and Ewing's fumble four runs were made, two being earned. In the eighth Pfeffer's fumble gave Corcoran his base, and he stole second. After Quest's out Flint hit for a double and Gore a single, two runs being made, one earned.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 9.—McCormick pitched a good steady game today, but was miserably supported, the home nine going to pieces at critical points, and giving the visitors all their runs. The only redeeming features were fine catches by Glasscock and Tilley. Neither side batted hard, but the Providence nine ran bases effectively, while the home nine were noticeably weak in this particular. Farrell scored in the first inning on a hit and wild throws by Briody and Shaffer. Gilligan scored in the third on two fumbles by Glasscock and Farrell's long fly. In the fifth Denny scored on a three-baser and Dunlap's bad throw. In the seventh Gilligan reached third on Muldoon's wild throw, and scored on Hines' single. Start scored in the eighth on two muffs by Bradley at first, a steal to third, and a passed ball. The Clevelands got but one man on third in the entire game. Gilligan and Hines played well in the field. Fifteen hundred present.

Detroit 3, Boston 0.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 9.—A remarkable battle between the pitchers occurred in today's Boston-Detroit game. Weidman and Mathews were both on their mettle, and the visitors found it absolutely impossible to hit the former with any degree of safety, except in three scratch hits. Weidman was superbly supported, while Mathews' coadjutors made several costly errors, three of them helping in runs. Not a Detroiter, except those who scored, reached third base, and none of the Bostons got beyond second. In the sixth the Detroiters had two men on bases without a man out, but the side was retired by the superior work of Mathews. In the seventh the Bostons had the same experience, Weidman retiring the side before anybody could score. It was an uncommonly great game between two fine batteries.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The Worcesters presented Mountain as their pitcher today, supported by Hayes, and McLaughlin made his appearance at short. Mountain was knocked out of position in the third inning, and Corey went into the box, but did very indifferent work. Hayes' support was poor, and all the fielders did wretched work. It was muff and fumble and fumble and muff on all hands, Creamer being the only one to escape without an error. The only runs made by the visitors were in the first on hits by Irwin and Creamer and in the sixth on a hit by Corey and White's wild throw. Purcell was very careless in his play, having three errors, and White and Force two each. Otherwise the fielding of the Bisons was first-class, Galvin especially pitching very effectively. This was children's day, and the contest was witnessed by 500 adults and 300 children.

In the game yesterday at Baltimore between the Allegheny and Baltimore Clubs, each club scored seven runs in ten innings.

The Worcester and Webster base-ball nines have been playing ball, and the principal dispute that arose was about the umpire's pronouncing the word "out."—Boston Post.

St. Louis has only had four catchers and eight pitchers. All occupants of such positions should apply at once to that nine, as there is no telling when either one or the other will be wanted.

Valentine and Esterbrook have been permanently engaged by the Metropolitans. O'Neill, their regular pitcher, has a felon in the palm of his hand, which will prevent his playing for a long time.

Daily, of the Buffalos, has been granted a vacation of twenty days, owing to a lame arm, which prevents him from playing. It is feared that the one-armed phenomenal will not be in form again this season.

There are moments when the fate of nations seems to be trembling in the balance, but they are very ordinary moments indeed compared with those when a league nine "goes all to pieces" on the base-ball field.—Lowell Courier.

Buffalo Courier: Galvin is again the same every-day pitcher that he was a couple of years ago. He has pitched in the last six games against the Providences, and but forty-seven hits have been made off him in all the games, an average of not quite eight hits to a game. This is a fine record, considering that the Providences are one of the heaviest batting teams in the league.

Troy Times: A prominent stockholder in the Troy City Base-Ball Club, who says he voices the sentiments of the majority, declares the Board of Managers is satisfied that Ferguson, while he may be an excellent second baseman, is not a good ruler of men, and is not at all qualified to captain a ball team; and, furthermore, that Ferguson's residence in Troy will cease with the close of the present season.

He lay in a swoon by the roadside. His helmet was broken, his visor was cracked, his gorget was tarnished with the smoke of battle, his breast plate was indented like a milk can, his halberd was as dull as a five-cent barber's razor, the lock of his cross-gun was shattered, his arquebuse was shivered, his quiver shook like a canal horse with the heaves, his tabard was in shreds, his ears were off, one eye was gone, his nose was out of plumb, and his jaw-bone was paralyzed. He had been trying to umpire a league game. —Unknown Genius.

Yesterday a throwing match occurred between Pfeffer, of Troy, who has great pretensions as a long-distance thrower, and Ed Williamson, the Chicago third-baseman, of whom it is a marked peculiarity that he has few pretensions of any kind, considering his extraordinary accomplishments as a base-ball player. About $60 in bets between the Chicago and Troy players changed hands on the match. Pfeffer's best throw out of three trials netted him 132 yards and five inches, while Williamson on his second throw beat this by seven inches, making 132 yards and 1 foot. This is still one yard and seven inches below the record made by John Hatfield, of the old New York Mutuals, some ten years ago. Capt. Anson, who had a pretty fair idea of the capacity of the two contestants, backed Williamson, and collared $14.

An item has been going the rounds of the press that the only changes to be made in the Providence nine next year will be a new short-stop and catcher. Manager Wright while in Buffalo last week denied that any of the players had been approached, and pronounced the statement unwarranted. The club don't seem to need even these changes to be able to hold their own.

The league batting averages up to Sept. 1 show Brouthers still in the lead with 385, Anson second with 354, Start 337, Whitney of Boston 335, Hines 326, Gore 323, Connors 319, Hornung 309, Morrill and Stovey 304, Gillespie 302, Kelly of Chicago 290, Dalrymple 275, Williamson and Burns 250, Flint 229, Goldsmith 226, Quest 210, Nicol 205, Corcoran 204. In fielding Brouthers and Phillips lead with 973, Start and Morrill 972, Anson 942, Kelly 826, Gore 833, Dalrymple 867, Burns 875, Williamson 881, Flint 935, Goldsmith 974, Quest 798, Nicol 846, Corcoran 967. In fielding Flint leads the catchers and Goldsmith the pitchers.

Harry Wright, manager of the Providence team, was asked by a reporter as to the chances of the league and American Association working together next year, as proposed in some quarters. "There are several things to prevent that," he replied. "You see, there is the beer-selling and Sunday playing—both insurmountable objections. If the association would do away with these it might be talked about, but, of course, they will not do that."

"How about the strife for players—will that hurt the league?"

"No, I don't think it will, but it is a suicidal policy for the American Association. No matter how good nines they have they will not draw better crowds in '83 than they have in '82. It is not one superior ball-player that makes a good club. What is wanted is an evenly balanced team if good work is to be done. Now look at the Alleghenies, who are reported to have engaged Bennett at a salary of $2,300. They will have six or eight other players getting salaries of $500 or $600. Good work cannot be expected from such a nine as that, and of course big crowds will not go to see them play. Two clubs in the league may be drawn upon for association players, but beyond that it will not affect us in the least. Again, it is going to make the association so one-sided that interest will be lost. The more evenly matched the teams the greater the interest aroused. One or two or three association teams will make a great struggle for the high-salaried players, and the others will be left out. Then the race for the championship will be such a walk-away that no one will care to see it. It is a suicidal policy, and the managers will come to see it in time—perhaps when it is too late."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Yes; When He Dies.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Will you please give us a short sketch of the life of Herbert Spencer, also the names of his works, and oblige

A READER.

[THE TRIBUNE printed a very readable personal sketch of Mr. Spencer, with some mention of his life and works, in its issue of the 3d. If the correspondent wants a biography, why doesn't he go to a biographical dictionary?]

Indecency in the Shop-Windows.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—In your issue of yesterday I read a letter from a gentleman who is indignant at the display of nude art at the exposition. I do not want to enter the question of whether this display is or is not prejudicial to good morals, but what I want to point out is that, while public attention is being called to it, it should certainly also be called to places where a similar display is seen and permitted, much worse in style than anything in the exposition. Let any one walk through the streets of this city; let him look in at the windows of the print-shops, news-stores, etc., and what will he see? Hundreds of nude or semi-nude figures, painted, printed, or engraved, in attitudes which I am perfectly certain no sculptor would dare to place his statues in. In the case of nude art, "honi soit qui mal y pense." The tenor of a person's mind in a great measure regulates the effect any such exhibition may have on their morals; but in the case of the pictures mentioned above, there can be no mistake as to their intention and effect. Young people will look in a news and print shop. There is always a crowd, chiefly consisting of young men and boys, round one of them, and the reason is easily ascertained. Before expressing the virtuous indignation of our "well-regulated moral minds" on the subject of the statuary at the Exposition, it would be as well to consider if there are not other objects against which it might be more consistently expressed.

CONSISTENCY.

How to Become a Proof-Reader.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

EVANSTON, Sept. 7.—What shall I do to make a first-class proof-reader? Please answer through the columns of your paper and you will oblige.

INQUIRER.

[To become a first-class proof-reader is a very easy task—so easy that the wonder is more young people don't take it up instead of clerking or copying. The first step is to serve an apprenticeship at printing, which enables the student to discern typographical irregularities. A general acquaintance with history, biography, poetry, fiction, music, geography, the drama, etc., is important. Politics should have earnest attention, for you must be able to identify every man who has followed that business from Cain down to the present day. No matter where his residence or what his calibre—whether he is or was the Premier of England, the Caliph of Bagdad, or a Bridgeport "tarrier"—you should have a minute knowledge of his public and private life and be able to select the proper spelling from the half-dozen ways which the author is sure to employ. Read, ponder, and assimilate Webster, the Bible, Shakspeare, Anthon's Classical Dictionary, Roget's Thesaurus, Lippincott's Gazetteer, Hayden's Dictionary of Dates, the cyclopedias of Appleton, Zell, Johnson, and others, Bremisch-Niedersächsisches Wörterbuch, Brandtke's Slownik dokladny Jezyka Polskiego i Niemieckiego, and any other works of a solid nature that happen to be at hand. During the long winter evenings you might scoop in a few languages—say Greek, Latin, French, Hebrew, Russian, German, Chinese, Bohemian, and Choctaw. You will need them in the fashion article and Carter's speeches.

The foregoing are a few of the acquirements of a first-class proof-reader. The business is learned in a short time by any young man with a little perseverance, and affords constant employment (twelve hours seven days a week) at a liberal compensation ($20), with frequent honorable mention. When you have picked up the rudiments mentioned, if you don't conclude to become a college Professor at $5,000 a year, call at THE TRIBUNE office and we will give you a desk. Our present proof-readers are hardly up to the standard.—ED.]

The Meaning of Home-Rule.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

BELOIT, Wis., Sept. 7.—I observe in your issue of today an article on the Irish question, or rather on that portion of it which is pertaining to crime. As an English Radical, and one who has supported Home-Rule under the Butt leadership, I thought I would pen you my sentiments on the present condition of the Irish question. I take it for granted that the objects of the Land League have reference to the land evil only, since amongst the members of that society there are many who differ much as to what is implied by the terms "Home-Rule." In Josse Butt's time these terms were considered to imply self-government by an Irish Parliament elected by the Irish popular vote, and not a dismemberment of the union. With this platform Butt led a formidable party in the House of Parliament, which was not entirely Irish, a large portion of it coming from the then young but growing Radical party. True, Butt accomplished little in his time, for the simple reason that the Radical party was then small; but the question forces itself upon me, "How much would Butt have accomplished if he had been the leader of the Irish party when Gladstone's Cabinet was elected?" Certainly this question can receive no decisive answer, yet with a Cabinet composed of such men as Bright, Chamberlain, and Gladstone, supported by members of the Government such as Dilke and Fawcett, there can be no doubt that much could have been accomplished. Those who have any knowledge of this question know that there are thousands of voters in England, Scotland, and Wales who are prepared to record their votes for a Butt platform and who are honestly desirous to render to Ireland and the Irish equal rights and laws. The question will naturally come to the reader's mind, Why do they do so? And my answer is, Because they have doubts as to what is the present meaning of home rule. If home rule means the severance of the two islands that vote will not be recorded, but it will go in the same way as the solid North has gone against the solid South for years. I have ventured to put the question as plainly as possible, so that the reader will fully understand it. The vast majority of the electors of the United Kingdom say unreservedly "Union at any cost," whilst a very small minority say disunion. It may be urged that you do not want the decision of the United Kingdom, but of Ireland alone, as representing the Irish, and my reply is that Ireland is as yet a portion of the union, and so long as she remains so she will be subjected to the vote of the union. I gravely doubt if Ireland would give a majority vote for entire severance from the union. In conclusion let me say that a rational platform, with equal rights for Ireland and the Irish, will receive the support of the coming party of power in England—i. e., the Radical party.

REUBEN E. FARRAR.

Opening of the Tenth Annual Discussion of Nude Art.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The tenth annual Inter-State Industrial Exposition has just opened, and the tenth annual discussion on the nude in art has apparently opened along with it. Permit me a few words on one or two points in this connection. I come early to avoid the rush.

We have, then, a collection of plaster casts of noted specimens of Greek sculpture set forth for the scrutiny of American eyes. Who were the Greeks, and who are the Americans? Are the Greek life and the American life lived under similar or dissimilar conditions? The Greeks lived an out-door, natural life; we live a life largely indoor and highly artificial. The chief pursuit of the Greek, and one of the chief objects of his worship, was that of natural, physical beauty; the chief pursuit of the average American, if common report be true, is that of the almighty dollar, and the chief object of his worship the well-filled pocketbook. The Greek admired his own body as heartily, frankly, and unreservedly as he admired that of anybody else. The average American has scant reasons for admiring his own body or those of many of his contemporaries. The Greek had unimpeded facilities for admiring his own comeliness, and everybody else's. His every-day costume was one of semi-nudity, and entirely nude representations, in public places, in stone, of the actuality in the flesh, occasioned him no more surprise than a dummy in the windows of the Boston Square Dealing or the Golden Eagle occasions us. The young Sophocles (aged 16) on the occasion of a solemn religious festival, sang, played, and danced, naked, before a vast assembly of his admiring countrymen without creating a tenth part, or a hundredth part, of the ohing and ahing that attends the posturing of a prima assoluta on the stage of Hooley's or Haverly's.

We manage these things differently at this particular epoch of the world's history. Come, now, nobody doubts this. If anybody does, let him ask a friend of his to walk at high noon, with his shirt-sleeves rolled up over his elbows, from the Post-Office to the Clark street bridge; or let him ask the Scotchman, who in orthodox costume celebrates the day of his country's saint, if the sight of his half-naked legs has never caused delicate woman to avert her glance or the gamins of the street to indulge in many ill-suppressed jeers; or address an inquiry to that luckless New York matron who a short time ago, under cover of the friendly darkness, essayed to walk a few squares in full evening dress and was promptly pounced upon by an outraged guardian of the peace. Clearly the present day and generation is not disposed to encourage an undue freedom in the display of personal advantages. Assuredly our eyes are not the eyes of those to whom the original of these much-belabored casts were at the first addressed.

Well, if we cannot tolerate the thing itself, why should we tolerate so lavish and unrestrained a representation and exposition of it? Perhaps, however, when we have become a little more accustomed to nature pure and simple, and a little less wedded to the prudish cloakings of dressmaker and tailor; when we can trust ourselves to go about our business shoeless and hatless, bare-armed and bare-legged; when the bear-pit of the Board of Trade is given over to athletic contests, and the young athletes of the La Salle street banking and insurance offices stand boldly forth without the aid of cotton batting or sawdust; when men and women mingle together in public and private attired with all the classic scantiness that characterized the great ages on antique sculpture—then it may be possible to make such a display as that presented by our annual exposition without putting ingrained, inborn Anglo-Saxon modesty to the blush, and without causing the right-minded spectator to give an anticipatory shudder at the approaching scuffle and hubbub of one of those hordes of shameless and tongue-unbridled young hoodlums that several successive decades of emigration have grafted on the stock of a once decorous and pure-minded people. A large proportion of our population will not see art in art if they can see anything else in it.

If, however, the Exposition casts have come to stay, and receive the stamp of popular approval, with all that the words imply, we will, of course, carry out the idea to the utmost limit, and whatever help may be derived from a close imitation of old world practices in this respect. Beginning with a few nymphs and satyrs, "startling in the attitudes of the silly and sinful old past," along the approaches of the Madison street viaduct, and a sprawling carnival of aquatic nudeness by way of fountain decoration for the Custom-House grass plots, we will go on, until, just as in the blessed Italy itself, the nude glows forth in fresco from the house fronts, shines in marble from the parapets of bridges, and the parks and public squares become the abode of multitudinous mythological divinities of various degrees of disreputability, all naked and not a whit ashamed. For if the nude can be had at the Exposition for the rather nominal price of 25 cents (children 15) why may it not be had in Lincoln Park for nothing at all? The effect of all this, though, would be very interesting and curious. Just what the effect would be, good people of Chicago, anybody who has passed a few weeks in Florence or Venice can tell you. By word of mouth, that is; the subject has its difficulties in print. Enough to say that the Italians of today, after 400 years of unrestrained and uninterrupted contemplation of the "Nude in Art," have arrived with regard to the nude in nature (after passing, I suppose, through various stages of carelessness and immodesty) at such a stage of rank and outrageous shallowness, with reference to certain physical needs and necessities, that no respectable Anglo-Saxon woman can walk alone two squares in one of the Italian cities without being overcome by shame and disgust, or with an escort, without a vast experience of embarrassment and indignation for both. The Italian Government itself has recently awakened to the importance of this matter, and the treatment the subject has received in all the great national galleries, though a treatment somewhat puerile and more or less ludicrous, indicates plainly enough that the powers that be know well enough where to look for the root of the evil. We ourselves have nothing as yet but the root; a little injudicious fostering may, however, stimulate a growth upon which we shall not look with unmixed pleasure and satisfaction.

X.

[The above communication is printed merely because the humor of it is too good to be wasted. But it must not be taken for a precedent. THE TRIBUNE does not intend to permit a prolonged discussion of this threadbare subject in its columns. The time ought to be far distant when the exhibition of casts of the most famous works of ancient sculpture should bring a blush to the cheek of even Chicago modesty.]

RELIGIOUS.

The "Advance" Insists that Congregationalism Is Not Dying Out,

And Brings an Array of Figures to Back Up Its Assertion.

General Notes at Home and Abroad—Personal Mention—Sunday Musings.

HOPE.

What song is well sung not of sorrow?
What triumph well won without pain?
What virtue shall be, and not borrow
Bright lustre from many a stain?

What birth has there been without travail?
What battle well won without blood?
What good shall earth see without evil
Ingarner'd as chaff with the good?

Lo! the Cross set in rocks by the Roman,
And nourish'd by blood of the Lamb,
And water'd by tears of the woman,
Has flourish'd, has spread like a palm;

Has spread in the frosts, and far regions
Of snows in the North, and South sands,
Where never the tramp of his legions
Was heard, or has reach'd forth his red hands.

Be thankful; the price and the payment,
The birth, the privations, and scorn,
The cross, and the parting of raiment,
Are finish'd. The star brought us morn:

Look starward: stand far and unearthy,
Free-soul'd as a banner unfurl'd.
Be worthy, O brother, be worthy!
For a God was the price of the world.

CONGREGATIONALISM.

IS THERE A DECLINE IN ITS MEMBERSHIP?

The Chicago Advance of last week has a long article full of statistics to controvert the statement going the rounds of the newspapers that Congregationalism was on the decline. We make some extracts therefrom:

Nothing can be made to lie like figures. They are all right when left to speak for themselves. It is the inferences and the interpretations, sometimes the bad ciphering, that makes the mischief. Here is a case in point. A writer, evidently of the "sweetness and light" order, in an Eastern paper says: "The Congregational churches of the United States last year actually fell off in membership. According to the Year-Book there was a gain of nineteen churches," "but a decrease of 2,625 members." Then follow the still more damaging facts: "Of the comparatively small total membership, about two-thirds are women." "Moreover, of the whole, 54,122 are reported as absent." Not able, himself, to do justice to this deplorable showing, he quotes these sage deductions: "The Concalls the New York Sun to his aid, and gregational Church is manifestly dying out. Nor is it surprising to see the life departing from it. It has no definit faith in these days. It is without enthusiasm, has largely lost conviction, and the most talented men among its younger ministry are remarkably tinged with infidelity."

Well, let us see. On referring to the quoted Year-Book, we find these figures: In 1880, 3,745 churches; in 1881, 3,804 churches. According to the arithmetic we studied, that makes a net addition of fifty-nine churches; and this, says a note, notwithstanding the dropping of fifty-one Welsh churches and six in Kentucky, numbered the previous year, but this year left out since they fail to report. Unless there is some occult deception here that eludes us, the actual gain in churches for the year was 116. But then a little careless ciphering, when one has a case to make out, is not of much account. There stands, anyway, the 2,625 loss in membership. But, in the "dropped" churches, there were more than 4,000. These were numbered in 1880, but not in 1881. And here lies your loss. That is all there is in it. There was, in fact, an actual gain of more than a thousand—a small gain, indeed.

Let us take twenty pages from the Year-Book. Let us aid the eye by grouping them into clusters of five years, taking the average of each five-year period, then we can see, in good honest figures, how fast the life is departing from this "dying-out" denomination. Here is the table:

1867-'71	3,028	297,667	3,027
1872-'76	3,388	332,391	3,270
1877-'81	3,681	378,040	3,555

A denomination that makes a steady gain through the longer reaches of the years; that shows an increase in its numbers of nearly a thousand churches, a hundred and twenty thousand members, and a thousand ministers in two decades, and that now receives annually, by profession, almost 8,000 more than it did twenty years ago, can hardly be said to be "dying out." We sincerely hope for a further decline of this same sort in the twenty years to come.

But after all is there not something wrong in this figuring? Certainly in New England, the land of Congregationalism, there is small growth—in some parts an actual decline. Very well. But look at the facts. The population itself there shows little gain. And what there is is largely alien and Catholic. To hold its own in such conditions is success. But if a denomination have really vitality it will show itself in the newer regions. The true test is, Does this body keep abreast of the intense life and marvelous growth in the populations of the West? Let the figures in five States, representing the older and the newer West, make answer:

	Ch'hes.	Members.	Ch'hes.	Members.
Illinois....	208	13,616	246	22,842
Iowa.......	150	5,112	236	15,365
Missouri....	4	322	72	3,953
Kansas......	36	695	197	5,885
Minnesota...	59	1,338	145	7,055
	457	21,083	896	55,100

Or, lest there may be something exceptional in these, what do the thirteen interior States, reaching from Ohio to the Rocky Mountains, say? In 1860 the number of members in the Congregational churches of these States was 38,775; in 1870, 67,382; in 1880, 94,716. Not much decline here.

The figures show also that in the five Western cities of Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, and St. Louis the Congregational churches doubled themselves in twenty-five years, and the increase in membership is nearly fourfold.

A vital religious body will continually reproduce itself in an able and learned ministry. The figures that we have already given show that Congregationalism, notwithstanding the rapid growth of its new enterprises, keeps its ranks good in this respect. And more. It generously gives many of its choice men to other denominations, not to speak of a bright, but ill-balanced, doubter whom it now and then throws off into the ranks of unbelief. But more than this. The evangelistic spirit of the day finds many of its most eminent workers among the Congregationalists. This body furnishes more than its quota of the men, who, like Moody, Whittle, and others, win the respect of even unbelievers by the thoroughly earnest way in which they go down among the masses to help and to save them.

But a higher test even than these of a Christian vitality is the benevolence of a denomination—its going out from itself in helpful endeavor to bring good to the degraded and the lost. Now, if there is anything wrought into the very frame-work of our body, anything distinctive in the outworking of its spirit, it is just this. There are noble givers in all the denominations, and among men of no denomination. But which of them can show three persons who alone, in the last few years, have given $3,000,000 for Christian education and Christian missions? Is there a society anywhere outside of the Congregationalists that can compare with the American Missionary Association in its work for the higher education among the freedmen? And we think that even these, our critics, can hardly fail to admire the grand magnanimity of our people in giving from $300,000 to $400,000 a year to this society, when they know that nine-tenths of the products of its work will go, to swell the numbers and increase the power of other denominations. If there be a religious institution in this land honored above all others in the eyes of Christendom it is the American Board, through which the Congregationalists carry on their work of foreign missions. This board reflects honor upon the Nation at large. Even in the diplomatic circles of Europe it is held in high repute. Through it our people belt the globe with their missions and bind to themselves in faith and holy endeavor the whole race of mankind. These societies, and others like them, engaged in home evangelistic work, show, more than anything else, the interior life of the denomination. And it is a growing life. Never were these organizations more intensely vital than today. Never were they more successful. And the masses of our people put a larger supply of heart and money into them than ever before.

In fact, this whole arraignment of our denomination is based upon the flimsiest of delusions. "Manifestly dying out." "The life departing from it." The wish is father to the thought. In the whole bushel there is scarcely a grain of truth. Eighty years ago unbelief had 76 per cent of our population and the evangelical faiths but 25 per cent. Today the proportions are more than reversed. They who hold the beliefs of the Gospel number 82 per cent, while the class to which our maligners belong has dwindled to a pitiable 18 per cent. The Congregationalists share with the other Christian bodies in this magnificent advance. If there be timid ones let them be reassured. He that believeth need not make haste. We walk about our Zion with an honest pride. We tell the towers thereof, and mark well its bulwarks, in the sure faith that it will stand unshaken by any assault of its enemies. For this God, the God of our fathers, is our God for ever and ever.

GENERAL NOTES.

A project is on foot for uniting in one body the various Methodist sects in Canada.

A religious paper makes the statement that one in every five persons in the United States is a member of some evangelical church, and one in every fifty-six is a Sabbath-school teacher.

Mr. Moody expresses his preference for circuses as preaching places, giving as a reason that those who build circuses have a better idea of how to reach an audience than those who build churches.

The dispute in the United Presbyterian Church over organs and organ music has broken out anew with fresh bitterness. The conflict will probably last as long as the principal disputants shall live.

The Oak Park Congregational Church received ten members last Sunday. The interesting thing about it was that they were five men and their wives, and they came from several different denominations.

The English Church has established a Christian mission at Gaza, a town which reaches further back than the call of Abraham. It was on the way to Gaza that Philip baptized the eunuch of Ethiopia.

The Illinois Yearly Meeting of Friends, composed of subordinate meetings in Illinois and Iowa, commence their annual session today and continue for one week at Clear Creek, Putnam County, Illinois, for the transaction of such business as pertains to the society.

The annual meeting of the American Missionary Association will be held in Cleveland Oct. 24 to 26. It is expected that ex-President R. B. Hayes will deliver an address, also the Rev. A. Haygood, of Georgia, and the Rev. H. M. Ladd, who has for a year been exploring in Africa, will make a report of his work there.

The population of New Mexico is 125,000. Of these about 120,000 call themselves Catholics. There are, according to a recent estimate, 200 Presbyterians, 200 Israelites, and 100 Baptists. Several of the Protestant denominations are putting forth missionary efforts in New Mexico, but as yet with no success that can be called encouraging.

The trouble that has been brewing for some time among the Dunkards has grown ripe at last, and suits have been commenced at Chambersburg, Pa. The young people of the community who want to dress as other people do, have musical instruments and the like, claim to be the real church, and ask the court to put them in possession of its property.

The Hebrew congregations of New York City are making great preparations for their coming New-Year's holidays, which, according to their calendar, begin on the 14th of this month. The year which will then open will be 5643, as reckoned from the record of the fitting up of the world for its present inhabitants, recorded in the opening of the Book of Genesis.

Plymouth Church will reopen for public service today, the Rev. K. C. Anderson, of Oshkosh, Wis., one of the most interesting preachers of the Northwest, officiating. Those who have ever heard Mr. Anderson will be pleased to attend his ministrations for the two Sundays he will "hold the fort" at Plymouth Church. The auditorium has undergone a beautiful transformation in the way of frescoing, painting, and carpeting.

The English Lutheran Church, corner of Chicago avenue and Sedgwick street, has made such progress that its regular organization has been effected in electing its officers, who will be installed today, when the Lord's Supper will be administered and new members received. The pastor, the Rev. Lee M. Heilman, will soon transfer his synodical relations from the synod of East Pennsylvania, to unite with the Northern Synod of Illinois, with which the congregation expects to unite. The Sunday-school already comfortably fills the place of worship.

The following notice has been sent to the local unions from the headquarters of the Illinois W. T. C. U.: "In view of the various interests centering in our State meeting at Carlinville, and the important decisions which must then be made, will not our local unions throughout the State devote their Gospel meeting on Sunday, the 17th, to prayer that Divine guidance may be manifest in all its proceedings? Let those unions which have no regular Sunday meeting appoint a prayer-meeting on Sunday afternoon for the same purpose. Pray, dear sisters, that the hand which has hitherto led and helped us may shape all our decisions, and that the Holy Spirit may inspire all our counsels."

The Centennial Baptist Church building, corner of West Jackson and Lincoln streets, has been thoroughly overhauled during the vacation of the pastor, the Rev. A. K. Parker. The gallery and partitions forming the study and infant class rooms were taken out, thus making the seating capacity of the main congregational room one-fourth larger. The platform for speaker and choir is much improved, the inside throughout was newly frescoed in tasty patterns, the heating furnaces renewed, the large room reseated and newly carpeted, so that the church presents a new and progressive appearance. The pastor has just returned from his vacation, and the building will be formally opened today with appropriate services.

The pastor of a large church in Avondale, one of the suburbs of Cincinnati, recently determined to stimulate the zeal of his rather lukewarm congregation in a new way. He accordingly placed a box at a convenient point, and invited his people to drop into it during the week questions upon any subject which interested or perplexed them, promising to answer their inquiries as best he was able at the Wednesday evening meeting. The night came, the questions were read, discussed, and answered to the manifest pleasure and instruction of those present. This exercise was repeated on several successive Wednesday evenings, the questions showing a singularly thoughtful and intelligent interest in spiritual subjects. At last, to the surprise of all, the pastor announced that the exercise would be discontinued. He then went on to explain that the inquiries had all been propounded by himself, no member of the congregation having placed a single question in the box.

The tenth annual convention of the Illinois Young Men's Christian Association, which meets at Jacksonville Oct. 5 to 8, promises to be the largest gathering of the kind yet held. About 200 delegates will be in attendance. Among those who will be present to aid in the discussions will be Robert Weidensall, Western Secretary of the International Committee, who has given fourteen years to labor among young men; L. D. Wishard, College Secretary of the International Committee, who has organized nearly 150 college associations in the last four years; L. W. Munhall, State Secretary of Indiana; W. E. Lewis, State Secretary of Wisconsin; Walter C. Douglas, General Secretary of the St. Louis Association; besides many experienced workers throughout this State, including the Hon. John V. Farwell and C. H. McCormick Jr., of Chicago. The Rev. J. H. Brookes, D. D., of St. Louis, well known throughout the country, is expected. Entertainment will be provided for all, and reduced fare on all the railways. Any young man wishing to attend can secure a program and full particulars by addressing W. W. Vanarsdale, Y. M. C. A. Building, Chicago, Ill.

ST. MALACHI'S CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The corner-stone of St. Malachi's Roman Catholic Church, at the corner of Western avenue and Walnut street, will be laid this afternoon at 3 o'clock with appropriate ceremonies by Archbishop Feehan. The new building, which is of solid stone throughout, is 122 feet long by sixty-five feet wide, and when completed will seat about 700 people. It is to be built in the open English Gothic style of architecture, having an open timber roof, the trusses having arched cords. The walls will be sixteen feet from the level of the street to the eaves, and fifty feet to the ridge of the roof. At the northwest corner of the building will rise a tower of handsome proportions. The altar will be situated at the east end of the building, and there will be a sacristy at each side of it. There will also be transepts on both sides, having windows with appropriate tracery. All the windows will be handsome stained glass. It is expected that the church will be ready for occupation by Dec. 1. The Rev. Father Hodnett is pastor.

The various military and civic societies intending to participate in the ceremony will meet at Market Square, West Randolph street, at 1:30 sharp. The benevolent and temperance societies will form on the south side of Randolph street, fronting on Halsted. The Hibernian Rifles and A. O. H. Divisions 1 to 28 inclusive on the north side of Randolph street, fronting on Halsted. The line of march will be north on Halsted to Lake, west on Lake to Western avenue, north on Western avenue to the church. William Kirby, Grand Marshal; Aids, John Connell, William Quinlan, James Bradley, Christopher Cummins, John Byrne, Michael McCarthy, James Conway, Michael O'Malley, William Curran, and Joseph Cahill.

PERSONAL.

Evangelist Harrison is said to charge from $100 to $200 a week and board for his services at camp-meetings and revivals.

The pastor of the Congregational Church in Desplaines will resign his charge there Oct. 1 to accept a call to Blair, Neb.

The Rev. J. F. Loba has resigned as pastor of the Congregational Church in Kewanee, Ill., and gone to Olivet College, Michigan.

The Rev. J. L. Robertson, of Cleveland, O., has received a unanimous call to become pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Courtland, N. Y.

The Rev. Mr. Green, of Raleigh, N. C., recently passed 140 persons through the baptistry, fully dipping and blessing each one, in seventy minutes.

The Rev. C. Perren, of the Western Avenue Baptist Church, has returned from his European trip, much improved in health. He had an enjoyable time while abroad.

The Rev. J. H. Obensham, former pastor of the Methodist Church at Atlanta, Ill., is said to have eloped with a young woman, leaving a wife and five children entirely unprovided for.

Dr. Joseph W. Taylor, a Quaker, has left $700,000 to found an institution for the education of women at Bryn Mawr, near Philadelphia, to be under the control of the Quakers.

The Rt.-Rev. Edward Steeve, LL. D., Bishop of Central Africa, died recently at the age of 55. He was the author of several theological works, and translated the Gospel into African languages.

Archbishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, notwithstanding his advanced age, still enjoys excellent health. Should he live another year, he will celebrate the fiftieth or golden anniversary of his elevation to the Episcopacy of the Catholic Church.

A second council for the installation of the Rev. F. A. Thayer as pastor over the Congregational Church at Quincy, Ill., is called to meet Sept. 19. Nine States are to be represented, more than fifty churches, and a number of prominent ministers are invited.

SUNDAY SMILES.

Probably when Adam went out of the apple business, Eve went in for a fall bonnet.

Says Michelet: "Woman is the Sunday of man." Fogg says Sunday is always a tiresome day.—Boston Transcript.

"Heaven," said the preacher, "never helps a man who will not act." And then he wondered why so many of his congregation were stage-struck.

"I suppose it just means that he hired 'em out," was the reply of a small Sunday-school child when asked what was meant by the expression, "And the King rent his clothes."

Mary: Oh, mem, I'm so glad I've met you! I've been and posted my prayer-book instead of your letter. Can I tell them they shan't have the letter until they give me my prayer-book back?—Moonshine.

"Yes, sir," said the Louisville man, "I argued with Ingersoll for four hours, and made him admit that a man could be in hell." And the Louisville man didn't understand why the listeners laughed.

Recipe for angels: "Mamma, what makes angels?" asked a little boy who had been reading of the heavenly inhabitants. The mother glanced out into the orchard, and with a warning look solemnly replied: "Unripe fruit, my dear."

A friend from Rome informed Mrs. Ramsbotham that among other things he had recently seen Cardinal Lavigerie take possession of his titular Church of "St. Agnes-Without-the-Walls." "Saint Agnes without the walls?" exclaimed Mrs. Ram. "How on earth is the roof kept up?"—Punch.

Not long ago a venerable Scotch elder was obliged one Sabbath to walk several miles to get to the kirk; he was accompanied by a young man, who, when they had proceeded for an hour in silence, ventured to remark that it was "a grand day," whereupon quoth the other, "Whist, mon; is the Lord's day a suitable time to be clavering about the weather?"—London Truth.

A mischievous little colored boy in Missouri, who, although he loves to steal, has has had the advantage of a limited amount of Sunday-school education, was caught in the watermelon patch and was taken before the overseer to be thrashed. "What were you there for?" asked the overseer. "I wasn't stealing your melons," was the answer, "I was prayin'." "Prayin', were you! Well, I want to hear you pray now. Down on your knees and get at it. Pray, or you'll get the cowhide." The boy saw he was cornered, but his wit saved him. Kneeling down he raised his eyes and clasped hands toward heaven and offered the following petition: "Lord, dismiss us with thy blessing." The thrashing was dispensed with and the little rascal went away, grinning all over his face.

FOUND.

For The Chicago Tribune.

Only a girl! And so fair!
Water dripping from golden hair—
Clinging robes on a slender form.
'Twould make the heart of an old monk warm
Just to look at the perfect grace
Of her rounded limbs and lovely face.
Shed a tear
Over her bier:
Only a girl!

How came she there? Who can tell?
If I only knew how she fell
From an angel one could die to win,
Into such depths of grief and sin,
I would tell you why she could not live.
God knows, and He too can forgive.
Smooth the bands—
Fold the hands
Over her breast!

And how came I to find her here?
'Twas night, and I sat on the pier
To watch the moon rise o'er the lake.
It seemed a silvery path to make
To purer, lovelier, heavenly climes.
The waves' low ripples were like chimes
Of vesper-bell,
Or ocean-shell,
Heard in a dream.

She seemed to see the pathway there;
Her eyes were heavy with despair;
And, ere I thought to fear, she hurled
Herself and misery out of the world.
The waves closed swift above her head—
Then wafted her ashore, all breathless, dead!
O how beautiful!
O how pitiful!
She hath found rest! ALLEN.

REAL ESTATE.

A Quiet Week, But Great Activity in Prospect.

Probable Location of the New United States Rolling-Mills.

Alleged Sale of the North-Shore Road to the Milwaukee & St. Paul.

Building Operations Being Rapidly Pushed Forward—New Permits.

Real Estate Boomlets from Lake View, Evanston, and Hyde Park.

The Market.

The past week was one of the quietest during the summer in a real estate way so far as actual transfers were concerned, but at the same time it was one of the most active, judged from a prospective standpoint. There was a notable increase in inquiry for both residence and acre property, the latter of which was somewhat of a surprise to dealers, it being generally believed that acre property would remain quiet at least until spring.

THE GARFIELD TRACT.

In this connection an item in last Sunday's TRIBUNE may be explained. The item was to the effect that a prominent dealer had offered the owner of thirty-six acres near Garfield $85,000 for the property, and it was also stated that several brokers doubted the report. It now transpires that the offer was made by Chicago parties to the owner, Mr. D. S. Morgan, of New York, through E. S. Dreyer & Co., a part of the money being offered down, and the balance in one, two, and three years at 6 per cent interest. The offer was declined by Mr. Morgan in a letter received last week. Then Messrs. Dryer & Co. wrote again offering $80,000, all cash, for the property, but an answer has not been received. The gentlemen who are after the land purpose subdividing it if their offer is accepted. The tract lies between North avenue and Humboldt boulevard. Another dealer has made an offer for a tract nearly as large not far from this tract which he thinks will be accepted, but the price named cannot now be given.

One dealer who was seen yesterday found cause for the existing lack of activity in the general market in the fact that home as well as outside capitalists have been attacked by the Western grazing and farming land fever, in which large investments are being made by them. But he thought that they would again be attracted by Chicago property ere they had spent all of their ready cash, and that the market would soon regain its old vigor.

UNITED STATES ROLLING MILLS.

Brokers and others interested in South Chicago property were considerably agitated over the rumor that the United States Rolling Stock Company had decided upon the location for their new works near South Chicago, and that the President of the company would be in the city in a few days to conclude arrangements for the commencement of operations on the proposed new buildings. Nearly every man on the street had heard the rumor, but although many of them were interested in adjacent property none were able to say that the rumor was authentic. Late in the afternoon a TRIBUNE reporter called upon Mr. Jarrett, the manager of the company in this city, and questioned him regarding the rumor. Mr. Jarrett said he had heard nothing of the matter, but that had the location been decided upon he certainly would have been informed of the fact. He had not heard from the President for several days, and he did not know that he intended visiting Chicago for some time. At present, Mr. Jarrett said, the President was engaged on the plans for the buildings for the new works, and until they were complete he had no idea that he would come to Chicago. It was learned last evening from a measurably reliable source that the company had about concluded to take the 400 acres of the Forsythe tract and, in conjunction with other capitalists, carry out the East Chicago scheme, with the exception of the Belt-Line Road, which would be abandoned. It was also said by the same gentleman that the President of the company would be in Chicago during the present week.

THE NORTH SHORE ROAD.

The statement is made on pretty reliable authority that on last Thursday W. C. Goudy and others, incorporators of the Chicago & Evanston Railroad, better known as the North Shore line, had transferred the charter to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Company, and that the latter corporation would begin at once the construction of the line. During the week the right of way through Calvary Cemetery was secured, and with the exception of one or two small tracts the entire right of way from Chicago avenue and Larrabee street to South Evanston, by way of Hawthorne and Southport avenues. A reporter called on Mr. Goudy in the afternoon to ascertain what truth there was in the statement. The gentleman very promptly replied: "I can't tell you—that is, I could tell you, but I am not at liberty to divulge the business of the road." Mr. Chandler, of the St. Paul Company, had heard nothing of the transfer, but it was not a matter that he would be likely to know of except in a casual way. It is pretty generally known that the St. Paul has been anxious for competition to Evanston with the Northwestern for some time, and there is little doubt that the transfer has been effected, and that the road will be soon built.

THE SUMMER-HOTEL PROJECT.

The gentlemen who have in hand the project of erecting a summer-hotel on the beach south of the city say that matters are progressing favorably and that unless some misfortune befals the structure will be well under way before many weeks. The plans are being drawn, and they promise one of the finest resort hotels in the country. Alvin Hulbert, late of the Sherman House, is interested in the scheme.

TRANSFERS.

The following are some of the more important transfers recorded during the week:

West Madison st, 159 ft w of Canal, w f, 39¾x189 ft, dated Sept. 1 (William Proctor to F. E. Spooner), $22,000.

Total number of transfers, 842; total values, $3,015,311. Of these 842 transfers 689 were for properties ranging in price from $200 to $4,000, showing the present movement in reality is largely indebted to the disposition of the people to acquire homes and escape rentals.

AUCTION.

The auction of a North Side corner, advertised on our first page, though only for one piece of property, excites much interest amongst those who want a fine residence site. Its location, fronting south on Chicago avenue just where Rush street turns westward, gives its entire south and southwest fronts a full view down Rush street, and the many beautiful improvements now about reaching it give this particular corner a peculiar value.

Building Operations.

The pleasant weather of the week just past gave building operations a new impetus and enabled contractors to regain the time they had lost on account of the rough weather of the few previous weeks. All of the large buildings now under way made excellent progress, and with the exception of the new Board-of-Trade building nearly all of them will be under cover before winter comes upon them. The most important work begun was the breaking of ground for a new building on La Salle street just south of Monroe, which will be five stories high and used for offices. The work of constructing Mr. Borden's new building on Randolph street will probably be begun this week.

BUILDING PERMITS.

There was no falling off in the demand for building permits during the week, although few of the permits were for large buildings. A few of the more important grants issued were as follows:

S. B. Williams, four-story flats, 55x70 feet, Nos. 113 and 115 Locust street, $35,000.
F. Leon, two-story flats, 30x55 feet, on Ewing street, near Fulton, $4,000.
J. B. Belouradsky, two-story dwelling, 20x53 feet, No. 864 Ashland avenue, $4,000.
D. Casey, two-story store and dwelling, 44x63 feet, No. 2516 Halsted street, $6,000.
F. Kohel, two-story dwelling, 22x60 feet, No. 123 Townsend street, $4,000.
H. Vollrath, two-story dwelling, 25x88 feet, No. 789 Twenty-first street, $6,000.
F. Heinze, two-story dwelling, 44x49 feet, No. 181 Superior street, $5,000.
The Rev. T. H. Skinner, two-story dwelling, 40x38 feet, No. 1038 North Halsted street, $7,000.

BUILDING COTTAGES.

In the course of an article on building operations in the city, the Building Journal says: "No stronger argument exists in favor of the fire ordinance than the stimulus given to cottage-building by the flat refusal of the Council (passed under pressure of public opinion) to modify that measure. While there was a hope for frame structures within the limits many held back who have, since it vanished, built themselves a house to live in. Nearly 400 cottages costing less than $5,000 and more than $2,000 have been constructed or built within the past three months. The single residences, costing from $5,000 to $15,000 each, number nearly 200. Many of the structures within these figures are flats. Seventy buildings, ranging in cost from $10,000 to $20,000, have been built; thirty-five from $20,000 to $30,000; twenty-five from $30,000 to $35,000; ten from $35,000 to $50,000; four costing over $50,000; and three costing $75,000 and upwards. A total of nearly 700 permits were granted, which means over 1,000 tenements."

CHURCHES AND OTHER BUILDINGS.

There is considerable activity at present in church building throughout the city, and there are rumors of the erection of at least two new churches that cannot now well be given. Among the permits granted by the Building Department during the week was one to build, at a cost of $30,000, the new Trinity Lutheran Church, Nos. 398 and 400 La Salle avenue. It will be Gothic, in pressed brick and stone, with clere-story, and will be worthy of its elegant architectural surroundings. Work is to be pushed.

Architect James R. Willett has completed arrangements for the erection of St. Malachi's Roman Catholic Church at Western avenue and Walnut street, to cost $20,000. It will be of brick, in the Gothic style, with stone finish.

It is understood that the rector and Vestry of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, opposite Jefferson Park, will take initial measures this fall for a handsome new church. Every pew in the present edifice is rented.

Active work was prosecuted this week on the Ascension and St. Thomas' Episcopal Churches. The corner-stone of the former will be laid in about ten days.

St. Barnabas' Episcopal Mission, near the western limits, is to have a new church, costing $5,000. Land worth $1,800 was recently given as the site.

ST. MARY'S TRAINING-SCHOOL.

Gregory Vigeant, the architect, has finished plans for the proposed St. Mary's Training-School to be erected at Feehanville, named in honor of the present Archbishop, not far from Desplaines. At present only the north and south wings will be built, but the plans will permit future extensive additions. They show in the centre a circular building one-story high and 125 feet in diameter. In the middle is the dressing-room, circular in shape, and opening off from this are several dining-rooms, each isolated and communicating by covered ways with an outlying building, the home of a particular class of boys. Of these outlying buildings, which run out like spokes from a hub, there are five, and the occupants are classified according to their behavior, the worst and most incorrigible occupying "the place of goats"—the left. Each of these outposts is 40x80, with two stories, cellar, and attic, and will give a home to 100 of the street waifs, the only residents of St. Mary's aside the Christian Brothers, their instructors. In front of the whole establishment, and forming a façade quite imposing by reason of its length, will be the administration building, with offices for the management, a fine gothic chapel, and school-rooms. The hight will be three stories and attic, and a cross-tipped central elevation will suggest a tower. The school, probably, would be between the grade of academy and the usual public school, and by its attention to applied science well adapted to turn the street-gamin into a self-supporting artisan.

The total cost of the works is not computed. A sufficient sum is on hand to finish two of the "homes," as the detached buildings will indeed prove to the roofless street-boys, and as soon as they can be completed this fall they will receive each 100 inmates from the present overcrowded city quarters somewhere in Bridgeport. To forward the completion of the home the Archbishop has given $5,000 from his own purse.

Architect Vigeant has also finished drawings for the priest's house adjoining St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic Church, Stock-Yards. The plans, calling for an expenditure of $10,000, will be materialized forthwith in brick and stone, and Father Dorney will probably be at home in the new and fine rectory by Easter.

Lake View Real Estate.

The real-estate market has been very active all through the dull season of the year, and the demand for choice residence lots, as well as those suitable for people of moderate means, has been better than during any previous season. The records at the Register's office show that a large number of sales are being made. During the month of August 105 sales are recorded, and during the first nine days of this month thirty-six. Mr. S. B. Chase has sold what is known as the "Saddle-Rock" Smith property on the corner of Lake View avenue and Surf street, to C. E. Culver, of the Board of Trade, for $4,200. The lot is 67x185. Mr. Culver now owns the entire corner from the Lake-Shore drive to the lake, and it is one of the finest building sites around Chicago. Mr. L. Hesselrath has bought fifty feet on Barry avenue at $45 per foot. Mr. H. W. Rogers Jr. has bought fifty feet on the corner of Surf street and Waubun avenue, and Col. Luther H. Peirce has purchased the seventy-seven feet adjoining on the east. The property is located just across the street from Mr. Crawford's fine residence, and only one block from the park and Lake-Shore drive. Mr. Peirce is going to improve during the fall. Mr. F. L. Baldwin has sold the Greenleaf homestead on Melrose street, which he purchased only a few weeks ago, to Adolph Schoeninger, and Mr. George F. Blanke has sold to the same gentleman 100 feet at $30 per foot adjoining the above on the east. Mr. Baldwin has also sold Mr. Harmon's residence on Melrose street to J. F. Stodder for $5,000. Mr. J. J. Hoch has sold Mr. Baldwin ninety-seven feet, south front, on Melrose street, and he will immediately improve the property. W. D. Kerfoot & Co. have sold during the past week nine lots in what is known as Wrightwood. Mr. Charles Lindeman has sold two lots in his new subdivision at the corner of Sheffield and Belmont avenues. The McConnell Brothers report the sale of three lots on Wellington, Sheffield, and George streets. Albert Wisner and S. C. Gross & Co. also report a number of sales in the vicinity of Lincoln avenue. The great majority of these lots are bought for immediate improvement, and as a consequence building operations are very brisk all over the town, and many of which are of a neat and substantial character.

Evanston Property Interests.

The increasing demand for first-class suburban homes is nowhere more fully indicated than in this university town. The past twelve months have been prolific from an architectural standpoint, since the number of choice dwellings, costing from $5,000 to $15,000, which have been erected is strikingly noticeable even in a hasty survey of the principal avenues. Many of these houses vie with each other in elegance of design; some are unique, and all substantial and pleasing in effect.

Public projects have kept pace with the residence growth, the new primary school building on the west ridge being a model of its kind and a striking contrast to the stereotyped form of such structures adopted hitherto. The plans of the Township High School are complete, and if bids are promptly secured the foundation will be laid this fall. The location of this school west of the railway has seemingly introduced a neglected quarter, which is likely to grow in favor, and neighboring improvements to the school site are already commenced. To render this school more accessible, the opening of Dempster and Hamilton streets has been determined by the Village Trustees. The proposed extension of the Lake-Shore drive through the university grounds to the water-works is assuming definit shape, and the South Evanston authorities are disposed to take up the work whenever it shall be completed to their borders. This charming drive will be one of the popular attractions. The Village Improvement Society, whose works in the matter of trees and parks are notable, have some plans maturing which will be shortly announced.

Without vacant houses to offer new comers, it is not surprising that values of property are very firm, and late negotiations indicate increasing strength. A lot on Chicago avenue, near Church street, sold for $52.50 per foot cash. Another on Hinman, near Davis, at $60, and $80 was declined for a corner on Forest avenue.

Hyde Park Real Estate.

The real-estate dealers handling Hyde Park property report that while no noteworthy sales have been made during the past week, the inquiry for small lots for building purposes is strong. They say that they look forward to a good year, marked by stiff prices. There is no speculation in the market, but the principal purchasers are men who expect to build. The pleasant weather has encouraged building, and ground was broken for the foundations of a number of new houses last week. The rapidly increasing population in the town makes additional school accommodations in the near future a necessity. The School Board of District No. 1 has let to Shoening & Oehling, of South Chicago, for $17,600, the contract for the new school-house on Madison avenue at Grand Crossing. This provides for the erecting and inclosing of the building, which will be of brick, with buff limestone facings. It will be two stories and a basement, 80x72, with eight recitation-rooms each 30x26, with a total seating capacity of over 500. It will have a large central hall, cloak-rooms, teachers' rooms, will be heated by furnaces, and will be well ventilated. M. L. Beers is the architect. Turner & Bond report a great demand for 25x180-foot lots at Normal Park. They have sold 180 since August, 1881, and the demand is steadily increasing at $500 a lot. The purchasers are mainly clerks in search of a place to build. The Calumet & Chicago Canal & Dock Company continue to sell small lots at South Chicago, and report a good demand.

The Painter and the Beauty.

An eminent French painter was recently commissioned to paint the portrait of a lady who was once a famous beauty, but who is now nearly 50 years old and devoid of her former charms. She wanted it exhibited in this year's Salon, and fussed over it until the artist was nearly worn out with trouble. Then at last when it was finished she would not have it, saying that it was in no sense a likeness of her and could not be recognized as such. The artist consented to lose the expected payment and retain the picture in his studio as unsold. But there was blood in his eye, and he vowed a big vow to avenge the insult to his pride and the injury to his purse. So it came to pass that a few days before the private exhibition at the Salon word was conveyed to the capricious lady that perhaps it would be well for her to visit his studio, as there was a picture there that would interest her. She went, was admitted, and was shown the rejected canvas. There she still stood upon it, life-like and life-sized. But the artist had thinned her hair to semi-baldness, and in one of her hands she held two long tresses of false hair. Upon the table at her side, which he had changed into a toilet table, were ranged a number of bottles, labeled respectively with the words: "Milk of Lilies," "Beauty Water," "Elixir against Wrinkles," "Golden-hair Dye." The lady cried out that such treatment was infamous. "You have really no complaint, madam," said the artist. "You have already declared that the picture is in no sense a portrait of yourself. I accept your opinion, and, as I cannot afford to lose so much hard work, I have treated as a fantasie piece, and as such I shall introduce it to the public. I mean to call it 'The Coquet of Fifty Years.'" "What!" exclaimed she. "You mean to exhibit it?" "Without doubt." But the next moment saw her on her knees, check-book in hand, begging him to sell her the picture at a far higher price than was originally stipulated. Satisfied, he relented, accepted the payment, and obliterated the hateful accessories; and she took the picture home and a good lesson with it.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

The Trustees of the Town of Lake Score A Victory Against the Saloon-keepers.

Three more bills were filed Saturday by saloonkeepers against the Trustees of the Town of Lake to prevent them from interfering with their saloons. The parties are John B. Leich, Thomas F. Ryan, and Stephen Flaherty, all of whom have saloons in what is known as "the packing district." In this district no liquor is allowed to be sold, but the complainants have opened saloons and carried on business. They applied for licenses, which were refused, and then went on without them. The town authorities have repeatedly had them arrested for violation of the law, and now the saloonkeepers ask to be protected in their law-breaking. They claim there are other saloons in the prohibited district, and that it is unjust to discriminate against them. Applications were at once made to Judge Moran for temporary injunctions, and arguments were had. The Judge refused to grant any injunction because, first, the validity of the ordinance had not been attacked by any of the parties. A Court of Equity could not therefore interfere. It would be an extraordinary exercise of power on the part of the court to step in and say that the law should not be enforced. He was not prepared to say whether the ordinance of the Town of Lake which was in question, was valid, but thought it was. Under the law, the Trustees had the power to license and regulate and restrain the sale of liquor. There might be some question as to the meaning of the word "restrain," but he would construe it as equivalent to "prohibit." Hence the Board of Trustees undoubtedly had the right to prohibit the sale of liquor in any part of the town. The only question that could be raised would be as to the reasonableness of the prohibition. But it seemed reasonable to prohibit liquor selling in the packing-house district. The only proper remedy was by a petition for mandamus. It was not sufficient for a man to deposit his money with the Trustees for a license and then go on selling liquor, but he must absolutely get the paper first, or, if not, file a petition for a mandamus to compel the Trustees to give him a license. A man had no right to go on and violate the law by selling liquor without a license. The motion for injunction would, therefore, be overruled, and the bills be dismissed for want of equity. A similar order was made in the similar case of Fountain Young. Appeals were taken in all the cases to the Appellate Court.

Today's proceedings.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

85. Civil. Murphy vs. Riemenschneider; motion for leave to file briefs and abstracts allowed.

1. Civil. Bertrand vs. Walker; the court said this is a writ of error; there are fifty odd parties defendant and not served on at all; a few days ago an order was made striking the case from the docket, with leave to reinstate within a year. A motion is now made to set aside this order and quash the writ. The writ is "functus officio," and no proceedings under it will be valid. The motion is denied.

8. Riddle vs. Rosenfeld et al.; rehearing by a majority of this court. The petition is denied.

9. People's docket. Weiss et al. vs. The People. The defendant was fined $100 for keeping a gambling house in the court below and taken here. The practice act of 1877 allows appeals to the Appellate Court on cases of misdemeanor, and to the Supreme Court on cases of felony. This is clearly a case of misdemeanor, and should have gone to the Appellate Court. The appeal is dismissed.

4. People's docket. McGowan et al. vs. The People. Pending the hearing of this cause in this court on a writ of error the defendants, being held after conviction and sentenced to the penitentiary, broke jail and are now at large; the Attorney-General moves the writ of error be dismissed; ordered that if the defendants do not appear before the next term the writ be discharged.

VISIONS OF YOUTH.

For The Chicago Tribune.

The days have departed, the Springtime has passed,
But the beautiful visions of childhood still last—
Each pathway to brighten, each hope to inspire,
Diffusing new life into every desire.

How sweet were the hopes of those earliest years,
Enchanted with promise dispelling all fears!
In the noontide of manhood their memory shall be
A light that shall cheer thee on Life's restless sea.

The beauties of Springtime and Summer have passed;
The richness of Autumn is vanishing fast;
'Mid its joys and its pleasures, its care and its pain,
Those visions of childhood will ever remain.

And when, at the close of Life's Wintry day,
Its labors all ended, its powers fast decay,
The thought that shall banish all sadness and sorrow
Is eternal youth in the bright, glad Tomorrow!
CHICAGO. E. JAY SMITH.

A Little Idyl from a Resort.

Saratoga Letter in Baltimore Sun.

One of the marvels of Saratoga is a couple from the South, who have been regular visitors for fourteen seasons. These two have been married twenty-four years, but the wife still addresses the husband as "dear," and he still calls her "darling," and is quite as attentive and deferential to her as he is to the wives of other men. They are both affable and sociable, fond of company, but they always are together, and always enjoy everything in common. The weary husbands who are always inventing some excuse to avoid attendance on their families look at him with unbounded curiosity and surprise, while she is gazed upon with unconcealed envy by her less fortunate sisters. I must not omit to add, however, that this lady is wonderfully preserved both as to face and figure, dresses richly and in good taste, and her husband can take as much pride in her charms as when she was a coy maiden, twenty-five years ago. Perhaps if she had lost her beauty and freshness—but I will not spoil this little idyl.

Or rich and poor, if you're not won
To brush your teeth with SOZODONT
You'll one day suffer deep remorse,
For soon they'll crumble in decay,
And soon you'll cry, "Oh, lack-a-day,
That I had never changed my course."

Matrimonial Events.

A very quiet wedding occurred Thursday last, Sept. 7, at high noon, at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 4008 Cottage Grove avenue, the contracting parties being Mr. James W. Harrison, connected with the firm of Fowler Brothers, and Miss Nellie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Daniels. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. F. Fleetwood, rector of St. Mark's Church. The presents were numerous and beautiful. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison took the 3:15 train for Geneva Lake, and on their return will be at home to their friends at No. 3243 Vernon avenue Thursdays in October.

At the residence of her parents, No. 30 St. Johns place, Wednesday evening, the 6th inst., Miss Lou K. Palmer was married to Mr. Charles I. Crow, of Clarence, Ia., the Rev. Dr. Thomas officiating. The wedding was quiet, only the immediate friends being invited. After refreshments were served, Mr. and Mrs. Crow started for their future home at Clarence.

Miss Christiana Moiser and Mr. Adam McAuley were united in marriage Wednesday evening last at the Church of the Epiphany, Throop street, between Monroe and Adams, by the Rev. T. N. Morrison. The bride was dressed in white satin, trimmed with Spanish lace, and a veil looped with orange blossoms here and there. The bridesmaid, Miss Alice Moiser, sister of the bride, was dressed in garnet satin, trimmed with Spanish lace. The groomsman was James E. Jardine, cousin of the groom. The ushers were Will N. Flight, Henry Wilson, and William Huffmaster. After the ceremony the bride and groom returned to their future home, and will be "at home" to their friends at No. 43 Winchester avenue.

Wednesday evening last at Effingham, Ill., a wedding occurred of very considerable interest in that enterprising city—the marriage of Mr. Harry A. Clem, the ticket agent of the Illinois Central Railroad at Twenty-second street station with the accomplished Miss Louise E. Geary, daughter of the late Prof. Gustavus Geary, formerly of this city. The marriage ceremony took place at the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, by the Rev. R. H. Manier, at 7 o'clock in the evening. The church was elegantly decorated with flowers, with a triumphal arch over the pastor's platform. The bridal party entered the church under the escort of Mr. Benson Wood, Mayor of the city, and Mr. S. W. Osgood, and were followed by Miss Mattie Gilmore and Miss Emma L. Feagans as bridesmaids, with Mr. Tony Underreiner and Mr. Frank Blair as groomsmen. Mrs. Sarah E. Geary, mother of the bride, leaning upon the arm of her son, Mr. John Geary, who at the marriage ceremony gave the bride away. After the ceremony a reception was tendered the newly-married couple, where they received the congratulations of their numerous friends. The party set down to a sumptuous supper, after which the evening was passed with select readings and speeches from the bride, the accomplished Miss Mollie Gilmour, Mr. Frank Blair, and others. The presents were numerous and embraced everything useful, chaste, and elegant. At 11:20 p. m. the newly-married pair boarded the train to the watering-places of the East, where they will pleasantly spend three or four weeks in the enjoyment of their honeymoon. The event was regarded as the most pleasant occasion ever enjoyed by the residents of Effingham. Among the residents present were Mr. and Mrs. Benson Wood, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. Painter, Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell, the Misses Ada and Mary Moore, the Rev. and Mrs. Manier, Mr. and Miss Gilmour, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hartwell of Casey, Ill., Mrs. M. J. Clem, mother of the groom, and Mrs. E. L. Doyle, sister of the groom, all of Greenup, Ill., and Mrs. L. E. Griggs of Hooptown, Ill. Among the guests from Chicago were the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McClure, Mrs. Smith, sister to the bride; Mrs. Ray, Miss Emma L. Feagans, Mrs. C. A. Pulcifer, Miss Emma Laparle, and Mr. John Roche.

The engagement is announced of Dr. Charles C. Beery, of this city, to Miss Mamie Maxwell, a well-known society belle of Eastern Ohio and a graduate of Painesville University.

St. Bernard's Trip.

Leaving their asylum Monday last at 7 p. m., escorted by thirty-six of the Oriental Consistory and Lyon & Healy's Band, the St. Bernard Commandery marched on Clark street to Lake, thence to Dearborn, to Monroe, to Wabash avenue, to Twelfth street, and to the depot of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, where they were met by numerous prominent Sir Knights of various commanderies, the wives of many of the Sir Knights, and invited guests. The special train of five sleepers, one reclining-chair car, and one coach, under the direct supervision of William Hill, Esq., General Passenger Agent of the road, left the depot promptly at 8 p. m., and arrived at Indianapolis at 4:30 the next morning. Immediately on the arrival of the train the drill corps was ordered to fall in. They proceeded to the depot restaurant and partook of a cup of coffee and a sandwich, then marched three miles to the exposition grounds, and after drilling for an hour they marched back to the New Denison Hotel, taking breakfast at 8 o'clock. After waiting some time in vain for the members of Raper Commandery to make themselves sociable, they finally hired carriages and proceeded to view the city, which undertaking would have been far more agreeable had the streets been sprinkled this summer. As it was, dust was very plentiful and anything but agreeable. At 2 p. m. the St. Bernards started for the drill grounds alone, none of the Rapers showing up to escort them. The Raper Commandery drilled first, the audience continually applauding their pet Sir Knights during their drill whether the movements were well executed or not, the wheeling movements being very poor. Their marching was good in form but slow in movement. The sword manual was poor, and the appearance of the command was not near so fine as was that of St. Bernard. By the time the recall was given (by bugle) the Raper Commandery had failed to give six movements on the programs owing to the slowness in giving and executing the commands. When the St. Bernards, headed by Lyon & Healy's Band, appeared, they were loudly applauded. After the band had left the drill corps in company front on the field, the band, in marching off the field, formed a Greek cross, and marched in such fine shape that they received rounds of cheers. The drill of St. Bernard was a surprise to all who witnessed it on account of the quick, soldierly snap exhibited in the execution of all commands. For the first five minutes the audience applauded their movements, and after that it was so evident that the St. Bernards were drilling so much better than their pet commandery that on looking at the vast crowds despair was shown in their faces, and some ladies were noticed wiping their eyes on account of some Hoosier gentlemen remarking: "We have lost the banner." Among the Eminent Sir Knights and guests accompanying the St. Bernards were the following: H. H. Pond, Commander in Chief of Oriental Consistory; G. W. Barnard, Grand Recorder of Illinois; D. K. Crego, Captain-General of Apollo Commandery; John Woodman, Past Eminent Commander of St. Bernard; W. H. Whitbeck, Grand Treasurer of Illinois; J. A. Crawford, Past Eminent Commander of St. Bernard; W. T. Comstock, of Apollo Drill Corps; Henry D. Field, of Apollo Drill Corps; Tom Currier, Chief of Detectives, Chicago; C. S. Petrie, Secretary of Chicago Fire Department; Captain and Adjutant Laing, of First Regiment Infantry, I. N. G.; Capt. George H. Gibson, Inspector of Rifle Practice, First Regiment, I. N. G.; besides numerous Sir Knights of St. Bernard and other Chicago Commanderies. The following Sir Knights were accompanied by their wives: John B. Obermeyer, H. G. Purinton, W. H. McDaneld, J. J. Badenoch, E. S. Shaffer, T. D. Williams, C. L. Riggs, J. O. Dickenson, John Zimmerman, A. B. Height, John Woodman, and Newton Cannon. The victory was won by St. Bernard Commandery by the score of 367 against 323⅜ out of a possible 469. After the announcement of the judges at 8 p. m. at the New Denison Hotel, the members of the drill corps of St. Bernard, after exulting over their victory, entertained the Raper Commandery. The Eminent Commander of the Rapers requested Captain-General Purinton to send to their asylum for the prize banner, instead of sending his own Captain-General with it to the headquarters of the St. Bernards, as courtesy demanded. Then when the command left for the depot, at 10:30 p. m., not a Raper made his appearance to do escort duty, nor did any of them show up at the depot to bid them farewell. Owing to hot boxes the train did not arrive in Chicago until 10 o'clock. They were met by committees of the several commanderies of Chicago and escorted on State to Monroe, to Dearborn, to Madison, and to the handsome rooms of the Chicago Mercantile Club, which club entertained the commandery and their guests in right royal style. After disposing of the dry refreshments and during the discussion of wet diet, toasts were made and cheers given for Eminent-Commander J. B. Obermeyer, Eminent Sir Knight Montfort, Eminent Sir Knight Norman T. Gassette, Capt.-Gen. H. G. Purinton, the happy commander of St. Bernard Drill Corps; Capt. Frank B. Davis, and a toast was offered to Eminent John D. M. Carr, whose illness prevented his attendance, and the members of St. Bernard then proposed a toast to General-Passenger Agent William Hill, of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, who had done so much for the comfort and entertainment of the command on their trip. After cheering Lyon & Healey's Band the band gave several selections of music. Then the Drill Corps marched to their asylum, on doing which they gave several exhibitions of drilling which received immense applause, especially when passing the Board of Trade. Thus ended the victorious trip of the now champion Knights Templar Commandery of the United States.

In conclusion, perhaps, it is no more than just to pay a word of tribute to Eminent Commander John B. Overmyer. In a copy of the Adjutant-General's report of Pennsylvania, 1866, the following facts were found: On Sept. 27, 1861, at Lycoming, Pa., Sir Knight Overmyer, at the age of 19 years, entered the ranks of the old Eleventh Infantry, Pennsylvania Volunteers. Subsequently, falling into line of promotion, he was made Major of his regiment, and later, for gallant and meritorious services before Petersburg, Va., he was made Lieutenant-Colonel of Volunteers by brevet; and still later, for like services at the battle of Five Forks, Va., he was made Colonel of Volunteers by brevet. Maj. Overmyer, together with his regiment, was mustered out of service July 1, 1865.

Social Happenings.

The dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Chandler to the United States Consuls-General to Egypt and Spain, Messrs. George P. Pomeroy and Gustavus Goward, Saturday evening, Sept. 2, was an exceedingly brilliant event. It will pass into the history of Chicago's social life as the "Consuls' dinner." The ball-room was made the banqueting hall, and the table was in the form of an elipse, designed for twenty-five covers. On the centre was a miniature sea, containing rare shells, fragrant pond lilies, and lively goldfish. Two beautiful floral ships lay at anchor, the flags of Egypt and Spain respectively waving at their mastheads. Suspended under the chandelier was a floral globe, continents and oceans distinctly discernible, the Cities of Chicago, Madrid, and Cairo especially designated, and over all waved the Star Spangled Banner amidst the dahlias and smilax, which were intertwined to the ceiling. Roses, pinks, and maiden's tresses formed a wreath on the surface of the table, from which the guests selected their button-hole decorations. In the confectioner's art was a beautiful miniature Court of Lions after the palace of the Alhambra and an Egyptian obelisk in rougat, on which were inscribed the names of all the guests present, as well as those who sent regrets. Among the latter were the names of David Davis, Lucius Fairchild, Gen. Noyes, Robert Lincoln, Horace White, and S. S. Cox. The ices were served in orange-baskets after the Spanish style, and there were chocolate cream in forms of mummies à la Arabi Bey. Two cakes were in the form of the Sultan's turban and cushion. These and the mummies faintly resisted the attacks of the Christians on this occasion. The menu-cards were printed on white satin on which were exquisitly painted beautiful wreaths of flowers. On the exterior side were the flags of Egypt and Spain, under which were the names of the Consuls-General respectively. In the centre was the Goddess of Liberty standing on the globe, representing America, under which were the names of the host and hostess and the date, Sept. 2, 1882.

An ornamented card with the name of each guest was tied by cord and tassel to the folds of the satin.

On Thursday evening last a very pleasant and enjoyable party took place at the residence of Mrs. J. Warley, 319 West Van Buren street. It was given in honor of Mme. Malvina, the noted teacher of the ballet, who was a guest of Mrs. Warley while in the city during the engagement of Miss Margaret Mather at McVicker's. Mme. Malvina was the tutor of the minuet dance which was one of the leading features in the play of "Romeo and Juliet."

On the evening of Sept. 2 the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ford, of No. 348 Centre street, was celebrated in elegant style. The parlors were charmingly decorated with flowers, the dates 1857—1882, tastefully arranged in evergreen and smilax, being hung over the mantel. The presents were numerous and handsome, several particularly elegant ones coming from friends in Troy, N. Y., the former home of Mr. Ford. The accomplished daughters of the host and hostess added much to the pleasures of the guests. After merry congratulations, supper was served at 10 o'clock, and the evening thereafter was devoted to dancing. Among those present were Mrs. Boyce, Walter Boyce, Miss Whitemore of Kankakee, Mr. and Mrs. Gruby, Mr. and Mrs. L. Ely, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ely, Mrs. E. M. Lewis, Miss Bond, Miss Robinson, Messrs. Lambright, Sweet, Bond, Lewis, R. A. Ely, F. Buck, S. Buck, and Robins.

Last Tuesday night a complimentary farewell was tendered to Mr. Ike P. Levey at the residence of Mr. Joseph S. Abrahamson, prior to his departure for South Africa. Mr. Levey was the recipient of an elegant present bearing the monogram of the club, which was handed to him by the Treasurer with fitting remarks. Mr. Levey failed to respond, being overcome with feeling to part with the many friends assembled. After a bountiful repast and some very fine singing by Mr. Leon and Miss Jacobs and others, and some very fine recitations from Miss Blanca Pick, they parted, wishing the favorit comedian bon voyage. Mr. Levey will start for Liverpool Sunday, Sept. 10.

Quite an enjoyable event occurred at the residence of Mr. R. J. Bulliss, No. 154 South Peoria street, Sept. 1, it being the sixtieth anniversary of Mrs. Bulliss' birth. A magnificent collation was served to the guests, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Janes and son of Rochester, N. Y., Miss Addie Wrightman of Mohawk, N. Y., Miss A. Spencer of Kenosha, Wis., W. W. Anderson of Burlington, Ia., J. J. Anderson of Kentucky, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Avery and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fish, Mr. and Mrs. George Doig and daughter, and Aunt Lizzie Aiken, all of Chicago. The presents were numerous and handsome. Cream for the occasion was served by R. H. Fish.

Miss Alice Sundell very pleasantly entertained some sixty of her young friends Thursday evening last, Sept. 7, at the residence of her parents, No. 699 North Clark street, the occasion being the eighteenth birthday of the young hostess. The evening was agreeably spent in dancing, singing, and partaking of the refreshments which were served.

Cards of invitation in golden script and gilt-edged, were received in this city by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. David N. Laing to celebrate with them their golden wedding, Saturday evening, Sept. 9, at 8 o'clock, at their residence in Lapeer, Mich.

A most agreeable and genuine surprise was tendered to Mr. L. W. Fick at his home, No. 886 West Adams street. The host was presented with an easy chair by his many friends in honor of his 39th birthday. Fitzgerald's orchestra furnished new and good music for the occasion.

A pleasant party was given at the Farwell House in honor of a few guests, among whom were Mr. Mitchell and daughters, of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hayden entertained a number of their friends at their residence, No. 657 West Fulton street. Fitzgerald furnished music for the dancing, which was the feature of the evening. Refreshments were served at 10:30 o'clock.

A few days ago Mr. John Doyle, one of our prominent contractors, was made the recipient of an elegant gold watch and chain under circumstances which took him so much by surprise that he was hardly able to respond to the presentation-speech of Mr. J. J. O'Brien, his foreman, in behalf of Mr. Doyle's employés, who were present at the time, at the rooms of the Builders' Exchange, where the presentation occurred. After the presentation Mr. Doyle invited his men to a repast, where a few hours were spent most happily, showing on this occasion that perfect harmony existed between capital and labor.

The "T. C." Club assembled at the residence of E. Vincent Gale, of Oak Park. A delightful time was spent in dancing.

Miss Avordson was surprised Monday evening at her residence, No. 22 Winthrop place, by a large number of friends.

Mrs. Brockway entertained a small company Tuesday evening at her home, No. 587 West Washington street. Fitzgerald's Parlor Orchestra was present with excellent music.

The fifty-ninth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tuttle, at their residence, 757 West Van Buren street, Thursday evening, was a very enjoyable occasion, celebrated by a large number of friends, with tributes of congratulation and floral offerings to the aged couple, they being nearly 90 years of age. After the usual ceremonies Mr. Tuttle addressed the company in a clear and concise manner, relating many a pleasing incident of his journey on the road of time. One of the guests inquired which he found the easier, ascending or descending the hill? He said the latter had been a little smoother. Music of a fine selection was then rendered by H. L. Benham and others, after which the company were highly entertained by a song from the aged bridegroom. Refreshments were then served under the auspices of Mrs. C. C. Warren, the daughter of the host. Among those present were Superintendent I. Mowatt, Mrs. Mowatt, Miss Cora Mowatt, the Hon. L. Curtis, Mrs. Curtis, Miss Annie Thornton, Judge A. Clark, T. Farrier, United States Gager; United States Detective H. H. Hanshaw, Mrs. Hanshaw, Miss Sula Hanshaw, Col. S. P. Edwards, Miss Louisa Thayer, Mr. S. W. Edwards, Judge and Mrs. Wellington Warren, Capt. F. Lanterman, Mrs. Lanterman, Mr. and Mrs. Lane, Lieut. and Mrs. Homes, and many others.

The grounds are in fine condition, and the Committee of Arrangements are laboring zealously to make the day one long to be remembered. Fine music for dancing and games of all kinds will be the order of the occasion. The picnickers leave the Northwestern depot, Wells street, at 8:30. Ample refreshments served by a popular caterer.

Latest New York Modes.

New York Evening Post.

Cardinal-red velvet basques are worn with black skirts.

White Danish kid gloves of exaggerated length are worn by bridesmaids.

New French promenade dresses of dark green cloth are trimmed with several rows of very fine gold braid, put on straight.

Dark all-wool cheviots in fine heather mixtures, bright but very fine in combination, are selling in large quantities for fatigue costumes.

"Prune de monsieur," the new reddish shade of mauve, is a very fashionable color for dinner and reception dresses, combined with deep pansy-colored velvet.

Sailor-hats, trimmed with a wide band of ribbon, with some upright loops at one side, are the latest revival for young ladies' wear.

The small capote bonnets and French toques are still at the hight of style for elegant dress. They certainly have a more full-dress air than the wide-brimmed hat or poke bonnet.

In the arrangement of the coiffure heavy bangs, "Montagues," or thick rings of hair are now considered "bad form" by the most fashionable people, and only the lightest, babyish fluff of hair now shades the forehead.

Ribbon in velvet, moiré, and satin is worn in the greatest profusion on dresses and mantles as sashes, flat-bows for draping scarfs and tunics, papillon bows scattered over flounces and puffings, and loops pendant over kiltings, peeping from amid waves of lace or forming the edge to bodice and tunic.

Half-high bodices are coming rapidly into favor for evening wear. They are cut away about three inches from the neck all around, and are usually worn with lace or transparent, beaded sleeves, which reach to the gloves that quite cover the elbows, tan-colored mousquetaire gloves continuing still to be the hight of style.

For a fashionable church wedding, soon to take place, is a very becoming and suitable toilet for a lady in "half" mourning. The skirt is composed of black-lace flowers over white lace. The bodice and paniers are made of black moiré, the latter being very short, so that but little of the lace is hidden. En suite is a large black hat of fine English straw, faced with black velvet, the sole trimming around the crown being a wreath of pure white azaleas.

The ready-made light-woolen costumes for autumn wear are very attractive, both in quality and in price. Among these are pretty-striped beiges, combined with a monochrome color, and plain beiges in colors of pale silver-gray, réséda, fawn-color, terra-cotta, and ocean-blue, brightened by ruchings which show a gleam of scarlet or old gold in their facings. Skirts of plain woolen, with polonaises, habits, and tunics of woolen Pekin, with satin strips in Oriental coloring, also compose very ladylike costumes.

Some of the newly-imported polonaises are made with open bodices, square or heart-shaped, or in a long V, the point reaching to the belt. The opening is usually edged with a plaited ruching, or with embroidery or appliqué bands of beaded work. Underneath this opening is worn a plastron of velvet or chemisette of lace. The panier polonaise is still in high fashion, this model being in the shape of a pointed bodice with paniers applied by gagings or flat plaits laid over the hips.

A singular fashion is that of wearing officers' collars and cuffs of red embroidered with gold over walking jackets of cloth, surcot, or stockinet. But few ladies will venture to adopt this masculine feature of dress, and those who do will have to exercise the greatest care in not overdoing the matter in the selection of these two very conspicuous colors, the darkest of red and the least gaudy of gold being the correct shades. These embroidered "sets" have appeared mostly on coats of dark laurel-green cloth.

New Parisian corsages show the fronts of the basque continued into long panels, which reach nearly to the foot of the underskirt. This is a favorit style at present. A handsome model made in this way has an underskirt of royal blue satin sublime, covered with tiny ruffles of the same. The corsage of royal blue velvet has the long panel fronts embroidered with shaded silks of a deeper hue than the velvet. In the back the corsage is cut into vandykes, underneath which is set a Louis XIV. scarf, with loops and sagging puffs. This scarf is of the satin, also embroidered. These corsages are extremely elegant when made of pale tinted satins for evening wear over skirts of lace or velvet.

Since the Princess of Wales has appeared several times in a bonnet of the kind, it has become very much the fashion to wear tiny little capotes covered with grapes, white or black currants, apricots, or other small fruits of some description. A leading importer in this city says that these diminutive little fruit-stalls will be worn during the entire season, the pale green grapes, or those of a ruby color, the deep purple blue of the plum, and the creamy terra-cotta hue of the apricot according well in their varied colorings with the handsome high-art shades now in vogue in dress fabrics. A delicate wreath of silver-frosted leaves usually borders the edge of the bonnet all around, this being a great relief to the otherwise rather stiff appearance which fruit garniture alone would give.

A pretty walking costume is made of merveilleux, of the delicate shade of light brown known as café au lait. The short underskirt is laid in very fine plaitings, and cut out around the foot into turret blocks. Under these turrets is a deep flounce of café au lait satin, brocaded with cardinal star blossoms. Above the turrets is a fringed out ruche of the merveilleux mingled with one of cardinal. Over the hips is draped a wide scarf of the brocaded satin tied behind so as to form a full puff. The jacket bodice has the basques and ends of the close-cut sleeves cut out into turret blocks and covered with cardinal velvet, as are also the cuffs and deep pockets. This jacket does duty both for bodice and outdoor wrap. The hat, to match, is made of brown straw, trimmed with cardinal feathers tipped with gold, and lined inside with cardinal surah.

Though the popularity of the jersey bodice seems greatly to have subsided abroad, it appears to find increasing favor with American ladies, it being too trim, compact, and comfortable to be abolished for a waist of fewer desirable qualities. For informal wear they will take a popular place among autumn fashions. These bodices are much reduced in cost, in comparison to the prices asked for the first importations. They are to be found in all the leading plain colors now fashionable—prue, dahlia, deep cardinal, dark marine blue, olive, pearl gray, terra-cotta bronze, fawn and seal brown, and the many shades of dark green, but those in black are deemed the most refined and elegant, and are worn with skirts of gros-grain silk, cashmere, satin, or velvet, with a scarf drapery of black moiré to hide the joining of bodice and skirt. Above the bodice is usually worn a pelerine or Spanish fichu, thus hiding in a measure the severe outlines marked by this seamless woven waist. Several persons having lately made inquiries concerning these jerseys, it will be well to say that they resemble in a great degree the woven undervests worn during the winter season, though fitting the form perfectly and not loosely.

White will be worn both for day and evening dress for many weeks to come, and white dresses upon the promenade will be seen until the cold days of autumn shall render this "hueless hue" inappropriate; for even during the early part of the season, when an entire white costume will be found too cool a toilet, the white skirt and tunic will still be worn, accompanied by an overjacket of cloth, cashmere, vigogne, or other fabric of some comfortable sort. Deep royal cardinal Newmarket casaquins, shorter and less bulky than the coats of this name worn last year, will be favorit outside jackets. Others will be the French casaquins, of dark royal blue. The first-mentioned wrap is trimmed with black silk braid and buttons, the dark blue jacket with white braid. Most effective and becoming of all, however, will be the white Watteau tunics and polonaises, worn over underskirts of black velvet, with black velvet basque above these fastened with handsome enameled buttons; and with this elegant but simple dress a white hat, trimmed with black and white ostrich tips and a cluster of crimson roses. For very young ladies are made pretty little Babet jackets of white serge, trimmed with broad black velvet ribbon, and deep collar and cuffs of velvet to correspond.

There is nothing new in the shape of the graceful and esthetic tea-gown which has grown to be so important and comfortable a part of a fashionable woman's wardrobe. Ingenuity, it would seem, has exhausted itself in its style and adornings, as a glance at the most modern and approved models will show. The most costly of these luxurious robes are now made of tinted satin, tinted with leagues of lace and ribbon or of finest French cashmere, elaborately adorned with old Eastern embroideries, the robes thus quaintly beautified being cut in real Oriental fashion, with loose, hanging sleeves, the skirt draperies held by heavy silk girdles and cords in scarlet, green, and gold. There is an air about these costly robes which savors of the antique and recalls painted pictures of the harem. Danitier than these are the gowns of surah and lace, made up in the most bewildering, bewitching manner—each new production seeming to be more delicate and beautiful than the one last admired. One of these, in princesse shape, is made of cream-white surah, trimmed with flowers of Oriental lace and cream-white and palest blue satin ribbons looped together in fine contrast, these ribbons being caught up at the belt by a buckle of Parisian diamonds. A second tea-gown is cut a la Watteau, with double plait in the back, falling in graceful lines from the shoulders to the foot of the train. This robe is made of white Victoria silk, brocaded with pink roses and mignonet blossoms, perfect in shape and coloring. The dress parts in front, revealing a petticoat beneath, made of satin the exact shade of the pink roses, trimmed upon the edges of the five ruffles with a narrow-fringed ruching in several shades of color, which, when plaited together, shows all the shades of the mignonet blossoms—a faint dash of brown, a bit of olive, paling into a creamy, greenish white, and in the centre of the feathery ruche that almost inimitable color of pinkish yellow, seen oftenest in the heart of a tea rose.

MAJ. JOHN N. LANAGAN.

[ON THE ANNIVERSARY OF HIS DEATH, SEPT. 10, 1882.]

Not in the battle's strife,
With awful carnage rife,
Our hero fell.
The day on which he bore
His dying leader o'er
Green hillocks wet with gore,
Spared him to tell
The story of the brave
Who still the flag would save.
His own death-knell
Rang in a time of peace,
When friends and joys increase
And make life dear:
Ah! who could dream that Death,
Amid the Summer's breath,
Was lurking near!

Not in the cannon's blaze,
Or battle's lurid haze,
The spirit passed;
Yet his the hero's heart,
And his the hero's part,
Unto the last.

Gentle, and brave, and true,
To him is honor due:
Low lies his head—
Yet on his grave the tear
Will drop, as on his bier;
And manly hearts will pray,
As on his burial day:
"In Christ's dear name, alway
Peace to the dead!"

The crews of schooners find it possible "for man to serve two-masters."—Pittsburg Telegraph.

"John, did Mrs. Green get the medicine I ordered?" said a doctor to his hired man. "I guess so, for I saw crape on the door this morning."

"I don't ask any man's advice," said the man with the big bump of self-esteem. "I do my own thinking." "Yes," murmured Fogg, "I should think you might, and not be greatly overworked, either."—Boston Transcript.

"John, what is that peculiar smell?" asked a man's wife as he was trying to steal into bed without waking her about 2 o'clock a. m. "That is the incense we use in the lodge-room, my dear; it exhales—it exhales——" "Yes, I know now," she interrupted; I recognize the odor—XX ales."—Detroit Free Press.

The obliging visitor to show that he really is fond of children and that the dear little one is not annoying him in the least, treats the kid to a ride upon his knee. "Trot! trot! trot! How do you like that, my boy? Is that nice?" "Yes, sir," replies the child, "but not so nice as on the real donkey—the one with the four legs!"

Arabi Bey to his Adjutant before retiring for the night: "You have received the reports from the different commands?" Adjutant—"I have." Arabi—"Our soldiers are securely tied, hand and foot?" Adjutant—"They are." Arabi—"Mash Allah! I shall then have an army to fight with in the morning."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"How are the colored voters coming on, out on Onion Creek?" asked an Austin candidate of a darky with a load of hay. "Dar's a heap ob sickness out dar among de colored folks." "What is it, malaria?" "I reckon dat's de name ob de stuff. Hit am sumfin what he got from de druggery-shop." "What stuff are you talking about?" "De stuff a white man out dar puts in his watermillions to keep de colored folks from mistakin' em from dar own watermillions."—Texas Siftings.

"I often cross the street to avoid meeting a man," says Mr. Beecher, "not because I have anything against him, but simply because I do not feel like speaking to him. I suppose all men are this way." Yes, nearly all men are that way, Mr. Beecher, and we are glad that you have mentioned the subject, for it gives us a chance to agree with a great man. We sometimes cross the street and climb a fence to avoid meeting a man, not because we have anything against him, but because he has something against us; a bill, Mr. Beecher.—Arkansaw Traveler.

In the steam-car the other day was a bright little 4-year-old lady. An elderly gentleman a few seats back every time the little one turned around, would shake his finger, or duck his head, or "cluck," or do some one of the score of things that are supposed to be especially pleasing to the babies. The little girl answered these kindly attentions with a vacant stare until, apparently surfeited and grown tired of them, she exclaimed in a voice loud enough to be heard through the car: "Mamma, I really believe that old fool is trying to make love to me."—Boston Transcript.

INSIDE.

For The Chicago Tribune.

No father's house is full,
E'en though there seems no resting-place for more;
Forgiving arms and doors do open wide
If one repentant child implore—
Outside.

No mother's heart is full,
Unless it be with longing—burning wild—
Heart-throbbings that no cheerful face can hide—
The wish to clasp her sinning child—
Outside.

God's flock is never full;
Fear not to boldly enter at His door.
None ever were refused who there applied;
He hath abiding-place for more—
Inside.

ROBERT B. BUCHANAN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1, 1882.

Dr. L. A. Palmer, Westerly, R. I., says: "I cheerfully recommend Hunt's Remedy as the best medicine I ever used for dropsical diseases. It has almost raised the dead.

BUSINESS.

Stocks Firm and Advancing—Money Plenty.

The Produce Market Active and Very Irregular—Great Weakness in Pork and Corn.

Wheat Firmer, with a Good Spot Demand—Oats and Barley Closed Lower—Hogs Dull.

FINANCIAL.

The market opened steady with some decline till about 10, when it became strong and active, but all the time there seemed to be a good deal of realizing along the line of the advancing stocks. For some time the market showed evident signs of increasing firmness. This was specially true of the dividend-paying stocks, all of which made a fair advance. Then came the bank statement which sent a chill through the room. It was considered bad, showing a general decrease as follows:

Loans, decrease	$2,451,800
Specie, decrease	2,688,800
Legal-tender, decrease	478,900
Deposits, decrease	5,765,800
Circulation, increase	28,600
Reserve, decrease	1,726,250
Reserve, below legal requirement	1,852,758

Pullman sank to 132½, much to the disgust of holders. Activity again followed, principally in Erie, Lake Shore, St. Paul, Louisville & Nashville, Northern Pacific, Lackawanna, Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred, and Manitoba. Western Union continues to fluctuate between 90@91. All the old reliable dividend-paying stocks were very strong. Illinois Central opened at 139¾ on report of an extra dividend, rose quickly to 144, then dropped to 141¾, closing at 142.

It is reported from Vanderbilt that the earnings of the New York Central for the month of August would foot up $3,331,000, an increase on the highest figures ever before realized of nearly $500,000. The increase of the Lake Shore was $97,000. All look for an immense Western business.

Mr. Cummins, the President of the "Nickel Plate," denies Vanderbilt's assertion that it was built to sell. The character of the capitalists interested in it should satisfy the public this is not true. The Lake Shore, he adds, is a good property, but there is business enough for all. They have not asked admittance to the pool, but have been invited to join it.

Those who take a roseate view of business prospects seem to be largely in the majority, but the money market, real estate, and merchandise, and farm products were never more free from speculative influences. Generally prices of most articles are moderate, and trade was never conducted on a more legitimate or substantial basis. Though money is abundant, and for our city discount rates 5@7 per cent are low, yet purchases of real estate and other articles do not appear to be made for a rise—at least in the immediate future. Of course investments of all kinds are constantly making, but only surplus funds are apparently used for that purpose. Borrowing money to speculate seems to be entirely absent from the market. That most men from the abundance of money and our magnificent crop anticipate a very prosperous trade and a healthy but moderate rise in prices is entirely true, but the memories of past speculative movements restrict transactions within the limits of legitimate business.

As has been noted from day to day the past has been a week of great activity in the entire country. The farmers have been actively engaged, for the weather has been fine, in caring for the large returns of the season, and merchants and manufacturers have had all they could do to meet the large and increasing calls of the fall trade.

The range for New York exchange remains at 25@50c discount between banks per $1,000. We heard of sales of large blocks at 35.

BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Governments were strong and higher.

Railroad bonds were irregular.

State securities were dull.

Share speculation opened generally strong, prices in the main showing an advance of ⅛@1⅛ from yesterday's closing. In early dealings a general advance of ⅛@⅞ took place, after which prices receded ⅛@¾. Subsequently the market became strong, and recorded an advance of ¼@1⅛. In the early part of the afternoon there was a reaction of ⅛@¾, after which the market became buoyant, and, under the lead of Illinois Central, an advance took place of ¼@3⅞. Chicago & Alton and Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, St. Paul, Lake Shore & Erie preferred and common were also conspicuous in the upward movement. Meanwhile St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba was weak, and fell off 4⅛. After this some shares receded a fraction, while St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba advanced 2⅜, and the market closed irregular, showing, however, an advance of ⅛@⅞ as compared with the closing figures of yesterday, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba leading therein.

The leading produce markets were active Saturday, and again averaged lower, much to the disappointment of very many who had expected a reaction towards higher prices. The remark was made in several quarters, "We have had a big break all round, and there is room for a turn." There was a little of it at the start, but it did not last long. Pork and corn turned out to be very weak, which made other produce easier. The weakness was greatest in corn for this month, wheat for November, and pork for the near deliveries, while lard, meats, rye, and the nearer wheat futures were relatively steady. There were several buying orders for pork and corn, but they were mostly filled during the first half hour, and then weakness prevailed. Mess pork closed 10@15c lower, at $20.72½@20.75 seller October and $18.65@18.67½ for January. Lard closed 5@7½c lower, at $11.57½ bid for October and $11.37½@11.40 for January. Short ribs closed firm, at $13.00 asked seller October. Red winter wheat closed ⅛c higher, at 98⅜c for September. Regular wheat closed ⅛@⅛c higher, at 98⅝@98¾c seller September and 94¼@94⅛c seller October. Corn closed 1¼@2c lower, at 69c bid for car-lots and 66¼@66½c for October. Oats were ⅛@¼c lower, at 33c cash and seller the month, 32¼c for October, and 31¼c for the year. Rye closed unchanged, at 60c spot, 59¼c for September, and 60¼@61c for October. Barley closed 2c lower, at 80c for cash, September, and October, with No. 3 cash at 58@60c. Hogs were inactive at $7.50@8.45 for light and at $7.60@9.20 for heavy. Cattle were quiet, with sales on a basis of $2.50@7.50 for inferior to extra. The receipts for the week have been 41,300 cattle, 57,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep, against 28,710 cattle, 95,820 hogs, and 6,875 sheep for the same week last year.

The dry goods, clothing, millinery goods, and boot and shoe markets were active and firm. Large numbers of buyers are present and their takings are on a generous scale. Jobbers of groceries were very busy. Orders for goods are coming in freely from all quarters, and there is a very cheerful feeling among the trade. The steadiness of prices remained undisturbed. There was a moderate demand for domestic and foreign dried fruits, and a rather easy set of prices. Canned goods also were ordered rather sparingly. In the fish market there was fair activity and full prices are being realized. No important change was apparent in the market for dairy products, excepting fine goods, which are not plentiful; the market has a weak and unsettled tone. Bagging and leather were quoted active and strong. Oils were in fair request, with prices unchanged except for carbon, which was advanced ⅛@½c.

Green fruits were going off freely, blackberries selling down from Friday's prices, and peaches showing better condition and remaining steady. Pears were in good supply, but generally in bad condition, selling at 35@60c per basket. Apples unchanged. Hides, grease, and tallow showed no new features. Building materials are in active demand and firm throughout, as are also metals, tinners' ware, and general hardware that enter into building operations. Potatoes selling slowly at the price ruling for the past fortnight. Wool fairly active and steady. In seeds timothy was weak and 10c lower, selling at $1.90 cash and $1.90@1.92 seller the month. Flaxseed was 1c lower, selling at $1.22 cash. Hay was dull, in consequence of the overstocked market, and sold slowly at Friday's prices.

Lake freights were firm, part cargoes of corn, as much as 28,000 bu paying 2¼c, and one cargo of wheat (32,000 bu) 3c. Wheat to Kingston paid 5¼c. Charters announced during 'Change hour covered 136,000 bu corn, 54,000 bu wheat, 20,000 bu oats, and 32,000 bu flaxseed.

Rail freights were reported steady on the basis of 25c per 100 lbs on grain and 30c on provisions from Chicago to New York. Through to Liverpool was dull at 35¼c asked.

The receipts of wheat at Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Toledo, and Detroit, reported Saturday, aggregated 430,000 bu. The shipments from the same points were reported at 301,000 bu. The shipments reported from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore were 634,000 bu.

The statement of the Secretary of the Anthracite Coal Association shows the total receipts of all kinds of coal (including coke) from May 1 to Sept. 1 to have been 1,346,629 tons, against 1,314,026 tons to same date last year—an increase of 32,603 tons. The receipts of anthracite coal show an increase of 97,253 tons, while there is a falling off of 64,650 tons in the receipts of bituminous coal.

PROVISIONS.

HOG PRODUCTS—Were active and irregular. Pork was again very weak, and lard less so, while meats were dull and steadier. Liverpool reported a decline of 3d in lard. There were some Eastern orders to buy pork, and the market stiffened a little at the outset in consequence. But those orders were soon filled, and then sellers were in a decided majority. The market was so irregular that anything like a close watch of it was impossible. Consecutive transactions were sometimes 10c apart, and simultaneous ones differed by as much as 5c in opposit parts of the crowd. This irregularity lasted nearly through the session. The shipping demand for meats was light. The packing of this city since February is estimated to include 1,386,000 hogs, against 2,095,000 to date a year ago, and 2,350,000 to do in 1880.

MESS PORK—Advanced 10@15c per brl early, while some Eastern buying orders were being filled, and then declined badly. October fell off 70c, and January 40c. The closing was 45c lower for next month, but only 10c lower for January, than the latest prices of Friday. Round lots spot or seller the month closed at $20.72½@20.75, being about the same as October. Sales were reported of 84,500 brls seller October at $20.6@21.30; 18,750 brls seller November at $19.10@19.30; 8,250 brls seller the year at $18.60@18.75; 44,250 brls seller January at $18.50@18.90; and 4,250 brls seller February at $18.50@18.90. Total, 160,000 brls, or 20,000 brls more than our entire stock in store. The following table shows the range of the day on the leading deals, including Call-Board transactions:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
September	$21.15		$20.72½
October	21.17½	$20.60 @21.30	20.72½
November	19.15	19.10 @19.30	19.25
Seller the year	18.67½	18.60 @18.75	18.60
January	18.75	18.50 @18.90	18.65
February	18.77½	18.50 @18.90	18.70

LARD—Advanced 5@7½c per 100 lbs on next month, which then weakened 15c, and closed 5c lower than on Friday, with $11.57½@11.60 for round lots spot or seller September. January declined 10@12½c. Sales were reported of 21,500 tcs seller October at $11.55@11.70; 16,500 tcs seller November at $11.55@11.70; 750 tcs seller December at $11.50@11.52½; 11,000 tcs seller the year at $11.40@11.50; 27,500 tcs seller January at $11.35@11.50; 7,250 tcs seller February at $11.40@11.55; and 22,250 tcs seller March at $11.37½@11.55. Total, 106,750 tcs, or about 10,000 tcs more than the entire stock in store here. The following table gives the range of the day, including the call transactions:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
September	$11.60		$11.57½
October	11.62½	$11.55 @11.70	11.57½
November	11.65	11.55 @11.70	11.57½
January	11.45	11.35 @11.50	11.37½
February	11.52½	11.40 @11.55	11.40

MEATS—Were quoted stronger on the near deliveries. Sales were limited to 75 tcs sweet-pickled hams (16 lbs.) at 13¾c; 300,000 lbs short ribs at $13.25@13.35 seller September, $11.95@11.15 seller November, and $9.95 seller the year. The prices of the leading cuts were as follows at the close of trading:

	Shoulders.	Short ribs.	L. & S. clears.	Short clears.
Loose, part salted	$10.00	$13.60	$13.60	$14.00
Do. boxed	10.25	13.85	13.85	14.25
September, loose	10.00	13.25	.....	13.85
October, loose	9.95	13.00	.....	13.70

Short ribs closed at $13.25 asked seller September and $12.90@13.00 seller October. Long clears were quoted at $13.35 loose and $13.60 boxed; Cumberlands, 13¼@13¾c boxed; long cut hams, 14@14½c; sweet-pickled hams quoted at 13¼@13¾c for 16 lb averages; green hams, same averages, 12¼@12½c.

Bacon quoted at 11@11½c for shoulders, 14¼@14½c for short ribs, 14¾@15c for short clears, 15¼@16c for hams, all canvased and packed. Sweet-pickled shoulders, 10¼@10½c.

BEEF—Was quiet at $12.25@12.50 for mess, $12.50@13.00 for extra mess, and $17.50@18.00 for hams.

BREADSTUFFS AND SEEDS.

FLOUR—Exhibited no material change. The volume of trading was a little larger, but the market was dull at the best. Sales were reported of 350 brls and 1,000 sacks winters, partly at $5.00@5.15; 325 brls and 470 sacks springs at $6.50 for Minnesotas and $6.00 for unsound; 200 sacks low grades at $3.25; and 50 brls rye flour on private terms. Total equal to about 1,900 brls. Winter flours were quoted at $5.25@6.00 for choice, $5.00@5.25 for good, $5.25@5.75 for new, and $4.00@5.00 for supers; springs were quoted at $5.25@6.50 for good to choice; Minnesota patents at $7.25@7.50; and rye flour at $3.80@4.00.

OTHER MILLSTUFFS—Were in light supply and fair demand. Sales were reported of 9 cars bran at $14.25@15.50 per ton and 1 car middlings at $22.00.

REGULAR WHEAT—Was moderately active and irregular in tone. The nearer futures were firm, this month advancing 1⅛c and next month ⅜c, but closed easier; November was relatively weaker, some holders for that month selling out. The nearer deliveries were steadied by news of a steadier tone in Liverpool (though public cable said "dull"), and exporters had some inquiries at nearer the market rate than heretofore. With this there was a fair shipping demand for car-lots, and this month was strengthened by fears that a Milwaukee party has got his grip on the market for September. The receipts of the day were a little larger than those of Friday, while the reports of receipts and shipments indicated that our stocks in store have increased some 200,000 bu. Seller October opened at 94½@94¾c, advanced to 94⅞c bid, declined to 94c, sold back to 94⅝c, and closed at 94⅛c bid. Seller the month ranged 4⅛c above October, and November sold ⅛@⅜c below October, while the year ranged ⅛@⅛c below November. The following table shows the range of the day on the principal deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
Seller September	98	98½@99⅛	98¾
Seller October	94	94 @94⅞	94⅛
Seller November	93⅞	93¼@94⅞	93⅞
Seller the year	93⅞	93¼@94	93⅞

WINTER WHEAT—Was stronger under a good demand, with only moderate receipts. Some purchases were made for shipment, and some was taken to fill September shorts, which resulted in an advance of ⅜c per bu, and the market closed ⅛c higher than on Friday, at 98⅜c for car-lots of No. 2 red or seller September. A few sales were made for the month at 98⅞c. Spot sales were reported of 70 cars No. 2 red at 98⅛@98⅜c; 9,000 bu and 12 cars long-berried at 99¼c@$1.00; 49 cars No. 3 at 95c; 14 cars rejected at 85c; and 24 cars by sample at 66c@$1.02. Total about 120,000 bu.

SPRING WHEAT—Was in large supply, and a good demand to fill shorts for this month took all the offerings at "regular" prices. There was nothing done in futures. Spot sales were reported of 39 cars No. 2 at 98¼@99¼c; 47 cars No. 3 at 86c; and 20 cars by sample at 70@90c. Total about 44,000 bu. Also 2 cars No. 2 hard at 99½c in store.

CORN—Was active and again weak. The market for next month declined 1¾c from the latest price of Friday and closed tame, while this month fell off 2c. Liverpool was quoted dull, and the arrival here of 61,100 bu of No. 2 and high mixed by canal, in addition to nearly as much by rail as the previous day, made local operators feel weak, outside of the fact of fine, settled weather, and the discovery that our shipments had been light for two days past. The shorts filled in very freely early in the day, both on local and outside account, but the demand was liberally met, and after it had been satisfied there was still plenty of corn on sale. The shipping demand was smaller than the offerings, and spot corn became quite weak towards the close, not being wanted except by September shorts. The result was that the premium for this month over October narrowed down fully ⅝c during the session. The weakness was supposed to be partly due to the further break in pork. Car-lots of No. 2 closed at 69c, with high mixed at 69½c, and rejected at 67c asked. Spot sales were reported of 96 cars high mixed at 69½@70¼c; 39,000 bu and 117 cars No. 2 at 69@70½c; 8,000 bu and 46 cars rejected at 67@67½c; 17 cars by sample at 66@70c on track; and 19 cars do at 61½@71½c free on board. Total about 200,000 bu. Seller October opened at 67¼@67⅝c, sold at 67½c, improved to 67⅝c, and declined to 66⅝c bid at the close. Seller September ranged 2⅛@3⅛c above October, November was ⅛@⅛c below October, the year ranged 6⅛@6⅛c below November, and May 2⅛@3c below the year. Seller January sold at 51⅝@52⅛c, closing at the inside. The following table shows the range for the day on the leading deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
Spot, fresh receipts	71	69@70¼	69
Seller September	71	69 @71½	69
Seller October	67⅞	66⅝@67⅝	66⅞
Seller November	66⅞	65⅞@66⅝	65⅞
Seller the year	58⅞	56 @57⅞	56⅞
Seller May	55⅞	54⅞@55⅞	55⅞

OATS—Opened a shade firmer, but the pressure to sell soon weakened the market, which subsequently sold off ⅛@¼c, closing at the lowest prices of the day. Cash trading was comparatively light, but the volume of speculative transactions was greater than the day previous. The market closed weak all around. Cash sold at 33@33⅞c, closing at 33c. Seller the month sold at 33@33⅞c, closing at 33c. October ranged at 32¼@33⅛c, closing at 32¼c. The year sold at 31⅛@32c, closing at 31¼c. Seller May ruled at 34¼@34⅝c, closing at 34⅛c. Samples were active and easier. Cash sales were made of 40 cars at 33@33⅛c for No. 2, 35@35⅛c for No. 2 white, and 30c for rejected in store; 30 cars by sample at 32@33⅛c for rejected mixed, 34¼@35⅛c for No. 2 white, 34@34½c for good to choice No. 2, and 36@36⅛c for No. 2 white on track; 49 cars at 32@34⅛c for rejected mixed, 34@35⅛c for rejected white, 35⅛@35⅝c for No. 2, and 37@38c for No. 2 white free on board. Total equal to about 103,000 bu. The following shows the closing prices Friday, with the range Saturday:

No. 2 oats.	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do bid.
Spot	33⅞	33 @33⅞	33
Seller September	33⅞	33 @33⅞	33
Seller October	32⅞	32¼@33⅛	32¼
Seller the year	31⅞	31⅛@32	31¼
Seller May	34⅞	34¼@34⅝	34⅛

RYE—Was fairly active and steady, spot No. 2 selling at 60c, September at 60⅛c in settlement, closing at 59⅛c bid in the regular way. October sold at 61c, November was nominally 62c, and the year at 59⅛@60c. Cash sales were made of 14 cars at 60c for No. 2 and 54c for rejected in store; 7 cars by sample at 61@62c for No. 2 and 57c for rejected in store; 4 cars at 61c for No. 2 and 57c for rejected free on board. Total equal to about 13,000 bu.

BARLEY—Was weak and 2c lower as a consequence of the heavy receipts (72 cars). No. 2 cash selling early at 81c and closing at 80c, and No. 3 selling at 60c, with buyers at 58c at the close. No. 2 for September and October sold at 81c for the former and 80c for the latter. Cash sales were made of 11 cars at 80@81c for No. 2, 60c for No. 3, and 49c for No. 4 in store; 20 cars by sample at 50@62½c for No. 4, 62@78½c for No. 3, and 84c for No. 2 on track; 5 cars at 45@57c for No. 4 free on board. Total equal to about 22,000 bu.

SEEDS—Timothy seed was rather demoralized, selling down 10@12c from Friday's prices. Heavy receipts contributed principally to this result. Cash prime seed sold at $1.90 and seller September at $1.90@1.92. Little was done in the later futures. Flaxseed sold at $1.22 cash and $1.21 seller the month. Clover seed was firm for the choice grades. Sales were reported of 21 cars and 2,000 bags timothy seed at $1.75@2.18 cash for poor to choice and $1.90@1.92 for the month; 25 cars flaxseed at $1.22@1.22½ cash, on track and delivered, and $1.21@1.22 seller the month.

After 'Change 239 bags of prime clover seed sold at $5.25 per bu.

THE ABSENT.

Only for once to see them smile
Just as they used to do:
Why, the pale, dead years would start from sleep
If such a thing could be true!

Only to see them open their arms
And take us back to their rest;
Only to dream in their languorous peace
After our ended quest;

Only to hear their voices again
Drowning the sobs of regret
Whose rhythmed surging tires the brain
And dares the heart to forget;

Only to win from the silent skies
One calming word for the strife—
One ray to light up our lonely paths—
We would sell the wastes of our life.

Ah, no! not barter the bliss of Heaven,
The cycles of glory above,
For a restless hour that may whirl in storm,
While we cling to a shelterless love.

Go work in the world's white field, O Soul,
Till the sun sinks down in the west,
For the sleep that follows the laborer's toil
Is always the deepest and best.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR

restores with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the VIGOR is unequaled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (O.) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The VIGOR is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MRS. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm street, Charlestown, Mass., April 13, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used one bottle of the VIGOR, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials of the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Mather's Remarkable Financial Success.

Opening of the German Theatre Season at McVicker's.

Bills for the New Week—Keene, Curtis, Edouin, and Mather.

Dramatic Notes from Other Cities—Music at Home and Abroad.

Miss Margaret Mather.

The phenomenal financial success of Miss Margaret Mather has astonished even Manager McVicker, who is himself one of the oldest theatrical managers in the country, and he was prompted last week to look over his books, which contain a record of twenty-five years' business in Chicago, for the purpose of comparing the receipts of the present engagement with successful engagements of the past. As the lamented Adelaide Neilson was considered the greatest Juliet of her time, and as Miss Mather's performance of the part has been favorably compared with hers, Mr. McVicker looked up the record of her engagements at his theatre. During the twenty-five years she played four engagements, the largest of which was in 1872, the year following the fire, which was the most successful year, financially, recorded in the books. The engagement was for three weeks, the same as Miss Mather's present engagement, and the receipts of Miss Mather's first week, when she appeared only as Juliet, were 20 per cent greater than those of Miss Neilson's first week (the largest of her engagement), when she played Juliet four nights and Pauline three nights. In her second week Miss Neilson appeared four times as Rosalind and three times as Juliet, and the receipts were 10 per cent less than those of Miss Mather's second week, when she appeared only as Leah in that sombre and heavy play. Manager Hill was looking over the books with Mr. McVicker, and when the latter came to Miss Neilson's third week in that memorable engagement he closed the book abruptly, and, turning around, offered to give Mr. Hill a check equal to the receipts of that week for Miss Mather's receipts during the coming week. It is needless to say that Mr. Hill refused the offer, and he will not know whether he did well or ill by doing so until the close of the week. Manager McVicker said, in the presence of a dozen gentlemen, "Not only is Miss Mather more of a financial success than was Miss Neilson, but she is the greatest financial success I have ever seen in my experience as a manager." This argues in favor of Miss Mather's artistic success as well, as the Chicago public will not tolerate nor give their support to any actor or actress that does not merit it.

Miss Mather appears this week as Juliet Monday and Tuesday evenings and at the Wednesday matinée; Wednesday night she makes her first appearance as Pauline; Thursday and Friday nights she makes her début as Rosalind; and the announcements for Saturday matinée and evening will be made later in the week. In "The Lady of Lyons" Miss Mather will wear a dress that is simply magnificent. An artist has been at work a whole year decorating the front of the robe, and it is pronounced by those who have seen it to be the finest dress ever brought to this city.

Opening of the German Theatre Season at McVicker's.

The German theatre season at McVicker's opens this evening under the management of Collmer, Isenstein, and Wurster. A portion of the new company will introduce itself in Moser and Schoenthan's celebrated comedy "Unsere Frauen" (Our Ladies), which was produced here last season. The managers claim to have engaged for this season the best comedy and operetta companies that have ever appeared here. If this is so there can be no doubt that the season will prove a successful one. Should the company, however, be not what it is claimed to be, the managers will have a hard road to travel, as the Germans here will not patronize anything that is not first-class in every respect. There have been but few of the old company reëngaged, only such being retained as gave entire satisfaction last year. Of the new members but little is known, as most of them are recent arrivals from Europe, and before they have shown what they can do it would be unfair to make any comments. The new leading lady—Miss Ida Von Trautman—played a short star engagement at McVicker's last season and the season before, and as far as she is concerned the managers have certainly made no mistake, her reputation as a first-class actress being well established in this country.

Messrs. Collmer, Isenstein, and Wurster not only control the German Theatre in this city, but also those at Milwaukee and St. Louis. This enables them to bring out much more variety in the performances than they could do otherwise, as the leading people can be transferred from one place to another as circumstances may require. While the comedy company is playing at one place the operetta company can perform at another and the dramatic company at another. Thus all the members of the company, whatever may be their line, can be kept constantly employed.

Local Notes.

Tom Keene and Willie Edouin's companies will arrive in the city this morning.

The Redpath Lyceum Bureau has just issued a splendidly gotten up book containing its lists of entertainments for the coming season and other information. The list embraces a number of favorits.

Tony Pastor's company give their last performances at the Olympic Theatre this afternoon and evening, and a variety combination known as Georgie Kaine's Brilliants open tomorrow night for one week.

At the Criterion Theatre this week Charles Thornton will appear in his drama, "The Headless Horseman." A variety olio will precede the drama. It embraces Varney and De Ouie, Fernando Fleury, and the Torbeys.

Miss Emilie Gavin, so widely known as an accomplished reader, sailed from New York Wednesday, the 6th inst., for Havre, en route for the south of Italy, a change of climate being deemed necessary for the restoration of her health. She carries with her the best wishes of many friends.

A correspondent writes to know the author of "Leah the Forsaken," which was played at McVicker's last week. It is an adaptation of Dr. Von Mosenthal's "Deborah," the original of which is played in the German by Janauschek. The adaption was made by Augustin Daly for Miss Bateman.

At Haverly's Theatre tomorrow evening M. B. Curtis, the popular comedian, will present his laughable creation, "Sam'l of Posen, the Commercial Drummer." The supporting company is a good one, and the piece will be presented during the week with a strong cast. There will be no Wednesday matinée.

The Lyceum Theatre has just been overhauled and redecorated, and at the same time the class of entertainments presented are of a higher grade, calculated to attract the better class of patrons. The business of the week has been very encouraging. This week a bill of great attraction will be given, including the popular Hollywood family.

The new minstrel organization presided over by Manager R. M. Hooley and Billy Rice, the favorit comedian, will open at the Academy of Music tomorrow night. The company embraces Billy Rice, Charles W. Young, the Four Megatherians, W. Henry Rice, Charley Turner, Burt Queen, and others. The engagement is for one week only.

Willie Edouin's Sparks Company open at Hooley's Theatre this evening in the reconstructed version of "The Photographer; or, Fun in a Photograph Gallery." Edouin plays Binks, the Photographer, and the company embraces Alice Atherton, James T. Powers, and other old favorits. Next Sunday evening the company will appear for the first time in "Ripples—a Sea Change," by the author of "Our Bachelors."

Thomas W. Keene, the tragedian, opens his third season this evening at the Grand Opera-House, appearing in his favorit character of Richard III. Mr. Keene reappears at the theatre in which he made his début about two years ago under the management of William R. Hayden. The engagement is for two weeks, and the répertoire for the first week is as follows: Richard III., Sunday, Monday, and Saturday; Hamlet, Tuesday and Wednesday; Shylock, Wednesday matinée; Macbeth, Thursday, Friday, and Sunday; Bertucio, Saturday matinée. Mr. Keene will be supported by George Learock, Annie W. Storey, and a good company. The sale of seats has been large, and the engagement promises to be successful. This engagement opens the regular fall and winter season of Mr. Hamlin's theatre. During the season Mr. Keene will occasionally play Shylock in German.

Amusements Abroad.

"Esmeralda" will be taken on the road early in October.

Modjeska will reach America about the middle of September.

Mrs. Langtry will leave Liverpool for New York on Sept. 30 by the steamer Alaska.

Callender's Consolidated Minstrels open at the Grand Opera-House, St. Louis, Monday.

The "Romany Rye" will not be produced at Booth's Theatre till the 16th of September.

Dion Boucicault's brogue is declared by a London journal to be affected by an American accent.

Maude Granger will star in "Only a Farmer's Daughter" the coming season, under the management of J. K. Tillottson.

If Tom Keene, the tragedian, makes a tour of Australia next season he will take with him a full American company.

John A. Stevens writes that he has seen Mrs. Langtry, and thinks that she is not near so handsome a woman as Maude Granger.

Forrest Robinson was presented by his wife last week with a beautiful girl, whom he will name Esmeralda, as he plays in that piece next week.

It is reported from the Northwest that John Dillon is making a grand success in his new play, "The State's Attorney," by Scott Marble. The business has been very good.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons has abandoned the stage and will henceforth confine her work to dramatic readings. Her recent theatrical engagement in London was a dismal failure.

Joseph Wheelock, the popular actor, makes his début as a star tomorrow night in Detroit, appearing as Capt. Wardour in an adaptation of Wilkie Collins' "Frozen Deep."

George C. Miln has been in New York ordering his Shakspearean wardrobe. He makes his début at the Grand Opera-House, this city, Oct. 8, and will play a round of the legitimate.

Mr. Edwin Booth said recently that he supposed his lungs were affected, having a persistent cough, until he saw Dr. Mackenzie, of London, who found that this symptom arose from a disturbance of the liver.

Laura Don's new play, written by herself, entitled "A Daughter of the Nile," was produced in New York last week, and was well received by a large audience. The New York papers gave it a certain measure of praise.

Miss Marion Elmore, the new claimant for stellar honors put forward by Messrs. William A. Hayden and Will J. Davis, made her début in the California drama, "Chispa," in New York Monday evening, and scored a success spite of the bad play.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett announces that he will add Mr. George H. Boker's play, "Francesca da Rimini," to his fine repertory. He will produce the play in Philadelphia Monday evening, Sept. 11. "Francesca da Rimini" is perfunctorily poetic, though not without some dramatic strength.

The New York papers condemn C. T. Dazey's new play, "Elsa," which was brought out in New York by Maggie Mitchell. Mr. Dazey is the gentleman who wrote "An American King," which James O'Neill produced recently at Hooley's, this city, and in which he will star this season, opening in Brooklyn.

Augustin Daly's new melodrama, "Mankind," which received its first production at his theatre last Tuesday evening, is said to be on the lurid order, and, although acted and presented in fine style, is a failure as a literary effort. It will probably have a long run, however. The acting of Charles Leclerq is given unstinted praise.

George Howard, a Philadelphia comedian, is recovering from a deafness that threatened to incapacitate him. For a time he could not hear his cues, and his wife, sitting in the audience, had to signal him to proceed when his interlocutor had ceased to speak. So cleverly was this infirmity concealed that its existence was never suspected by the public.

Mr. Wallack's company this season consists of Mr. John Gilbert, Mr. Herbert Kelcey, Mr. C. P. Flockton, Mr. C. Buckstone, Mr. H. Gwynette, Mr. H. Pearson, Mr. William Herbert, Mr. William Elton, Mr. Harry Edwards, Mr. Arthur Forrest, Mr. Charles E. Edwin, Mr. Harry Holliday, Mr. S. Du Bois, Miss Rose Coghlan, Miss Effie Germon, Miss Kate Bartlett, Miss Marion Booth, Miss E. Blaisdell, Miss Adela Measor, Mme. Ponisi, Miss Clara Hyatt, Miss Agnes Elliott, Miss Minnie Vining.

The original Madison Square Theatre Company, with Effie Ellsler and Couldock in the cast, opened at the Baldwin Theatre, San Francisco, Monday evening, to a great house and a large advance sale for the week. It is the company's third visit within a year to San Francisco. They were announced for only one week, but the successful welcome has resulted in the extension of the engagement to another week. The company appear at McVicker's, this city, Oct. 30 next.

Rice's Surprise Party for the coming season will be a strong combination, as will be seen by the perusal of the following list of members: Mr. John A. Mackay, W. H. Fitzgerald, George K. Fortescue, Charles Dungan, Robert Runnels, W. H. West, Harry De Lorme, San Francisco Quartet, Miss Kate Castleton, Grace Plaisted, May Stembler, Irene Perry, Ida Smith, Rosa Dana, and Annie Wagner. The company are to open in a new and highly sensational and operatic, melodramatic, burlesque drama.

Mr. Bronson Howard's new play, "Mrs. Winthrop's Husband," will follow "Esmeralda" at the Madison Square Theatre Oct. 9. Mr. Howard has put a good deal of hard work into this composition, and he appears to have faith in it. His opinion, on the whole, is worth saving. He would hardly care to express it on all occasions. If he is really a man of talent, "Mrs. Winthrop's Husband" ought to go a long way beyond "Saratoga" and "The Banker's Daughter." There was a delightful suggestion of promise in "Old Love Letters."

The extremes to which showmen will sometimes go to obtain a novelty has just been sadly illustrated in France. A dwarf 17 years old and less than twenty-five inches high was sold by his father to be exhibited in a booth, and the showman conceived the idea of establishing a miniature menagerie with the dwarf as tamer. He therefore had a number of cats painted to look like tigers, and, giving the dwarf a whip, compelled him by kicks and threats to goad the cats into fury. The result was that they attacked the boy, and before help could be brought he was literally torn to pieces.

Charles R. Thorne says: "I am still a member of the Union Square Company, and am under contract to Mr. Palmer for a term of three years, which will not expire till the end of the coming season. I expect to play here with the company on their return from California, and all rumors to the contrary are unfounded. The season of 1883-'84 will find me in London under the management of Mr. Abbey, who has engaged Mr. Lawrence Barrett and myself to play 'Julius Cæsar' at the Lyceum Theatre. Mr. Barrett will play Cassius and I will play Marc Antony.

Mr. Bandmann, the actor, is at war with the editor of a newspaper in Hong Kong, China. The Hong Kong Telegraph states that its dramatic critic having refused to believe that Mr. Bandmann "can play Hamlet as well as Henry Irving," the actor had kicked the critic, "observing at the same time, in the loftiest tones of tragedy, that he would like to serve the editor in the same way." The editor bravely replied through his paper: "We know Daniel E. Bandmann, and have known and despised him for many years. We speak plainly because this man has arrogantly boasted of what he would do in the shape of personal violence to our sacred person, and we desire to give him all possible provocation to carry out his pompous threats. The office of the Hong Kong Telegraph is at No. 6 Peddar's hill. The editor is always to be found there between the hours of 9 and 5. We await with impatience the visit of this tragic thunderbolt." Mr. Bandmann thereupon summoned the editor to a police court.

There was a slight panic at the Union Square Theatre during last Saturday's matinée performance of the "Black Flag." While the play was proceeding some rather heavy pieces of stuff fell, apparently from the roof, on the heads of the people in the parquet. There was a sudden alarm and a rush for the door. But order was immediately restored, and the people took their seats again. It was explained that some bits of woodwork in the gallery had become detached and had fallen. There was some pushing and squeezing, but nobody was hurt.

Billy Arlington, the old-time minstrel, is giving monolog entertainments. Billy did not make a success of the lecture field with his lecture on "Life's Problems." It was a great lecture. He used to come on the platform arrayed in a velvet swallow-tail, and say, "My lecture is entitled 'Life's Problems.' Life is a very funny thing. I will now give you imitations of a colored man with his banjo," and he would sit down and reel off his old minstrel songs and gags until his time was up. Once he went to Chelsea, Mich., to lecture for the benefit of a graveyard. When he came back he said "the graveyard quit loser."

A letter received within the last few days from Signor Salvini, who wrote from his home in Florence, says: "I am rapidly recovering from the effects of that bad fall. It shook me terribly and I am still lame like Vulcan, but shall be all right before the 7th of October, when I embark for New York in the Amerique. You who know how much I enjoyed my last visit to your country will readily believe that I look forward with very pleasant anticipation to my approaching tour. I shall, perhaps, attempt "King Lear" when I come to New York. I have, as you know, been studying it for years, and it seems only now that I have acquired its atmosphere."

The regular season of the Union Square Theatre will be opened with an adaptation of the French drama of "La Rantzan," by MM. Erckmann-Chatrian, which was purchased by A. M. Palmer during his recent visit to Paris, and it has scored a great hit at the Comedie Francaise. Mr. Palmer also secured Sardou's new play, which has not yet been named, and in which Sarah Bernhardt will create the leading rôle at the Vaudeville. Joseph Jefferson and Charles Wyndham will play engagements at the Union Square before the opening of the regular season. The company, headed by Miss Sara Jewett and Mr. Frederic de Belleville, has made a great impression on the San Francisco theatre-goers.

Mr. Daly announces revivals in the course of his regular season of "Rule a Wife and Have a Wife" and "She Would and She Would Not." His company will include Miss Ada Rehan, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, Miss Fanny Morant, Miss May Fielding, Miss Helene Stoepel, Miss Lily Coghlan, Miss Virginia Dreher, Miss Mary Shaw, Miss Agnes Perring, Miss Lily Vinton, Miss Lilly Makensie, Mr. H. M. Pitt, Mr. James Lewis, Mr. Charles Fisher, Mr. John Drew, Mr. George Peakes, Mr. Charles Leclercq, Mr. Tom Webber, Mr. William Morris, Mr. W. Beekman, Mr. E. Sterling, Mr. C. Bainbridge, Miss Isabel Evesson, Miss Nelly Howard, Miss Belle Urquhart, Miss Lillian Lewis, Miss Laura Perring, Miss Carrie Hapgood, Miss Ida Aubrey, and Messrs. Harmon and Salem.

Mme. Modjeska recently gave a dinner in London to several Americans. "The soft and fruity wines of Hungary," says the historian of the occasion, "lent additional zest to the delicate and tempting dinner, and after it was over coffee and cigarets were served, in both of which—shall I tell it?—Mme. Modjeska joined the rest of us. Moreover, she seemed to like the mellow smoke from her dainty little roll of Turkish tobacco." The actress was getting ready for an American tour, and she took the opportunity to say that she loved this country and its people ardently; that it was untrue that she had ever called us barbarians or ignoramuses. This was how she praised us: "I think the American mind is particularly subtle and quick in its perceptions. The people follow an actor or actress more closely than is the case in other countries. They seize instantly upon the meaning of every gesture, every inflection, every expression, and they quickly respond to every appeal directed at their emotions. It is this great responsiveness which enables an artist to throw himself or herself into the part in hand with a fervor that cannot otherwise be achieved. It produces magnetism."

Cleveland Herald: Mary Anderson is one of the strangest combinations that I ever saw; at times she is a woman, then again she appears like a child, only to change herself into a person having the airs and ways of a sophomore at college. She is a Roman Catholic, you know, and some days she will begin the campaign by an attendance at early mass, from which she returns with a superfluity of childish spirits and cuts up all manner of pranks upon the members of her troupe. By the time this phase of her character has been displayed she is tired, and seeks the solace of a cigaret; and I remember one day standing opposit the hotel and noticing a cloud of smoke coming out of a third-story window, I naturally looked up to discover the source. It proved to be Mary Anderson and her cigaret, and as soon as she saw that my attention was directed her way she gave a saucy toss of her head, took the weed from her mouth, and as true as preaching that girl closed her teeth and spit between them clear over the gutter and well out toward the middle of the street. That night when she called to Ingomar in that captivating way of hers I must own the spell which she had cast over me was broken, and the illusion was fled.

Musical Matters.

Remenyi will take his fiddle to Cuba and Mexico next winter.

Christine Nilsson will sail for New York on the 14th of next month.

The next attraction at Central Music-Hall will be Emma Thursby in concert.

Mr. Emil Liebling will return Tuesday, the 12th inst., when he will resume his teaching as usual.

The Paris papers say that Mierzwinski, the tenor who is to accompany Patti to this country, will receive $4,000 a night.

Signor Del Puente will sail for this country on the steamer City of Berlin Sept. 30, to engage with Mme. Nilsson in the concerts to be given under the management of Mr. Abbey.

Mr. Healy, the American painter in Paris, has at last parted with his fine portrait of Miss Emma Thursby, and that lady will bring it home to this country this fall when she comes for her concert tour.

Mr. Henry Schoenfeld, who was absent from the city several weeks, spending his vacation at the home of his parents in Milwaukee, has returned, and is in good trim for the fall and winter musical campaign.

A portion of the Chicago Church Choir company have engaged to give some of the popular operas at the West-End Opera-House. The "commonwealth plan," which made the success of the Boston Ideals, has been adopted.

Among the best organizations for concerts during the coming season is that of which Miss Henrietta Beebe and Mme. Chatterton Bohrer are the principals. These artists will be assisted by Mr. Jameson, tenor; Mr. Franko, Mr. Jonas, and Mr. Charles E. Pratt.

Rive-King's success in San Francisco was remarkable, averaging $708.70 per concert and clearing between $5,000 and $6,000 from the tour. Joseffy and Wilhelmj did nothing like this business, but they no doubt prepared the way and helped Mme. King toward success.

Miss Florence Adell Oakford, the charming contralto with the Litta grand concert company last year, and whose rich and mellow voice won for her many admirers while with that troupe, will not travel this season, as she has been engaged as contralto in the Jewish Reform Synagog, corner of Twenty-first street and Indiana avenue, for this year. Miss Oakford is the happy possessor of a fine contralto or rather mezzo-soprano voice, and the management of the synagog are to be congratulated on making such an excellent choice.

Mr. Edward Solomon, the author of "Billie Taylor," has arrived in New York from England to superintend in person the production of his new opera, "The Vicar of Bray," which has lately been brought out at the Globe Theatre, London, with great success.

Sig. P. Brignoli joins the Strakosch opera company for a preliminary season of two weeks, beginning Sept. 11. He has recently composed a serenade for tenor, which he will include in his own concert répertoire as a member of the Kellogg-Brignoli concert company.

The Beethoven Society begins the season with its initial rehearsal Tuesday evening, Sept. 12. Verdi's "Requiem Mass" will be taken up, and it is desirable that all the old members, including those who have sung the work with the society before, be present on that evening.

Prof. Frederic Boscovitz, the well-known pianist and teacher, is among those who have returned from their summer rest. He has recommenced the season's work at his rooms in the Pike Building, and we have heard that he has outlined the program of several elegant piano recitals to be given during the coming musical season.

The great organ in the Boston Music-Hall has been sold to a church congregation in a Western city and is soon to be removed. Years ago this organ was considered one of the finest in the United States. Organ concerts were given to display the instrument, but the concerts were not remunerative, and now the organ is to be sold.

Mr. George Werrenrath, the tenor singer, has been singing in Europe the past summer. At Copenhagen he sang in the presence of the King and Queen of Denmark and the King of Greece, each of whom expressed pleasure in person to him at the close of the concert. He attended the Birmingham Festival as the guest of Gounod.

A sacred concert for the benefit of the new parish school will be given this evening in the Cathedral of the Holy Name. A fine musical program has been prepared. The Orpheus Männerchor will sing Möhring's "Prayer"; Ben Owen's "O Miserere Mei Deus" will be sung by Mrs. McGuire and a chorus, and the whole of the "Gloria" will be sung.

Charles Harris arrived from England Sunday on the Spain, and will superintend the production of the comic operas which D'Oyly Carte will bring out at the Standard. The season opens Sept. 25 with "Les Manteaux Noirs," after which "Rip Van Winkle," by Planquette, will be produced. In the latter Mr. Harris will introduce some mechanical effects which he is enthusiastic over.

The Mozart Society rehearsals for the season near at hand commenced Monday evening last, and will be continued as usual every Monday evening. Mr. Bartlett is determined to bring the society to the strictest work, as was manifested at this rehearsal, and as the members are interested in the work in hand there is every reason to believe this society will do some excellent work this season.

Mme Théo's first appearance is announced for Monday evening, the 11th inst., at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, in Offenbach's "Madame l'Archiduc." Mr. Maurice Grau, with his usual enterprise, promises to present the opera with a large company, fresh costumes, and all the seductive attractions of opera bouffe. The professional reputation of Mme. Théo and the assurance of a brilliant performance make it certain that this will be a memorable "first night."

Marie Geistinger's opera company, under the management of Gustave Amberg, will begin the season Oct. 2 at the Germania Theatre, New York. The company engaged is fifty-six members; among them are Miss Emma Seebold, soprano; Adolph Link, comedian; Ad Nowak, conductor; Herr Younker Schultz and wife, formerly of the Thalia; Carlotta Praga, leading soprano, from the Comic Opera at Milan; Fred Schuetz, tenor; Y. Eichheim, baritone, late stage manager of the Vienna Opera-House, and a chorus of thirty voices. The engagement is for four weeks, after which they go on the road. The répertoire comprises fourteen different operas.

During the Bayreuth festival Wagner was holding a reception at his summer retreat, Wahnfried, and, says a visitor, the maestro "was about walking toward Liszt, in the middle of the room, when one of the Englishmen, who had been calmly looking through an opera-glass at the frescoed ceiling, spied him, and at once made for him. 'Mr. Wagner,' he said, in broken German, 'I had such a good time in listening to "Parsifal."' Hardly had Wagner heard the first words, 'had a good time,' before he turned and darted from the room, shrieking as he threw up his hands in dismay: 'If you want to have a good time, go and hear something of Offenbach's!' And that was the last—for that evening—of the maestro and the Englishman."

Mr. William Tomlins is about to form a "Children's Musical Society" for the public performance of songs and cantatas written for children's voices, the practice of which will afford facilities for the acquirement of right habits of singing and the musical and physical development of the singers. Central rehearsals will be held in Apollo Hall Saturday mornings, commencing the 23d inst. Sectional rehearsals will also be held after school hours on one afternoon during the week in each of the three divisions of the city. The membership will be limited to those children who show some aptitude in music—girls between the ages of 9 and 13 years, and boys between 9 and 12. Applications for membership, specifying age, name, and address of applicant, should be made in writing and addressed to William S. Tomlins, No. 202 Michigan avenue.

THE PAXTON.

Formal Opening of the Palace Hotel of Omaha.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 9.—Today the management of the Paxton opened this elegant building for the accommodation of the traveling public. The hotel is situated upon the same site as the Grand Central, which was destroyed by fire in 1878. It is in the business centre of the city, on the corner of Fourteenth and Farnam streets, and is an imposing structure of brick, marble, and granite, six stories in height and 132 feet square. The hotel offices and dining-room are situated on the ground floor, which is laid in marble in variegated colors. On the second floor are the parlors, a few suites of rooms, and the grand lobby. One sinks ankle-deep in the rich Axminster and Brussels carpets with which the floors are laid. The furniture throughout the house is of the richest and most costly description. The number of rooms in the house is 150, the entire cost of building and furnishing over $300,000, and the correspondent can safely say that it compares favorably with the leading hotels of Chicago and New York. The proprietors are the well-known hotel men, Messrs. Kitchen Bros. H. H. Haskins, lately of the Grand Pacific, Chicago, and Mr. Aylesworth, formerly of the Aborn, Des Moines, will officiate as chief clerks.

TO MY OLD FRIENDS.

For The Chicago Tribune.

O true old friends! O kind old friends!
Dear friends I loved of yore!
Your mem'ry dwells within my heart
As I roam from shore to shore.
I've traveled far 'mid splendid scenes,
O'er mountain, hill, and dell,
And many hands I've clasped in mine
That knew and loved me well;
But new-found friends supplant you ne'er,
Ah! still, where'er I roam,
My heart holds fast your mem'ry yet
Dear friends that are at home!

Come, clasp my hands, ye honest friends
That knew me from a child—
With whom so often merrily
I lagging Time beguiled.
I long to feel the fervent press
Of your warm hands again;
I long to hear your voices loved
Call me once more by name.
Time brings great changes to all lives;
Yet, till my days be o'er,
My heart will hold a tender spot
For my dear old friends of yore.

Turf Brevities.

Aldine was on Aug. 31 sold by Mr. Swartz to John Shepard of Boston for $10,000.

A trotting matinée was held yesterday afternoon at the Central Park Driving Association track.

Onondaga is now the property of Milton Young, who paid the Dwyers $7,000 for him, and he proposes to use him as a stallion.

Mr. R. C. Merserau has sold his stallion Scott's Thomas to O. B. Jenkins, of Gallatin, Tenn., for $3,000. He is to be used in the stud.

F. J. Berry & Co. have sold to Mr. W. H. Thatcher, of this city, a handsome road-team that can trot in 2:50. The price paid was $1,000.

Monitor is suffering from an attack of lung-fever, which will probably keep him off the race-track for the remainder of the present season.

Blue Lodge and Mrs. Chubbs were last week sent from Brighton Beach to Commodore Kittson's stock farm at Chestnut Hill, near Philadelphia, where they will be bred next season.

The four draft horses purchased in Europe by Mr. H. V. Bemis for work at the brewery are English and not Norman, as previously stated in THE TRIBUNE. They were shipped here direct from the Isle of Ely and County of Cambridge—the district where this particular heavy breed is noted.

The fresh match between Bend Or and Eole for $10,000 is off. While at exercise on the 2d inst. the former struck himself in the off-foreleg, which filled to such an extent that, rather than run the risk of having so valuable an animal permanently injured, his owner ordered that he be thrown out of training.

The entries for the $10,000 purse offered by D. H. Blanchard for horses of the 2:17 class, to be trotted at Beacon Park, Boston, Sept. 14, mile heats, three in five, in harness, are as follows: N. W. Kittson's Fanny Witherspoon, H. S. Russell's Black Cloud, J. E. Stewart's Helene W. J. Gordon's Clingstone, W. P. Balch's Parana, J. E. Turner's Edwin Thorne, C. S. Green's Humboldt, James Golden's Santa Claus, and L. [illegible] Brown's Aldine.

Bend Or is assigned the top-weight, 12[illegible] pounds, for the Autumn Handicap, to be run for at Washington, D. C., in October. The distance is a mile and six furlongs, and the weights for the other horses are as follows: Checkmate, 114 pounds; Glenmore, 11[illegible] pounds; Lida Stanhope, 107 pounds; Fair Count, 106 pounds; Gen. Monroe, 100 pounds; Compensation, 98 pounds; Virginia, 9[illegible] pounds; Sweet Home, 95 pounds; Ella Warfield, 93 pounds; Infanta, 90 pounds; Col. Watson, 87 pounds.

Cornelia, the bay mare which is trotting so well this season, is 7 years old, and she was bred in Dutchess County. Her sire was Col. Bonner, who was by Mott's Independent, out of a black mare of excellent conformation, but whose hip was down; and her dam was by Chosroes. When Cornelia was first harnessed she kicked everything to pieces and wanted to run away. She worked in front of a grocery wagon for a while, but when she kicked herself loose from it her owner thought it was time to sell. She is now a good actor in harness.

A cablegram states that the official Racing Calendar, Aug. 31, published the weights to be carried in the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire Handicaps. The former, at two miles, two furlongs, and twenty-eight yards, will be run Oct. 10, and the top-weights are J. R. Keene's Foxhall, 4 years, and H. Bragg's Victor Emmanuel, 5 years, each 136 pounds; Pierre Lorillard's Iroquois, 4 years, [illegible] pounds; Duke of Hamilton's Fiddler, [illegible] years, 133 pounds; and Lord Ellesmere's Wallenstein, 5 years, 132 pounds. The Cambridgeshire, one mile and 240 yards, will be run Oct. 24, for which Foxhall is weighted at 135 pounds, as also is Sir John D. Astley's 6-year-old horse Peter. Iroquois has [illegible] pounds and Wallenstein 126 pounds.

Paddy Ryan's Truss.

The details of the prize-fight in Mississippi between Sullivan and Ryan attracted the attention of Dr. A. H. Parker, President of the Common-Sense Truss Co., of Chicago, who felt confident that he could adjust a truss which would securely hold Ryan's rupture. Ryan expresses his views in the matter as follows:

CHICAGO, June 28, 1882.

To the Afflicted: I take pleasure in stating that after many fruitless attempts to secure an effective support, I called on Dr. A. H. Parker, and was fitted with one of his Retentive Common-Sense Trusses which holds my rupture so firmly that I now feel no inconvenience from the injury, and I firmly believe that I shall be actually cured.
